

CONDITION IS GREATLY IMPROVED

Judge W. S. Casselman Rapidly Recovering from Painful Injuries

Friends of Judge W. S. Casselman will be delighted to learn that his condition is greatly improved and that he will soon be able to leave the St. Alexius hospital, where he has been confined, owing to painful injuries received while at work on his farm near Braddock, in Emmons county.

Mr. Casselman was working in the fields with his team when a bolt dropped out of the rake, the wagon tongue dropping and the horses taking fright. He was thrown astride the tongue and was dragged a considerable distance. The frightened steeds dashed toward the barn and Mr. Casselman was knocked unconscious when they made their way through the doorway with him still clinging to the reins in attempt to control them.

He was rushed to the St. Alexius hospital by automobile, Mr. McCasker of Braddock accompanying the injured man. His wounds were dressed and latest reports state that he is recovering rapidly.

McLachan at Hospital.
Capt. McLachan, Bismarck surgeon, is stationed at the field hospital which is located in the Mercedes hospital. The building looks like a Spanish millionaire's home. It is a big white concrete structure with wide corridors and verandas, and a courtyard with second floor verandas on three sides. The hospital staff has taken the second floor. The porches and big airy rooms make it a splendid place for hospital work and it is absolutely weather proof. At Llano Grande, three miles away, the house used for the field hospital has been found inadequate and a $15,000 hospital building will be constructed by the government. The building now used was for years the hunting lodge of a rich Mexican ranch owner.

Men of the North Dakota regiment are jockeying with both the Minnesota and Indiana troops for a match between one of their men and Roy Treager. Treager was champion light weight fighter of the regular army when he left the service about a year ago. There are some light weights with reputations in both the Minnesota and Hoosier outfits and a fine mill is expected at an early day. The two saloons in operation are on ground held for many years by rich Mexicans.

NEW EQUIPMENT FOR REGIMENT

(By W. E. Mulligan.)
Mercedes, Tex., Aug. 18.—New equipment for the First North Dakota regiment was distributed among the men today.

Latest regulation shoes, socks, underwear, shirts and hats were given to the men, but the North Dakotans were disappointed when they learned that they could not receive the khaki breeches they ordered. Khaki breeches were distributed this week to the Minnesota and Indiana regiments and the supply was exhausted. The North Dakotans must sweater in their heavy breeches until the next issue of clothing is received from the government.

Marching distances are being increased and next Friday the North Dakotans will tramp to the Rio Grande and back, a total distance of 12 miles, carrying canteens and haversacks.

By the end of the fifth week in camp the North Dakota soldiers will be making these long hikes in heavy marching order.

A party of North Dakotans made a trip to the Rio Grande yesterday and saw many Mexicans on both American and Mexican soil.

STRIKE SITUATION COMES TO CRITICAL STAGE

tance, the officials said they believed there would be no hasty decision. Mr. Wilson explained to the railroad officials that he had drawn up the plans because he thought it fair and because he believed a way must be found for averting a strike. He urged them to demonstrate a spirit of concession and to assist him in settling the controversy. Tonight the railroad officials held another long conference at their hotel.

WOULD NOT ACCEPT EIGHT-HOUR PRINCIPLE

St. Paul, Aug. 18.—Louis W. Hill, president of the Great Northern Railroad company, tonight said that that railroad, in common with other railroads of the northwest, would never accept the eight-hour day principle, as its adoption would mean receivership for the big railroads of the country. Whatever the outcome of the conference at Washington, in which the Great Northern heads have not participated, his road should not accept the eight-hour day principle, Mr. Hill said, even though it had "to stand out alone against it."

GET ESCAPED PRISONER WORKING NEAR OAKES

J. J. King, Who Got Away From Pen Twice, Recaptured in Dickey County

J. J. King, a prisoner at the State penitentiary who escaped twice since June 1, was recaptured yesterday and returned to the custody of Warden Talcott.

King got away first while working in the brickyard. He was recaptured two weeks later near Aberdeen. Three days later he was the ringleader of the gang that pried loose bricks in the prison wall and crawled out.

He was found in the jungles near Oakes, where he had hired out to do some work. He was brought to Bismarck by Deputy Sheriff Singleton of Dickey county.

One of the first clues that Warden Talcott followed was some of the eight men who escaped that day left the same night with the troop trains for Mexico. The trains were searched several times before they reached the border, but not before they got to Oakes. It is believed that King may have dropped off near that city. It was thought that the negro porters may have assisted the prisoners readily, because there were two colored men in the bunch that made the get-away.

FATS TRIM THEIR BITTER RIVALS

17. Heavy hitting was the feature and many knocks for extra bases were registered by members of both aggregations.

Both teams appeared on the diamond with "brand" new uniforms. The uniforms of the Fats consisted of overalls of a beautiful blue, striped shirts and felt sombrero. (Fancy work was the diversion.) The Leans appeared in suits of khaki, dark colored shirts and caps advertising Pillsbury's Best. City Commissioner Kirk did the receiving for the Fat men's aggregation and wore a regulation baseball uniform. This fact nearly caused a riot before the game was called as it was declared by the Lean men that in a contest of this kind Spaulding's rules clearly defined that all regulation suits must be barred. After the fracas the conquering heroes were served a delightful luncheon, consisting of bread the having for the Leans and twirled in good form up to the fifth, when he was replaced by Bauers, Chief Downing wore the breast protector and mask. Carl Kostitzky was the spit ball artist for the Fats and got by nicely. He was forced, on many occasions, to resort to the water pail in order to work up juice enough to make his spitter work.

Another feature of the contest was the enthusiasm displayed by everyone in attendance and particularly a large crowd of rooters occupied seats in the upper extremity of the grand stand. Cheer leader Louis Goldman was in charge and under his able guidance the rooters worked themselves into a frenzy. "Abe" was in absolute command of his forces at all times. He is a representative of a health and accident insurance company and the majority of his cheerers were for Kirk. Tom Shanley claims he is attempting to get on the right side of the husky catcher so that he can sell him some insurance.

The Game.
In the first frame the Fats failed to score, but their opponents were more successful and registered one. In the second they added another to their string, but the Fats did better than that and sent three runs across. Hall connected for two sacks and Kirk clouted the pill for a homer. Clifford was hit by a pitched ball, Yates slammed a tough one to short and Germain booted the sphere to the outfield, Clifford ambling home on the error.

Score, 3-1.
In the third the Fats again scored three runs. Clooten connected for three sacks and came in when Kostitzky slammed one through short. Hall again connected for two sacks. The Kaiser going to third. Kirk smashed out a single, Kostitzky throwing her into high and scampering in. Hall stopped at third to repair a blowout, but after getting his engine working smoothly, romped over the rubber. The center fielder finally grabbed the pill and threw to second, Kirk being caught at the sack as he stopped between the initial sack and that station for more gasoline.

In the fourth the Fats got another Yates walked and made two or three starts for second, figuring on pilfering the second sack. Somebody suggested that they put Sheriff French on second to catch him stealing. Yates finally went to second and also stole third. He came in on a wild pitch.

It must be remembered that all this time the Leans were going out in one, two, three order. In the fifth the Fats again scored three, this seeming to be their lucky number. Clooten walked and Kostitzky played a beautiful combination in the safe pocket and was safe at first. Hall connected for a single and was safe, but Clooten was caught at the plate. Kirk came to bat and booted the ball hard, making another long end run for a touch-down, Kostitzky and Hall forming perfect interference and clearing the way to the plate.

In the sixth the Fats got four more and in the seventh made a few more passes, doubled their money and scored six. The Leans also grabbed four in this frame. Score, 20-6.

In the last inning, which, incidentally, was the seventh, as the participants were all worn out with their ex-

For what kind of wages? That is the first great point. Well, at wages distinctly less than men's! In France women that take men's jobs usually get men's pay; but not here.

When the government began to employ women in the munition shops it announced a minimum wage for them of 5.25 a week. For various reasons it hasn't been able to stick to this, but still, as a rule, it does better than private employers.

Private employers are paying women $3.25 to $5 a week in jobs where men used to get $5 to $7 a week. Generally speaking, women are getting about 72 per cent. of the wages formerly paid to men (not wages men get now.)

How do women pan out as workers? That's the next great point. We have official testimony about it—the report of the chief factory inspector, no less—and it says: "Revelation of their own hitherto unsuspected and undeveloped capacity has undoubtedly come as a surprise to many women engaged in unfamiliar war work. They have learned they are capable of better things."

So has the rest of the nation! Brethren, all this means big changes

HEALTH CONFERENCE BROUGHT TO AN END

Washington, Aug. 18.—With a warning that, unless measures are found for its suppression, the infantile paralysis epidemic may advance next summer, the national conference of health officers adjourned today, after adopting resolutions for the checking of the plague.

Co-operation among local, state and federal health authorities for curbing the epidemic was emphasized as imperative in resolutions adopted, and resolutions were recommended to control travel from epidemic zones of children 15 years of age and under by issuance of uniform travel permits and notification of their destination, but without an interstate quarantine.

Delegates to the conference, which included health officers from 40 states and many experts from the federal health service, expressed confidence tonight that the two days' exchange of views on all aspects of the disease would result in vitalizing the campaign against it. Advisory local quarantine rules, adopted largely from the New York City code, were approved.

WOMEN INVADE EVERY LABOR IN ENGLAND

2000 have gone to work about coal mines and 100 in quarries. Up to July 1, outside of the munition shops, 533,000 women had entered industrial pursuits. In the same time the munition shops had taken on 519,000 women. This is a total of 1,157,000 women at work for wages in Great Britain that were not so at work August 4, 1914.

For what kind of wages? That is the first great point. Well, at wages distinctly less than men's! In France women that take men's jobs usually get men's pay; but not here.

When the government began to employ women in the munition shops it announced a minimum wage for them of 5.25 a week. For various reasons it hasn't been able to stick to this, but still, as a rule, it does better than private employers.

ertions, the Leans made a desperate effort to retrieve lost ground and started a batting rally. They scored 11 runs, but fell short by three, the Fats getting the decision, but not on a knock out.

Erroneous ball was another feature. Here! Here! Take that guy out!

At any rate the players and the fans on hand to see them in action were well satisfied and, incidentally, the fund for an ambulance for the First regiment, North Dakota national guard received fresh impetus. All of the proceeds will be turned over to the ambulance fund and, from all reports, it will not be long before the North Dakota boys will be presented with the conveyance.

BOARD OF EQUALIZATION CONTINUES ITS HEARINGS

The county auditors were again heard yesterday at the session of the State board of equalization. The only complaints have been in regard to real estate being assessed too high.
