EXCELLENT CHANCE TO GET SEED CORN

Southern Portion of State Will Have to Furnish Seed Corn This Year

The delaying of killing frosts in the southern part of the state is giving the farmers in this section an unusual seed corn opportunity. The early killing frosts killed the corn in the greater part of the state before it was ripe enough for seed. This section will have to be supplied with seed corn and the southern part of the state has the corn that will make the seed. The large proportion of it is now well dented and in good condition for making seed corn. It will, however, have to be gathered and carefully cured. The big grain crop is making big demands on the farmers' time. The saving of seed corn is fully as important if not more so. It will bring a good price in the spring and more than that every bushel of seed corn saved will mean 6 or 7 acres more of corn from North Dakota grown next year. The corn on the breeding plats at the North Dakota experiment station is ripe.

Many farmers are gathering seed corn these days when it has not yet reached the threshing machine. This is a mighty good time to put the time to. The time for saving seed corn will soon be over.

PROJECT IS TO BE CONTINUED

Decision Now Up to Reclamation Service Officials—Favorable Action

Williston, Oct. 5.—In the hands of the United States Reclamation Service now rests the future of irrigation in Williston. With the water users the local project and the city of Williston both agreeing to meet conditions which members of the Irrigation Board of Review personally thought necessary to make the continued operation of the project feasible, the meetings of the board came to a close in this city yesterday.

The members will immediately prepare their report which will be submitted to Secretary Franklin K. Lane and his assistants in the Department of the Interior. Members of the Board of Review and local men who have worked to make possible the continuation of the North Dakota pumping project are now optimistic concerning the future here. It is believed that a working basis has been reached which will not only make possible the continuation of the project for the immediate future, but will assure its final success.

Chairman Gillette of the Board of Review, chosen by both the Reclamation Service officials and the local water users to serve as arbitrator in readjusting affairs on the local project, is especially enthusiastic concerning the future of irrigation here.

"I see nothing but success for the irrigation project here provided all the people of the community continue to support it as they are doing at present. And when this project does become a success it will not only be a great asset for this city but will be an asset for the entire state of North Dakota," said Mr. Gillette last evening.

Mr. Sandford, representative of the Reclamation Service on the Board of Review, while he said he did not desire to intimate in any way what his portion of the report to the government would be, said that with the acreage now signed up for the use of water for irrigation next season and with the enlarged contract from the city he certainly believed the continued operation of the project here feasible and desirable.

Have 3,000 Acres Signed. William G. Owens, representative of the Water Users project, is of the opinion that the committee's report to the Reclamation Service will be entirely favorable so far as operation during the next three years is concerned and believes that with this additional chance the local project will make long steps toward success.

Following the meeting here on Tuesday of the members of the committee, the Water Users on the project made their report of the signing up of 3,000 acres, the owners agreeing to take water for irrigation next season at $2.50 per acre or less. Other conditions at the local power plant were studied and later Commissioner John Bruegger appeared before the committee with a proposition to increase the guarantee of a minimum load for commercial purposes.

If Coffee Came in Capsules

as its drug, caffeine, is frequently sold, coffee drinkers would wake up to the fact that coffee is not a food but a drug.

Yet in spite of the warnings of reputable physicians, many persons fail to realize the harmful effects of caffeine, coffee's subtle, habit-forming drug. Taken regularly this coffee drug—the frequent cause of nervousness, heart-flutter, headache and other ailments—sooner or later gets its hold.

Look coffee in the face—read what physicians and health experts say: (Names on application)

"Coffee is a dope and narcotic almost equal to opium. Slowly but surely it gets control of its victim and holds him in its grasp a pitiful, helpless victim."

"Coffee is a drug. Those addicted to its use are drug addicts."

"Some people get the craving for alcohol by first taking tea or coffee."

"They (the tea and coffee drugs) are comparable to opium in that they induce a habit and should be avoided."

Right now, Mr. Coffee Drinker, is the time to find out whether or not coffee has a hold on you. It's simple and easy—quit coffee for ten days and use
