MARINES CELEBRATE 250TH ANNIVERSARY

The Hague, Dec. 25.—The Dutch marine corps, popularly known in the Netherlands as "Soldiers and Sailors," celebrated the 250th anniversary of its formation at Willemsoord on December 10. Although the corps has had a history of gallant deeds in every quarter of the globe, the celebration was held under the cloud of possible disbandment, for there is an inclination in official circles to abolish the corps altogether in the near future, as its usefulness is believed to have disappeared under modern conditions of naval warfare. Gradual reduction of the number of officers has been going on for some time and for several years no appointment to the commissioned ranks have been made. The marines, however, have been maintained at a high state of efficiency, and among the Dutch people they are more popular than any other troops.

Dutch Admiral De Ruyter that the corps came into existence. Only two years later, in 1667, the corps took part in the Dutch naval raid on Chatham in England. For two and a-half centuries since their daring exploits have included the Spanish war of succession against the French at Cadix; the storming of Gibraltar in alliance with the British marines in 1704; the capture of Barcelona; and battles in Spain against the French at Madrid, Alicante and Saragossa. For many years they fought in the Dutch colonies, suppressing native uprisings, and in colonial expeditions against England and France. It was in the latter campaign that the Dutch marines were forced to capitulate, after a hard fight at the Cape of Good Hope, in 1806, and South Africa thus fell into British hands. Since the beginning of the last century, except for the Belgian revolution in 1830, the Dutch marines have been employed solely in navy duty and colonial wars, but they have scarcely ever been idle.
