HOPE TO SOLVE PROBLEM Effort Will Be Made to Find Out How Best to Deal With the Mentally Afflicted.

The handling of the insane, epileptic or defective population may be divided into three parts. The first is adequate prevention or diagnosis in the early stages. The second is provision of physical equipment, such as buildings, plants and ordinary hospitals. The third is making as useful and happy as possible the lives of permanent inmates. Indiana has done much along the lines of institutional equipment and the demand now is for a rounding out of the work by more attention to the other two needs. It is suggested that laws providing for the voluntary admission of patients be enacted, and that psychiatric wards or buildings be established. Again, patients, instead of being kept in dismal cells, should be employed. Their labor could contribute materially to their support as well as make them more cheerful. To this end it is suggested that the industrial farm colony idea be developed as against the congested, circumscribed institution.

The problem of the mental defective is regarded by many as most confusing. Probably this is because of lack of complete information. Therefore, it has been recommended that the next legislature provide for a commission, with liberal support, to look into the whole subject so that relief on an adequate scale may be promoted. Segregation, education, treatment and development are proposed as aids in eliminating the mental defective from society. The belief is that there should be mental as well as physical examination of all school children, so that unfortunate may be detected. The entire subject calls for action in its
