HOW LIBERTY LOOKS IN NEW ROBE!

This is how the great Bartholdi statue of liberty, in New York harbor, looks in her new robe of white light. President Wilson touched the button that lighted the statue from base to torch, while a squadron of battleships played their searchlights upon it. Heretofore only the torch at the top was lit at night.

Franklin Objects Seriously.
She isn't very large, that's true, but being a county seat, and boasting of a college, several factories, flour mills, railroads, interurbans and her lately acquired Masonic home, Franklin feels that she is not a town to be passed lightly by, in fact, she knows her importance, and thought that everyone in the state realized it until she was taken down a bit lately. During the big conference of the Methodist churches held recently in the town a meeting of the Indianapolis presbytery was in session at the same time at Hopewell, a country church in a prosperous farming community a few miles out. One of the Presbyterian delegates, on leaving the train joined in the throng headed for the Methodist church. When it came to registering, some of his inquiries caused someone to suggest that probably he was in the wrong place, and he asked innocently: "Isn't this Hopewell?" "No, this is Franklin," was the proud reply.—Indianapolis News.
