GOVERNOR HANNA HAS NAMESAKE

Receipt of Old Book Leads to Discovery of Another L. B.

Hanna

The receipt of an old copy of Tennyson's and Wordsworth's poems yesterday, gave Governor Hanna his first intimation of the fact that he has a name sake in the country.

The book was secured by Dr. Neil in a collection of second hand books which he purchased some time ago. On the flyleaf was the following inscription: "Presented to L. B. Hanna, by his mother, on his 18th birthday. The inscription was dated November 10, 1890.

Governor Hanna was greatly amused over discovering a namesake, and facetiously remarked that he would get into communication with him at once, in an effort to learn what the L. and B. stand for.

While no attempt will be made to divulge the age of the Governor, it is a fair hazard that he was well past his teens in the year 1890.

Its a rather rare coincidence, however, that the book should find its way from Ohio to North Dakota, and after a period of 25 years, get back to the supposed owner. Most books fall to return, but the volume which the Governor now has, will eventually find its way back to its old owner, if he can possibly be located.

WOMEN MURDERED IN MILL CITY HOTEL

Minneapolis, Minn., Oct. 8.—While apparently seeking to escape from an enemy who is supposed to have followed her for more than 1,000 miles, Mrs. Katherine Arnold of Buffalo, N. Y., was slain early today in a small hotel here by a man, who boldly waded into the place and asked to see her. She was checked and badly beaten, but no one in the hotel heard cries for help or any other commotion.

Following the identification of the woman and the story of her efforts to avoid some person she feared, the police held hotel attendees as witnesses and sought several other persons with whom she was acquainted and saw her in the five days she was alive in the city.

Breach of Promise Suit Against

Dr. Hill Promises Some

Surprises

Chicago, Oct. 8.—Bills for expensive hats, gowns, French blouses and other dainty apparel, for jewelry and other gifts, will be offered in evidence in the $100,000 breach of promise suit of Miss Lucille Covington against the Rev. John Wesley Hill, former pastor of Metropolitan Temple, New York city. From the time she asserts Dr. Hill proposed marriage to her in Chicago in July, 1910, until the summer of 1914, when their friendship ceased, she says that he lavished gifts upon her, and wrote more than 200 letters, several of which she will offer in evidence. She will exhibit a solitaire which, she says, was the engagement ring he gave to her.

Miss Covington, when asked whether she had any evidence, other than her word that the lecturer had made love to her, said:

"Indeed, I have. I can show where he gave me all manner of gifts, and they include a diamond ring, which weighed one and one-half carats. I was in Chicago when Dr. Hill proposed to me. At that time he was filling lecture engagements in cities west of Chicago. At every opportunity he came to Chicago to see me."

"There were other gifts he made to me until his presents stopped in the summer of 1914. This opal (indicating a ring on her left hand) was one of his last presents."

"His gifts were not limited to jewelry and I received presents of suits, hats and imported French blouses."

"What was Doctor Hill's taste in suits?" she was asked. Those he bought for me were expensive; never less than $35 and some were higher priced," she said.

"And hats?"

"They were always good hats, ranging in price from $25 to $65 a piece," she replied.

Why the engagement came to an end, she refused to say, asserting she would say that for the suit.

Regarding the correspondence with Dr. Hill, Miss Covington said:

"I received all of 200 letters from Dr. Hill while we were engaged. All of them were supposed to be strictly business letters of the 'Dear Miss Covington' type but they were not. They were written with the intent that I should read between the lines. 'I was able to and I am sure the jury will.'"

In a debate with Dr. Bonck White, the Socialist preacher, in New York two years ago, Dr. Hill was quoted as saying in reply to an assertion that he was pastor for a wealthy congregation:

"I never have received more than

WINCHESTER

HIGH POWER RIFLES

.33, .35, AND .405 CALIBERS

Winchester Repeating Rifles of either of the above mentioned calibers have the necessary hitting power and penetration to make them dependable big-game guns. Besides being hard hitters, they work easily and surely and are accurate in the extreme.

The .33 Caliber is made in the popular 1886 Model, having a tubular magazine. It can be had in solid frame or take-down style, with either full or half magazine.

The .35 and .405 calibers, Model 1895, are made with box magazines and in solid frame or take-down styles.

If interested in big-game hunting one of these rifles will surely please you.

the series, when Whitted hit a short grounder to Berry, who got up to the ball too late to nip off the flying tractor.

This run seemed for several innings to be the only one that either team could put across.

Lewis Makes Hit

Speaker, however, was given a base on balls in Boston's half of the eighth after Scott was out, and went to second on Hablitzel's infield hit. Lewis who had fanned on his two previous trips to the plate, singled to the left, and Speaker scored, "Duffy" taking second on the throw in. It was here that Patchell saved the game with his startling stop of Gardner's drive.

The way Shore and Alexander were working at this time indicated that the game might go into extra innings, but in the Phillies half of the eighth came the decision. Alexander proved an easy out. Shore got a hit carelessly and passed Scott. Bancroft then shot the ball over second which gave Berry the opportunity to make a miracle stop with his bare right hand. Berry started to toss the ball to second to force Scott, but the bag was bare.

Too late Sarry realized his duty and there were two on instead of two out.

The Philadelphia crowd set up a terrific din as Paschett was given a base on balls, filing the bases.

Two More Runs

"Hit'er out Gaby," yelled the crowd as the home run slugger came to the plate. Cravath tried hard to accommodate and drove a hot grounder to Sarry. There was little time to get Scott at the plate as he scored as Sarry threw out Cravath, the other runners moving up. Luderus hit a slow grounder which Shore had trouble getting, and Bancroft rushed home with the Phillies' third run.

Alexander Is Star

Alexander outpitched Shore in every way except in the number of hits allowed. "Alex" gave but two bases on balls as against Shore's four, and he struck out six men while Shore fanned but two Boston had nine men left on bases as against Philadelphia's five.

The game was played under a brilliant sun with scarcely a cloud in the sky. The grounds were filled to the limit despite the fact that the official attendance was announced as 19,343, probably the smallest crowd that ever witnessed the start of a world's series.

The total receipts were $1,066. There is much speculation tonight as to the batteries for tomorrow's game. It seems taken for granted that Moran's choice for the Phillies would be either Chalmers or Mayer, while Carrigan will send either Foster or Leonard in for the Red Sox.
