NORTH SEA BATTLE.

Germany has given England's naval supremacy a rude jolt. It is idle for the British admiralty to attempt to explain away the German victory. The submarine campaign of the Teutons has decreased England's tonnage materially and the latest victory upon the open sea is a staggering blow to the British sense of security.

MAKING HAY FOR T. R.

The action of the House in defeating amendments to the naval bill proposing additional war ships is a big boost for Roosevelt. The most simple-minded man can read the signs of the times. All over the country monster preparedness parades are being held and patriotism is sweeping the country like a prairie fire. The demand for a greater navy than provided for in the House bill comes from all classes and men of all political persuasions. It is properly not a party issue, but the short-sighted Democratic leaders have chosen to make it so by their action of Tuesday and at a psychological moment, Roosevelt, most cannily, is making preparedness the leading issue and it is largely because of the tremendous impetus given to his candidacy by the opponents of the measure in Congress.

History is repeating itself. As it has done time and time again, when in power, the Democratic party is slaying the goose which lays the golden egg.

The General Federation of Women's Clubs, at its convention, defeated a motion designed to facilitate the admission of men's clubs into the federation.

We guess it's better so. It would be a real shock to many a man to find poker chips and billiard chalk in his wife's pocket, instead of hairpins and a powder puff when she got home from a club meeting.

If Winslow's analysis of the milk is as accurate as his water reports, God help the babies of Bismarck. When will the University give Bismarck efficient service?

SHORT ONES.

Our idea of the merriest man is one who by terms of his will bequeaths his wife from marrying again on penalty of losing her rights in his estate.

Wonder what the society leaders among the federated club women in the congregation thought when that New York pastor told them the clubwoman has usurped the place of the "400"? Looks to us as though they had the laugh.

News that Ford may sail June 15 on another peace trip will be cheering to a lot of candidates making jinx campaigns for the republican nomination.

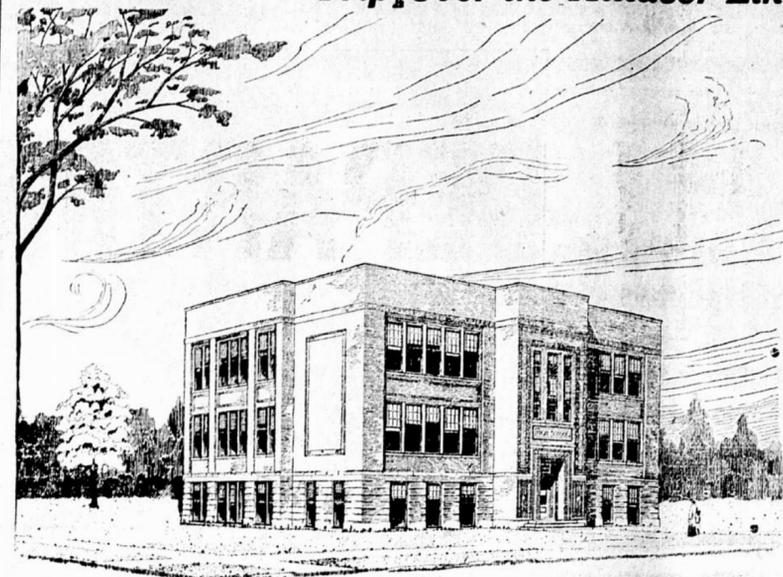

Texas militiamen faint when forced to face doctors armed with hypodermic needles and undergo inoculation with typhus serum. Probably they'd got themselves all keyed up to face an injection of bullets by Mexicans and reaction was too much.

Doc Howard of the United States department of agriculture has discovered that June bugs, grasshoppers and other insects are edible. That's nothing, Doc. The hash foundry, where we eat lunch, has been serving roaches with its green vegetables, for years.

Some Side Lights on Trade Extension Trip Over the Killdeer Line

NEW SCHOOL HOUSE FOR HAZEN

C. M. Henry Holst, the man who put the "Pat" in Patrick-Duluth, is a whole legion unto himself, when it comes to Get-Together affairs of this nature. Heine in the urgent request of the Commercial club, assumed all parade responsibilities from Sanzer on, and his natural capacity for generalship, his wide acquaintanceship, and his geniality and good fellowship contributed greatly to giving Bismarck a favorable introduction to the folks along the line. Mr. Holst's imitation of the blushing, modest violet may deceive some, but Capital City trade extensionists have been given an opportunity to appraise him at his real worth.

Werner has a flowing well of the artesian variety which is a distinct asset. The fountain is located at the station; it is always on the job, and in a dry territory it is bound to be appreciated.

Werner's model creamery took second place in last year's state butter contest, being only a few fractions of one point behind the best in North Dakota. The institution is a growing one, in which Wernerites take just pride.

Werner's consolidated school, erected at a cost of $17,000, on a beautiful site overlooking the town and in plain view from the railroad, is a revelation in what can be accomplished by a really progressive community, born only October 5, 1914, makes up its mind. The building would do credit to a city of several thousand.

Its exterior is unusually attractive, and interiorly it embodies all that is newest and best in school architecture. Folding partitions make it possible to throw half of the main floor into one large auditorium, available for community gatherings, theatricals and so forth. Large as the structure is, Werner confidentially expects to outgrow it in five years, and if its first fifteen months' progress is any criterion, it will easily achieve this enviable ambition.

The stage driver who operates between Killdeer and Dickinson has not yet recovered from the surprise occasioned when a full-fledged city blossomed upon a bare hillside almost overnight. This worthy gentleman drove the party which set out on the exterior of the Killdeer seeking a townsite. He particularly remembers that one of the town-site seekers—a Bismarck gentleman—on this occasion paid $50.00 for a few months-old setter puppy, and to which he took a fancy.

Killdeer's business establishments and its homes are worthy a city several times its size and older by a hundred years or more. The "lay of the land," sloping gradually to the way station, is ideal, and with the large territory which it has to supply, the terminus may be considered as only having begun to grow.

Mayor Wheistone of Killdeer is a real notable. In addition to being the chief executive of this live-wire city, he owns several other towns outright, and, if the people had anything to say about it, he probably might claim ownership to a number of others. And, withal, he is so modest that he refused to preside at a smoker for the Bismarck visitors Friday evening, after everything had been framed up.

Hazen's business fronts are as clean and bright and as generally attractive as one would find in a many one favorably "right off the handle" and the longer one stays the better he likes it.

The drive from Zap to Golden Valley revealed some of the finest and most prosperous farms that can be shown in the great northwest. Everywhere are evidences of thrift, success and progress. The roads as a rule are very good, and where they are not in first class condition, they are receiving attention.

When a town as young as Golden Valley can turn out the number of machines which met the tourists at Zap there can be no question as to the general prosperity of the community. And every Golden Valleyite is proud of his town; glad to talk about it and to show it off to visitors. The location of the appropriately named Little city is remarkably attractive, and, surrounded as it is by rich farming country, peopled with progressive farmers, Golden Valley need not fear for its future.

Stanton boasts of a band that is just as good as its baseball team, which is saying a great deal. Bismarck hopes that it may be able to bring the band to the Capital City for the big mid-summer festival July 3 and 4, when the Stanton diamond dietics will compete for first honors in the two-days baseball tournament. The band is willing to come, and if arrangements can be made a big special train will come in from Stanton.

Beulah's reception of the trade tourists left a most favorable impression. The well-uniformed band displayed an ability creditable to any city, and the hospitality which was shown everyone proved conclusively that Beulah's heart is in the right place.

Dunn Center is soon to have a modern electric light plant and a waterworks. Whether it becomes a county seat or not, the future of the town holds forth great promise. Its flour mill, elevators, lumber yards and other institutions are doing a big business, and it is a trading center for some of the very best country in North Dakota. During the past year the town suffered from a disastrous fire which destroyed its largest and most substantial brick business block. When the new waterworks system gets down to business, the Center expects to organize a capable volunteer department, which will hold the fire demon at bay.

J. G. Arms of Golden Valley is a consistent booster who capably represents the spirit of his town. His accompanying the booster special from Golden Valley to Killdeer and return was a courtesy appreciated by the tourists.

The Northern Pacific officials on board maintained the company's reputation for hospitality and exhibited a real interest in the success of the tour. The party included E. E. Nelson, assistant general passenger agent, and W. A. Cleland, division freight agent, from the St. Paul office; William T. Kraft, traveling freight agent, from Jamestown, and Trainmaster J. J. Mulroy, while Agent W. A. McDonald of Bismarck capably did the honors for his home city.

Francis Falls, the conductor in charge of the dining car service, was especially remembered by the committee named en route, composed of H. J. Duemeland, A. B. Olson and F. O. Clinton, in resolutions commending the Northern Pacific officials for the excellency of the service rendered.

WITH THE MOVIES

ORPHEUM

It is seldom that so many notable artists of the stage and screen are seen in the same production as is the case in "A Corner in Cotton," the five-part Metro wonderplay, which will be presented here at the Orpheum theatre today. The cast is headed by Marguerite Snow, one of the most charming and gifted of screen stars, who has a notable following wherever motion pictures are shown. Miss Snow appears at her best in this newest Metro feature. Her recent work in "The Upstart," "Rosemary," and other Metro features, made her many new friends.

Next in importance perhaps is Frank Bacon, the foremost character actor of the stage or screen. He has been seen in "Her Debt of Honor," "Rosemary," and "The Silent Voice," on the Metro program, having made his debut in motion pictures in the last named production.

Lester Cuneo, who has a good role in "A Corner in Cotton," has long been regarded as one of the ablest of artists playing heavy leading roles. Special music tonight.

GRAND

The Grand offers today an exceptional feature for its patrons in presenting the $100,000 star, Mary Pickford, in her latest screen success, "Behind the Scenes." Mary Pickford gives a pathetic charm and winsome grace to the dainty little actress who is the heroine of "Behind the Scenes," the charming drama of theatrical life by Margaret Mayo, authoress of the famous farce, "Baby Mine," and the current comedy success, "Twin Beds." As Dolly Lane, Mary Pickford stirs the pulse and grips the heart, and gives one of the best screen performances of her career.

There will be specially arranged concert music for this production played by the Grand orchestra at the matinee and night shows.

BISMARCK

The scenic backgrounds selected are of unusual beauty and the call of the outdoor is felt in every inch of Eastman. The mining district of Cobalt, Ontario is the setting for the greater share of the picture and there is careful attention paid to the scenes taken on board the millionaire's yacht, when Gresham is determined to get to his bank in time to prove to the clearing house committee that he is solvent and in so doing, foils the Baylis attempt to take his mine away from him.

It is not alone on account of the gripping dam scenes that "The Dollar Mark" will mark an epoch in the motion picture world, but also because of the virility and unassuming Americanism with which the producer and author have filled the picture, that it is regarded by reviewers as one of the most genuine American pictures offered to feature film exhibitors. At the Bismarck Theatre tonight only.

GOV. HANNA TALKS

AT ST. ANTHONY

Springing a surprise on everyone, Governor L. R. Hanna yesterday completely ignored the subject of politics when he addressed several hundred people at a big meeting at St. Anthony held in the Catholic Order of Foresters' hall there. The governor spoke in an interesting manner concerning his recent trip to Germany and other points with the Ford peace party and later, after he left the aggregation of pacifists.

The hall was packed to the doors.

farmers from miles around St. Anthony attending. Mandan people were also present, and the gathering was the occasion of the meeting of many politicians and candidates for offices, including John Lawler, Mike Cantwell, Bill Burness, A. V. Schallert, Frank McQuillan, I. N. Steen, J. M. Hanley and others.

After the meeting at St. Anthony Sunday morning, Governor Hanna went to Stone, where he addressed a large gathering at the Stone Lutheran church in the afternoon. He spoke of the share the Scandinavian people have had in the building up of this great state, and told of his recent trips to Europe. His audience was very appreciative of his talk.

What He Found

"Having drunk an excellent cup of coffee" said a certain physician, "I found that I hadn't drunk coffee, but Postum!"

Numbers of people, like this doctor, have been pleasantly surprised at the pleasant aroma and snappy, Java-like taste of Postum.

And yet, Postum doesn't contain a particle of coffee—and better still, not particle of the drug, caffeine, nor any other harmful substance.

Postum is made from wheat, roasted with a bit of wholesome molasses—a pure food-drink that is both healthful and delicious. A great many sufferers from headaches, "coffee heart," nervousness, sleeplessness and other ills brought on by the use of coffee with its nerve-destroying drug, caffeine, have found happy relief by quitting coffee and using

POSTUM

"There's a Reason"

Postum comes in two forms: Postum Cereal—the original form—must be boiled; Instant Postum—soluble—is made in the cup with hot water, instantly. The cost per cup is about the same, and both kinds are equally delicious when made right.
