CLEAN UP PANAMA.
 It is reported that preparations are complete for a revolution in Panama on October 1, should President Wilson recognize President-elect Valdez. From all accounts, the recent election in Panama was a huge farce. Charges that the election of Valdez was obtained by fraud and force are well supported. Photographs of administration troops driving opposition voters from the polls are said to be on file in Washington.

Though repeatedly requested to do so, the state department, for the first time, refused this year to supervise the elections and the "ins" stayed in, by hook and crook. Political chaos reigns in Panama as a consequence.

COMING BACK.
 Villa has been definitely "found" at last. He attacked Chihuahua, principal city of northern Mexico, on Mexican Independence Day, just as he had promised his followers to do. Although finally repulsed, the Villistas took the penitentiary, the municipal buildings and the federal palace and held them for several hours before they were recaptured by the Constitutionalists. Chihuahua is the military base for the Carranza forces in northern Mexico. The commanding general, Trevino, who was wounded, makes his headquarters there. It was inevitable that Villa, with his force of some six or eight hundred men, should have been defeated. The defeat, according to Chihuahua reports, was a decisive one and Villa's losses heavy. But these reports, it must be remembered, are all from Carranza sources.

The striking feature of the Chihuahua battle, and which makes it the most important occurrence in Mexico for many weeks, is that Villa dared to attack the Mexican stronghold at all, particularly after giving two weeks' advance notice of his purpose. It is folly to minimize it. It shows that Villa is really "coming back." It largely removes his warfare from the plane of outlawry and brigandage to which it had fallen and restores it to the scale of revolution.

AGE OF CHILDHOOD.
 "The whole world is entering upon the great age of childhood," says Eugene Brieux, the dramatist.
 This is true, and it is indication of a tremendous stride in civilization. A great scientist has recently written a big book wholly devoted to showing that during the past two decades more attention has been paid to the welfare of children than during all preceding history, and he makes a very strong case. Previously, the world had been very largely concerned about children with reference to war purposes. Some of the ancient nations even went so far as to destroy all sub-normal infants and the rearing of female children was discouraged. Even in our own times, we read much about the stocking of European countries with future warriors.
 Yet, he who gave us Christianity and all that Christianity has done for civilization, presented His strongest lessons with childhood as the text.

 Within the past two decades, much of American legislation and organized effort has been directed toward promoting the welfare of children. The investment in support of free schools is one of the heaviest we make for the public good. Child labor and mothers' pension legislation are radical departures along the line of progress. The nobility of motherhood, the service to the nation rendered by the mother of a large family of well raised children are recognized as they have not been. In the opinions of thinking people barrenness is a great misfortune, if not a disgrace. To those who have known the serious experiences of this life, it is the children that are most worth while. We are beginning to feel this nationally, and it is well.

The Democratic party has always been long on oratory and short on performance.

EYES ON RUMANIA.
 North Dakota wheat growers are vitally interested in the Balkan situation. Rumania's entrance into the war was signalized by decline in prices. The market was afraid that Turkey was to be crushed and the stores of Russian wheat released. When the Central Powers won the first skirmishes, the quotations began to soar again.

In commenting on this situation the Wall Street Journal observes:
 "Undoubtedly, the judgment was correct, except for the date. Belligerents do not announce their plans of campaign, but it can be assumed that Russia and Rumania are moving with the other Allies in a co-ordinated plan whose ultimate end is to win the war and not to sell wheat.
 "Suppose Russia did plan an immediate move on Constantinople. Would it not have been more energetic in Dobruja? The Danube is bridged at Cernavoda and crossed there by the railroad from Bucharest to Constantza, which is a Black Sea port. Troops transported by water might be landed at that port. A German and Bulgarian force now threatens this railway line."
 "Bulgaria and Turkey receive most of their arms and ammunition from central Europe. It would seem good strategy to first shear them from their source of supplies. This should be the function of the Salonica forces. What is going on there is not yet clearly revealed. But General Sarrail does not act as if he is yet beginning a general offensive.
 "The large Russian army under the Grand Duke which months ago broke through the Caucasus is not to be overlooked. The ultimate purpose of that move may be to still further draw a ring around Turkey and Bulgaria. This army is still too far away in Syria to give its full weight to the blow by which Russia hopes to gain access to the Mediterranean."
 "After two years, there is no room for spectacular plays. The actors have settled down to the grim business of winning the war. No one outside their councils knows what the next move will be. But we do know that neither Russia nor Great Britain is yet fully armed. Until they are, it does not seem likely they will undertake new and costly offensives. The present grinding process gives better results. It seems a good guess, therefore, that the wheat market will not be immediately disturbed by the release of Russian wheat."

The price of a haircut in San Francisco has jumped from 3 to 50 cents, which means that most San Franciscans will have to rearrange their torsorial schedule or pres their wives into service.

LaMoure—while applying belt dressing on a well digging machine, F. D. Williams' left hand was caught and carried along the belt and around the pulley wheel, breaking the upper arm and both bones of the forearm.

WITH THE MOVIES

ORPHEUM

Manager Bauer of the Orpheum theatre has arranged a program of Triangle plays for today that is sure to play to crowded houses at all performances. Norma Talmadge with Tully Marshall will be seen in the Fine Arts Triangle production, "Martha's Vindication." This is one of the best five-act features produced in many months and has a regular D. W. Griffith cast in support of the two above named stars. For those who enjoy the happy side of life and most of all the Triangle Keystone comedies a sure high producer has been booked in "Gypsy Joe," in which Joe Jackson and Dorro Rogers are the main fun makers. Everyone knows the kind of comedies that Keystone turns out and the Orpheum management is positive that this two reeler is sure to cure the worst case of the blues. In presenting Triangle plays in Bismarck, Manager Bauer of the Orpheum theatre is giving Bismarck theatre goers the best photoplays that are produced. Earning none Triangle productions are the world's best. Each and every program contains seven or more "peels" and, while the admission on Triangle days is 10 and 20 cents, you can always rest assured that you are going to see program that is worth more than the admission charged. In most eastern cities the admission on Triangle programs is 25 cents straight, the prices range from 25 cents to $1 at the Rialto theatre in New York City for the same pictures you see here in Bismarck at 10 and 20 cents. Your special attention is called to the music that is used on all Triangle plays. This music comes with the pictures and is arranged for every scene, and remember, the Orpheum orchestra plays this music. If you are looking for the best photoplays, then follow the crowds to the home of Triangle plays, the Orpheum theatre, matinee or tonight, or any Monday or Saturday.

BISMARCK

Since the first of February there have appeared in the Bluebird program of features, three productions which Lois Weber, who came into full recognition for her talents when she directed "The Hypocrites," has been largely responsible for; and at the Bismarck theatre today "The Eye of God," a fourth subject, in which Miss Weber and her able husband, Phillips Smalley, have the lion's share, will be the attraction.
 An unusual production, in every way, is the Bluebird promise, "The Eye of God," a crime film that bids fair to repeat the excellent impression "John Needham's Double" recorded through the artistry of Tyrone Power and the skillful direction of the Smalleys. The confession of a murderer is recorded in the passing of five reels. The interest in just how the crime was committed, even though the very act is presented in the pictorial story, is sustained until the very end when the trickery of the camera reveals an incident that has been the keynote of perplexity throughout the narrative.

Among State Politicians

John Burke at Fargo, the other day, said the Federal Reserve bank was located at Minneapolis so that "it could be controlled." Who placed it at Minneapolis? Secretary McAdoo, Burke's chief, had as much to do with it as anyone. At any rate, the institution was placed at Minneapolis by a Democratic, not a Republican, administration. Is Burke merely making an explanation or an apology?

Chairman Lemke at the meeting of the Republican candidates, said: "Senator McCumber will have a walk-away, as the state is Republican and it will not desert the party this year. It is a united and rejuvenated party that goes into the campaign this year, and we are certain to win."

League members in the Sixteenth legislative district of North Dakota, including all of Steele and Griggs counties, met at Cooperstown on September 8 and endorsed John Micklethun, pioneer farmer of that part of the state, as candidate for the house of representatives at the November election, in place of A. M. Hemerlin, who had the league endorsement, but withdrew just before the primaries. Mr. Micklethun will run as an independent.

This district is entitled to elect three members of the house this fall. The league before the primaries endorsed Porter Kimball, E. W. Everson and Mr. Hemerlin. Kimball and Everson were nominated on the Republican ticket by an overwhelming vote and Hemerlin withdrew, but too late to get his name off the ballot. He got a big vote, nevertheless, but H. A. Lathrop, former member of the legislature, got the Republican nomination along with Kimball and Everson.

Senator Bond of Ward county is making a vigorous campaign for reelection. He is opposed by Thorwald Mostad, Democrat, who has the endorsement of the Non-partisan league.

Non-partisan league conventions have been held in two more legislative districts to fill out the League ticket for the house and senate. In District 46, McLean county, where Peter Romsas, League candidate on the Republican ticket, was defeated in the primaries, the league endorsed J. E. McAdoo of Turtle Lake, who got one of the Socialist party nominations for the house at the primary.

In District 49, Hettinger, Adams and Sioux counties, the entire League ticket lost out in the primaries. The district is to elect a senator and three representatives. The League convention there recently endorsed O. H. Opland of Mott for senator, Byron B. Ebb of Haynes for the house, Robert B. Goudreau of Selbridge for the house and O. E. Holden of Bucyrus for the house. All these will run for election this fall as independents, opposing the regular Republican nominees. The Democrats have no ticket in this district.

The order issued by the supreme court to Fred W. McLean, chairman; Halvor Halvorson, secretary, and J. Nelson Kelly, treasurer of the Democratic central committee, to show cause why they should not be removed from office, was served on the defendants Thursday at Fargo.

Mr. McLean reiterated he would make no defense and that if there was to be any fight it would have to be attended to by the committee. He expressed confidence, however, the court would hold that he and the others were holding their offices in a legal manner.

SUPREME COURT

State of North Dakota
 June Term, 1916.
 Gertrude Skaar, Plaintiff and Appellant, vs.
 E. A. Eppeland, Defendant and Respondent.

(1) An appellate court will indulge all reasonable presumptions in favor of the correctness of the judgment or order from which the appeal is taken.

(2) Where a motion for a new trial is duly noticed to be heard at a date prior to the expiration of time for appeal from the judgment, but continued by consent of the parties, and finally submitted and determined after the time for appeal from the judgment has expired, the final character of the judgment is suspended by the pending proceedings, and the court has jurisdiction to determine the motion for a new trial even though the time for appeal from the judgment has expired.

(3) The granting, or denial, of a new trial on the ground that the evidence is insufficient to sustain the verdict, or that excessive damages were awarded, is within the sound judicial discretion of the trial court, and its decision will not be disturbed, except where an abuse thereof is clearly shown.

(Syllabus by the Court.)

 P. D. Jones and T. M. Keogan, of Stanley, and E. R. Sinkler, of Minot, for appellant.

Quality First

OUT OF $56,000,000 JUST $250,000 IS SPENT IN FINAL TESTS TO MAKE DOUBLY SURE YOUR CHALMERS IS RIGHT—DEAD RIGHT

This $56,000,000 "run" on the 3400 r. p. m. Chalmers has not stam-peded the Chalmers factory.

Quite the contrary. The cars are coming out of there so fine, so exact, so thoroughly tested, that all we have to do now when we take them off the freight cars is to pour in oil, gas and water, run them a few miles, and deliver.

There's an excellent reason for this condition. The Chalmers Company has a young army of eagle-eyed inspectors who take great pride in finding a fault in a car when it comes out of the plant.

This costs just $250,000 a year in cold cash—just one quarter of a million dollars a year to "catch the little things."

I firmly believe that most factories would let "go by" nine cars out of ten that the Chalmers inspectors waylay.

It sounds like a lot of money, but when a company maintains the slogan of "Quality First" and bases a $56,000,000 business on the quality idea, then it becomes quite clear.

I firmly believe that three times $250,000 is returned to the cash drawer of the Chalmers Company every year through such a policy.

It certainly makes selling a Chalmers car anything but a difficult matter. And that accounts for the "run" on the car. For "run" it surely is.

I am handling from three to five times as many Chalmers cars as this territory ever absorbed before.

Last November the Chalmers Dealers bought $22,000,000 worth of 3400 r. p. m. Chalmers in forty minutes.

These Cars were all made and delivered before summer rolled around. Then 10,000 more were added. These were taken up during the summer months.

Now 20,000 more are coming through.

That means that this model will be continued without change in design into next season.

It also means a $56,000,000 business. Which is twice more than the most optimistic Chalmers executive ever dared dream.

The quality in the car is the answer.

Drive one a mile, and you won't be able to get your monogram painted on the doors quick enough.
