

WILD DAYS ON BORDER PASSING

Big Wages Changed Them.

But White says the advent of bigger wages than they had ever dreamed of, and the new feeling of improvement in the Valley that had deepened so long, transformed some of the most worthless ne'er-do-well Mexicans into brisk business men. He told of a Mexican who for years had lived happily on what his wife earned taking in washing. One day he astonished Mexicans and Americans alike by going to work on the new canal. A little while later he created a tornado of ejaculations in the Mexican quarter by buying a lot. At the end of the year he had several lots and house on one of them, all paid for. He is a well-to-do hustler today.

Another ne'er-do-well was a wood-chopper. "Anytime he sold a half dollar's worth of wood, he was good for a two days mescal drunk," said White. "We thought he was a pretty bad Mexican. He was certainly worthless in those days. The northern men came in and the canal building started, and men around him were making money. He went to work. Pretty soon he bought a team. I don't believe he has loaded two days in succession, or been drunk when the sun rose on a working day, for six years. And he is worth a lot of money."

"I have found the Mexicans easy to control. We worked eight hundred on this canal, when it was building, and I used to take their week's wages in cold cash down the canal every Saturday. Judge Silver was nervous and asked if I wouldn't better take a guard. "There's no use taking a guard into camps of eight hundred men," I told him. "If they don't rob me, a few rifles aren't going to stop them." But I was never robbed."

CAPT. M. LACHLIN TO RETURN

By EWING LEWIS.

Mercedes, Texas, Aug. 29.—Capt. Thomas M. Lachlin of the hospital corps of the North Dakota regiment will leave Mercedes tomorrow for Bismarck, pending acceptance of his resignation by the war department.

His absence will be classed as a furlough for 20 days. Capt. Lachlin said tonight that if America was at war he would willingly sacrifice his business to his flag, but with conditions as they are, he feels that his profession is paramount.

"It looks like peace with Mexico," he said, "and I feel that I am more needed at home than here."

He leaves the regiment in splendid health. The North Dakota regiment is now using Llano Grande, three miles west, as its base hospital. Major Patterson is on furlough and Captain Neil McLean will be ranking officer of the hospital corps tomorrow.

MISSIONARIES REVIEW WORK IN ORIENT

A large audience of church people of the city interested in missions attended the meeting last evening in the First Baptist church, when four returned missionaries to India, China and Japan gave interesting talks on their work in the Orient. The meeting was opened by Rev. Bruce E. Jackson, pastor of the church, and later was turned over to Miss Eleanor Mare, secretary of the home administration department of the Woman's American Baptist Foreign Missionary society.

The speakers included Mrs. Wathne, who is stationed in India; Miss Hewey, of China; Miss Mead and Miss Camp, of Japan. One of the interesting points brought out in the talk given by Miss Mead was the great cooperation extended the missionaries by the government officials of Japan. Miss Mead has been in Japan for the last 26 years.

WHEAT YIELDS AND GRADES LOW IN INKSTER DISTRICT

Inkster, N. D., Aug. 29.—Practically all wheat threshed so far in this district has graded No. 4 Northern, and it is yielding only six to nine bushels an acre. Early barley is a good yield, of a fair grade, while the oats also are turning out satisfactorily.

USE CHAUTAUQUA PROFITS FOR ROAD BUILDING

McVie, N. D., Aug. 29.—Profits of the McVie Chautauqua will be employed in road building, the McVie commercial club making such decision because of the fact that the farmers' patronage was largely responsible for the profits made, and the club is willing to expend the funds where they will benefit the farmers to the greatest extent.

DESPONDENT WILLISTON FARMER TAKES LIFE

Williston, N. D., Aug. 29.—Walter Adlyman, 47, residing on a farm near this city, committed suicide by hanging, despondency growing out of financial difficulties being the cause. So Frank arrived Wednesday in St. Paul to be married; but the ceremony is being delayed until Henrietta can be located in one of the city's 200 hotels.

NO DELAY IN BUILDING OF G. N. EXTENSION

Wilton, N. D., Aug. 29.—Reports that the extension of the Wildrose branch of the Great Northern to Gretnora might not be completed this season owing to the lighter wheat crop than expected, have been practically denied by a telegram from Great Northern officials to interested parties.

Rail laying operations will begin on September 4, according to the announcement of the officials and will continue until the line is completed. It is pointed out that more than 400,000 of the 600,000 cubic yards of dirt necessary to move to complete the line have already been moved and that large crews of men are now at work on the largest cuts.

NORTH DAKOTA THRESHING SHOWS VERY LIGHT YIELDS

LaMoure, N. D., Aug. 29.—Early threshing returns from this district indicate yields are about as expected, the reports showing yields from 8 to 14 bushels an acre.

On the Downing farm near here, 100 acres of durum yielded 1,200 bushels; John Young obtained a yield of only five and a half bushels of rye; and A. R. Lawrence had an average of 10 bushels of marquis wheat and seven of durum.

The first full carload of wheat sent from here was No. 4, weighing only 46 pounds a bushel.

Barley is yielding from 15 to 30 bushels an acre.

EQUITY NOTES

General Manager, J. G. Crites received a letter from his father at Gilford, Montana, stating that his wheat would go 50 bushels per acre this year. The crop reports from North Dakota indicate that the crop this year will be between twenty and thirty per cent of what it was last year for the entire state. In the spring there was too much rain for the state, later there was two kinds of rust, blight and hail and there are very few farmers that expect to get thirty per cent as much wheat as they had last year.

WILL HELP CONVENTION

At the meeting of the executive committee of the Association of Commerce this week it was decided to assist the farmers in putting on a great convention in St. Paul on December 5th, 6th and 7th. During the past two years the Association of Commerce have assisted the farmers in every possible way to make their convention a success, and this year will give them more support than ever before. An effort will be made to bring at least ten thousand farmers to St. Paul, December 5th, 6th and 7th.

A LARGE ELEVATOR

The farmers of Canada are following the lead of the Equity Co-operative Exchange and are building at Port Willis terminal elevator with a capacity of 2,500,000 bushels, which is five times as large as the elevator being constructed in St. Paul by the farmers of the northwestern states. Mr. Chas. A. Dunning, of Regina, Canada will be present at the coming National Convention and Celebration on December 5th, 6th and 7th, and tell the farmers of the sites about their struggle in Canada for terminal elevator facilities.

Mr. L. C. Abbey, one of the members of the St. Paul Grain Exchange is erecting a fifty thousand bushel elevator for the purpose of transferring grain, cleaning grain, drying grain, etc.

Mr. L. C. Abbey's elevator will soon be completed and ready to receive grain.

Mr. Burns reports the crops in the vicinity of Roth in very poor condition, though one farmer had already thrashed and his wheat had yielded 22 bushels per acre, but it weighed only 48 pounds to the bushel.

RAWSON MAN CATCHES LIVE RATTLESNAKE

Rawson, N. D., Aug. 29.—C. H. Ludington caused a little sensation in town by bringing in a live rattlesnake cooped in a box covered with wire screen. He captured the reptile last week while mowing hay, and with the assistance of his hired man and a pitchfork succeeded in getting it in the box without killing it. It was about three and one-half feet long and had seven rattles and one button. This was the first rattler ever seen by quite a number of the local residents.

Keeping Yourself Well

HOW YOU GET SICK

Sometimes you overload your stomach with rich foods. Your life may be an active one, and thus you may care for all you eat. But a few days of inactivity show your system does not call for so much. You awake in the morning tired. Your body feels heavy; you know you are not up to the mark. Your digestion has not cared for the overload. Part of it remains. It generates gas that inflames the delicate linings. They fail to pour out the digestive fluids and are unable to absorb the life-giving elements. You know something is wrong. Your body gets weak, and soon opportunity is offered for some severe illness.

Taken in time, the indigestion would not become serious. First remove the overload; then soothe the sore membranes; then build up the weakened body. It's simple to say, but not too easy to do. You need help. A tonic that will quicken digestion, help remove waste, soothe the soreness and arouse the system—that's just what you need.

Peruna has an enviable record in this respect. It has aided many thousands in the last century to overcome just these conditions, and thereby prevent serious sickness. The tablet form is convenient for regular administration.

Warranted Tablets are the ideal laxative and liver tonic. They have an unpleasant and form no habit. 10c and 25c. The Peruna Co. Columbus, O.

NEW MUSIC IN REVIEW

FAVORITE ARTISTS HEARD IN FAVORITE MUSICAL NUMBERS

Caruso, Calve, Gluck, Homer, and Other Celebrated Artists Delight Hosts of Music Lovers

OVERS of music the country over will find pleasure in the new list of Victor Records for September which has just been issued. It is always a delight to hear the exquisite rendition of the favorite "Prologue" from Pagliacci, and the first satisfactory pipe organ records ever made are introduced in this new September list. One number is Chopin's "Funeral March" played by Richard K. Biggs, organist of St. Luke's Episcopal Church, Brooklyn; the other the "Hallelujah Chorus" from "The Messiah," by Reginald L. McCall, and both are excellent reproductions. The Athenian Mandolin Quartet gives a charming Hawaiian waltz and also the "Cacili March," and those popular Hawaiian players, Helen Louise and Frank Ferrer, play two fascinating numbers on their guitars, and one of them can be used for dancing. Schumann's "Träumerei" and the captivating Bocherini "Minuet" are played on violin, flute and cello by the Florentine Quartet; Fred Taylor has a lively banjo solo in "Ragging the Scale"; William H. Reitz furnishes a fine xylophone solo of Victor Herbert's "Eldorado March," and accordion numbers are given by Pietro and his Accordion Quartet—the four players produce some remarkable effects in their record of the "Cavalleria Intermezzo," and Pietro himself plays the universally popular Pagliacci "On with the Play" with admirable expression.

"For Dixie and Uncle Sam" is a patriotic song offered by Nora Bayes, and it is an entertaining comedy number, another number, "Home's sickness Blues," "Dough the Baker" is Harry Lauder's contribution on a ten-inch record and it is given in true Lauderesque style. Marguerite Farrell is the Victor's latest acquisition from the field of musical comedy and she presents two of the most popular numbers from Step this Way—"If I Knock the 'L' Out of Kelly," and "By the Sad Lorna Shore"—which are well calculated to show her versatility.

America's best-known Dickens impersonator, William Sterling Battis, has dramatized the famous "A Christmas Carol" and gives it in the form of a monologue in the character of Scrooge. The gradual transformation of character is revealed with a consummate art, which establishes Battis as a master of the art of impersonation. Three old German Christmas Carols are presented by the Victor Mixed Chorus and the Lyric Quartet and they are excellent examples of the perfection of medieval counterpoint.

Two well-known and delightful concert pieces—the tunclet "Liebesfreud" and "Waltz" and a graceful Chamade dance—are given by Charles Kellough, "The Nature Singer," and the Victor Orchestra and they seem especially appropriate for the celebration of Kellogg's charming bird effects. Another fine collection of old-time favorites, carefully fitted together, is given by the Victor Mixed Chorus in their series of "Songs of the Past," and sixteen of the latest popular songs rendered by Victor artists who are real experts on this kind of music, complete the month's program of entertainment.

All this music and entertainment is easily available for every one. Those who already have a Victrola can enjoy it right in their own homes. Those who do not possess one of these instruments can at least hear some of this music at any Victor dealer's for he will gladly play any numbers for any one.

Calve gives an inspiring interpretation of the soul-stirring "Marsellaise" that is not only a worthy addition to the Victor list of patriotic songs of all nations, but a brilliant piece of vocal display. Calve recently sang this thrilling French anthem at the great Bazaar for the benefit of women and children and maimed soldiers of the Allied Countries, before 50,000 enthusiastic hearers with all the patriotic ardor that the occasion inspired. Now the Victor has recorded it so that thousands more can hear this great rendition, and the number is made still more attractive by the choral background of the French section of the Metropolitan Opera Chorus which ably assists the noted prima donna, Geraldine Farrar in her beautiful sacred number—"Oh, grand old hymn, 'Lead, Kindly Light,' and Alma Gluck sings in delightful fashion, "The Bird of the Wilderness," a beautiful song inspired by the literature of the Indian author, Rabindranath Tagore.

Johanna Gadski gives an effective rendition of Werber's well-known "Hodge Home," a beautiful number which has the best qualities of folk-song. Louise Homer sings with much charm that dainty love lyric, "Last Night" and de Lovet's popular "Oh, Grandma Me" from Robin Hood; and Clarence Whitehill gives a vigorous and energetic performance of that famous war song, "Marching Through Georgia."

John McCormack and Fritz Kreisler give an exquisite rendition of the lovely "Barcarolle" from the Tales of Hoffman, the admirable blending of voice and violin resulting in a sound of extreme beauty.

Kreisler in addition plays an interesting and beautiful piece, and Manfred Stoll also contributes a delightfully novel solo, the Irish reel "The Merry Old Lady" by Percy Slesinger, the Imperial Rag by
