GOVERNOR FRAZIER LOOKS OVER PRISON

Intends to Visit All State Institutions Before January 1, if Possible

Governor-elect Lynn J. Frazier spent yesterday forenoon in a careful and intelligent inspection of the North Dakota penitentiary.

During the afternoon, Frazier visited the Mandan Reformatory, where Governor James Devine, the superintendent, took pleasure in showing the new executive what the institution has and what it has not.

Frazier is making, at his own expense, a tour of inspection of all the state penal and charitable institutions.

Pearce Purebloods Promise Productive, Prosperous Period. H. O. Pearce, manager of the Rex ranch, southeast of Mott, was about the happiest man in North Dakota this week.

It's going to be more difficult to get a wee drop now. It's going to be a heap harder to raise a wee drop in North Dakota after the first of the year.

Department Pays for Itself and Leaves a Nice Margin Besides. One of the most important of the several state departments, governed by commissioners rather than by an elective official, is the office of the state bank examiner.

ANNOUNCEMENT WAS PREMATURE BLEICK SAYS, BUT PERHAPS

Charles W. Bleick, one of the newly elected Non-Partisan members of the North Dakota railroad commission is in Bismarck in connection with the Grant county fight for the seat of government.

The Elgin man was prominently mentioned in the Fargo press recently as the prospective chairman of the railroad commission.

CANDIDATE FOR SHERIFF OF NEW COUNTY MAN OF MANY REAL EXPERIENCES

Among the Grant county people who were in Bismarck yesterday and today in connection with the county seatship was one whose autobiography would make every bit as good reading as that of Col. Cody.

Dakota's amendment, it must "go some."

And it must not be forgotten that there will be behind this amendment one William Langer of Mandan, the man who cleaned up Morton county, and the sworn foe of all illicit liquor traffic.

TRAPPING BEAVERS TO SAVE FARMERS NOT VERY LUCRATIVE PROFESSION

The average individual who has been asked to fork over for a beaver collar or real beaver coat, or anything else in which the little masonic-titled critter's hide enters has visions of Golconda when it is reported that State Game Warden William Reko has appointed professional trappers to garner the little varmint who have been making life miserable for so many Missouri slope farmers.

As a matter of fact, Mr. Reko advises, the campaign of extermination will no more than barely pay for itself. Pelts at this time of year are not "prime." They do well to bring $5.00, in spite of any idea the layman may have formed of the value of this much coveted fur.

Among all North Dakota fur-bearing animals, beaver are, perhaps, the most valuable. The question the state game and fish wardens have had to decide is whether beaver are more important in the development of the state than traps.
