JUDGE BRUCE GIVES TALK BEFORE LOCAL SUFFRAGISTS

Judge A. A. Bruce gave an interesting and instructive address yesterday afternoon before the local Suffrage association and its friends at a meeting held in the home of Dr. and Mrs. E. P. Quain in Sixth street. Dr. Bruce gave a general review of the laws of the United States from the beginning to the present time. He covered in detail the laws of North Dakota, pertaining to women and children. In his resume he covered the laws pertaining to property rights for the woman, divorce, educational and professional. The laws of North Dakota gives adequate protection as regards those subjects as shown by his address, but the speaker made an appeal for better laws for the protection of women. Laws for the protection of society falls very much below those which govern the minor offenses, was clearly defined in his speech. Judge Bruce was given quite an ovation for his splendid address.

Mrs. Robert Clendening of Wimbledon, state president of the Suffrage association, gave an interesting talk on "The Woman's Movement." She gave a review covering a greater part of the history of the Woman's Movement in America. Mrs. H. P. O'Hare contributed a group of songs.

A Million Mothers behind the purest, cleanest, most nutritious of all cereal foods—Shredded Wheat. They have tested it and found it best for youngsters, best for grown-ups—a food to work on, to play on, to think on. Remington and Mrs. Mary Corwin. Mrs. Hancock gave a very entertaining and instructive address on "Church Work." The meeting was very well attended and an enjoyable social hour followed the program.

ELECTRICITY IN KITCHEN.
A recently published book on domestic engineering represents the findings of a group of women who formed a household experiment station to ascertain how far it was possible to go in eliminating servants and yet be free from drudgery. Labor-saving devices were installed and tested.

"The first purchase," says the Edison Monthly, "was a general utility motor. Next on the list Mrs. Pattison ranks a vacuum cleaner, a mangle and an electric flatiron. Perhaps the most interesting piece of household equipment that has come to my knowledge," she writes, "is the electric dish washing machine. The wonder is that women have so long been slaves to dishpans, cloths, mops, towels and all other unsanitary and unhygienic means."

DRESS REFORM PLANNED.
The standardization of women's dress, in an effort to avoid extremes of fashion, is being undertaken by the department of home economics of the School of Agriculture of the University of Missouri.

A bulletin issued by the university says the plan contemplates the standardization of the entire wardrobe, but thus far only the dress has been designed.

The dress is characterized as "hygienic and comfortable, permitting full freedom of motion at work or at play," and is without trimming or excessive material. Here is a description:

"The skirt is made of four pieces with a seam at the back, and opens in the front. This allowing for ample width, 2½ to 3 yards, depending on the size of the person. "It is simple to make because only one seam needs staying, and in order that it be made perfectly hygienic and comfortable when worn without a corset, it is suspended from the shoulders by means of an underwaist made to some thin material. "The waist is a blouse falling down

Elizabeth and Charles W. Gillett, Jr. A big battle in a Chicago court has just been waged over the custody of these children. Their father is Charles W. Gillett, and their mother, who was given their custody when she secured her divorce, is Mrs. H. J. Bryant, she having married again. The judge held that the mother could keep the children, but that the father might see them once each week.

over the hips and held in slightly at the waist by a loose belt. "The fullness can either be fixed into a belt, the lower part being in the form of a pleatum, or it may be held in loosely, as in a Norfolk blouse."

FASHION NOTES.
A new weave like hop sacking is intended to take the place of gabardine.

Some of the new hats are curiously like the old-fashioned beavers of 1830 or 1840.

Some evening frocks boast the dainty caught-up draperies of the Watteau period.

The high Napoleonic collars go well with the buttons fastening the long-waisted coat.

Even silk or brocade handbags are now being trimmed with fur to match the gown.

Tippet shoulder capes of velvet are among the old-fashioned features revived.

A sort of knitted stockinet called tweed is a delightfully elastic material for golfing suits.

Beware of buying extremely short skirts; the fashion may change to moderately long.

The loose full coat is kindest of all to the feminine figure, not to mention being very smart.

Sleeves are almost the most important part of a dress, so elaborate and interesting are they.

Collars high in the back and open in front are in greater favor than those high all around.
