AWAITING AN EVANGEL

Rev. C. F. Strutz, pastor of the Bismarck Evangelical church, believes that the only thing that can save America today is a great religious revival.

Rev. Strutz points to the fact that a religious awakening was responsible for the settlement of America; that all of the great literature of a century or more following the colonization of this country was due to the teachings of the great revivalist, Edwards.

He traces religion's hand in America's development on down through the early part of the nineteenth century to the abolitionist period, which freed America from slavery, and tells of the work done by Frances Willard, Dwight L. Moody and other great revivalists of the past century, all of whom, said Rev. Strutz in his Armistice day sermon, appeared at a time of great national need.

Dr. Strutz insists that to save America from the great industrial crisis which he sees confronting it today there will appear another Luther, another Calvin, another Wesley, another Edwards or another Moody.

Although a great advocate of evangelism, Dr. Strutz does not refer to Billy Sunday, who has perhaps converted more sinners than any other evangelist who has ever lived, as this prospective savior of the world.

There never was a time since the coming of Christ when His gospel was so sorely needed as it is today. Will the church prove equal to the occasion?

ADVERTISING

Some of the best literature these days seems to be in advertising.

That is, if literature is for the purpose of conveying thoughts, ideas and to promote action—word carpentering to these ends.

It is true that there is no mystic poetry in advertising, nor romance save as it is sometimes used to picture the profit possibilities of far off mining and oil regions, to appeal to the imaginations of those of us to whom distant pastures always seem the greenest.

The average advertisement stimulates more thought, and action upon the thought, and by its appeal to our sense of pleasure or profit than any other literary form.

And it does it in less space and in a fewer number of words.

The reason for this economy and efficiency is this:

An advertiser pays a large sum for the white space and he is naturally economical with it.

More thought is put upon the space.

He conveys the idea and promotes the action with the fewest number of carefully selected expressions.

Every word, phrase, sentence and paragraph is weighed to this end.

Other forms of writing are paid for by the number of words or space occupied, and there is not the natural incentive to economy of expression as in advertising.

Advertisers paying large sums for white space as they do, have found it economical to employ men skilled in the art of expression—word carpentering; for more results are obtained for the expenditure in white space.

In this way some of the best writers of the younger generation have been drawn into the advertising field—men with reputations in other and wider literary fields.

WITH THE EDITORS

THERE IS ONLY ONE "OFFICIAL" COUNTY PAPER

Some of the flat headed "independent" publishers are still running the words "Official County Paper" at the top of their pages—it's done through maliciousness, there can be no doubt, but that does not bring them any revenues, and but serves to show the depth of their thinking ability.—Lakota Observer.

The above mess of idiotic drivelling was taken from the October 23 issue of the Lakota representative of Comrade Townley's prostitute press and in view of the fact that both the Journal and the Aneta Panorama have contracts with the county commissioners providing for the publication of all of the county's official business from January 1, 1919, to January 1, 1920, it would seem as though the writer of the above was either a deliberate liar or didn't know what he was talking about.—McVile Journal.

FRAZIER BUTTS IN

About the time, either a little after or a little before, the issuance of the injunction against the miners' strike by Attorney General Palmer of the United States law department, Governor Frazier of North Dakota wires President Lewis of the miners' federation at Indianapolis that he stands ready to co-operate with the latter, and to take over the lignite mines of this state and operate them. Mr. Lewis wires back his appreciation of the kind sentiment toward the miners so set forth and says he will see what is to be done. He then wires Director Drennan, in Montana, who has charge of the miners' organization for these two states, telling him to come down and look over the North Dakota situation and act accordingly.

Mr. Drennan reached Bismarck, confers with our governor and other members of our great industrial commission on parade, and tells them and it that he will instruct the miners in the state to stay on their jobs until such time as their contract expires or until otherwise ordered. The men at Wilton, the largest mines in the state, who stopped temporarily on the strike order, were rejoiced, and went to work at once. They had not wanted to strike, but "orders is orders," and very thankful were they to obey. So also did the miners at Burlington in the Minot district and elsewhere.

And what becomes of the governor's plan for taking over private property and embarking the state in another public utility? Will he insist on setting aside the orders of Director Drennan and turning mine operator under Townley, or will he subside?

It will be noticed that when the governor faced the assumed necessity of doing something, he didn't confer with United States authorities. He did not ask the United States attorney general what he had better do; did not learn about the contracts made by the miners and find if they intended to abide by them or break them.

While the miners were directed by their leader to remain at work, later news is that they have been called out, in spite of the contract. This is not because they had complained of the pay, but as announced by leaders, in order to back up by a sympathetic strike the demands and actions of eastern miners. Governor Frazier has called a conference of the operators and miners, but the public is not asked to have representatives. The public, which is vitally interested and which must suffer greatly during the strike, and is already feeling the pinch of the situation, is ignored. Not a word from the governor of the state about the public, but he considers only the demands of the striking workmen and their autocratic leaders.

With the Montana and Wyoming miners out and the confiscation of eastern and Colorado coal by railroads as it is on its way to local dealers, and a strike at home, it would seem we are facing a serious situation and to feel that the governor lines up with those who are attempting to put the pinchers in action is indeed disturbing.

Where will he stop?—Steele Ozone.

Lieutenant Maynard drew a record congregation for his first sermon after the flight across the continent. They came to see a hero. Almost any preacher who sticks to his job at his present salary is a hero.

ARMISTICE DAY

By Edmund Vance Cooke Armistice day! when a new sun rose And the hate and the horror reached a close.

But here is the slave of a crawling crutch, So made by the shrapnel's devilish whim, And our ribbons and trinkets don't mean much To a man torn limb from limb.

Armistice day! and a peace proclaimed, But how is it peace to the halt and maimed?

Armistice day! when the curtain dropped On the tragic field and the strife was stopped.

But there are no fields, nor hills, nor skies For him whom the noon-day lends no light, For the demon of gas ate out his eyes And his day is endless night.

Armistice day, with the war behind! But how is it ended for one made blind?

Armistice day! and the joy-bells ring And the children of earth leap up and sing!

But one, who is here, is yet away, And a maggot is at his festered brain. He whimpers and whines at his painful play And he giggles at sores and pain.

Armistice day, and the world is glad, But how is it happy for one made mad?

Armistice day! and the wild world cheers And laughs and forgets its foolish fears.

But the wooden crosses stand in hordes And stretch white arms in an endless prayer, For they who have paid for the broken swords Hold eternal armistice there.

Armistice day! and a petty pride! And the war is over—for those who died!

"ONLY A SCRATCH"

It is a matter of every-day experience that the countless little cuts and scratches which every person receives during a lifetime almost always heal without trouble, no matter whether treated or not.

It is also well known that occasionally these small injuries and more often the larger ones, do not do well.

The wound becomes red and painful, it throbs, the edges swell and finally matter develops. This matter is called "pus."

When the matter escapes the pain ceases and the cut gradually heals.

At other times the redness rapidly spreads, the swelling increases, pain becomes worse, tender kernels form in the groin or armpit and in a short time the entire arm or leg, as the case may be, becomes involved.

Taken at this stage, prompt and vigorous surgical treatment may produce a cure, but if neglected the condition steadily grows worse and sometimes ends in death.

It was formerly believed by most people that these unfavorable terminations of small wounds were due to "catching cold" in the wound.

It is now known that the inflammation of wounds is always due to the presence of bacteria or pus germs, as they are commonly called.

As soon as a wound is received, paint it and the surrounding skin for a considerable distance with a light coating of iodine. Apply a dressing of sterile gauze or freshly laundered muslin and hold in place with a bandage.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Q. How are diseases spread by sneezing?

A. In coughing, sneezing, laughing and to a certain extent in talking small droplets of liquid are sent out into the air. They may fly to a distance of several feet (three to nine), and some of them are so very fine that they are said to float in the air as long as 20 minutes. When a person is suffering from a disease like diphtheria, pneumonia, or consumption, these droplets are, of course, filled with the germ of the disease. One should not stand near a person who is coughing, and a sick person should hold a handkerchief, or a paper napkin before his face when he coughs.

Q. What are diphtheria carriers? A. Investigation indicates that when diphtheria is in a city or town, two or three healthy persons in every thousand carry virulent diphtheria germs in their throats. In these persons the body is holding the germs in check so that they cannot multiply enough to produce the disease, but it is not able to kill them out entirely. The difficulty of controlling the disease is still further increased by the fact that there seem to be harmless races of the germs, and it is not desirable to shut up in quarantine any persons except those who are carrying the dangerous varieties.

FOGGY?

If Bilious, Constipated or Headachy take "Cascarets."

Tomorrow the sun will shine for you. Everything will seem clear, rosy and bright. Your system is filled with liver and bowel poison which keeps your skin sallow, your stomach upset, your head foggy, and aching. Your meals are turning into poison, gases and acids. You can not feel right. Don't stay bilious or constipated. Feel splendid always by taking Cascarets occasionally. They act without griping or inconvenience. They never sicken you like Calomel, Salts, Oil or nasty, harsh pills. They cost so little too—Cascarets work while you sleep.

"LET'S STICK TOGETHER" AMERICAN LEGION SLOGAN

BY ERIC FISHER WOOD, Secretary of the American Legion. "We have stood together: let's stick together." No other phrase could better express the spirit behind the American Legion. The legion is the civilian organization of the five million men and women who represented democracy militant in the uniform of the United States in the World War.

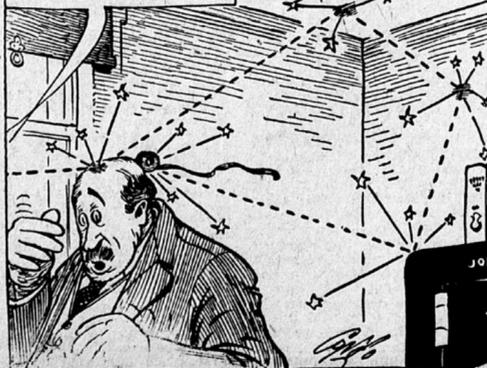

Why should these millions "stick together" now? Why should every American veteran of the greatest conflict in the history of the world join his comrades in the American Legion, the national organization of his brothers-in-arms who have returned again to civilian life? To those who have had the privilege to know the doughboy and his com-

Eat Buckwheats— Yes, You Can

Or Any Other Kind of Food Set Before You. But You Need a Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablet to Help the Stomach Move It Along.

Hot biscuits, buckwheats, rich cakes and many other tempting foods

"These Hot Cakes Give More Enjoyment for Breakfast Than Anything Else Since I Discovered Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets" are declared to be wholesome, digestible and nourishing under normal stomach conditions.

Many people, however, once got the notion they couldn't eat such things and have grown in prejudice as a consequence. They have denied themselves almost every thing except milk and water.

But you will find here and there one of this kind eating onions, cucumbers, melons and other such terrors of the dyspeptic because he has found that by merely giving the stomach a little assistance there are no after effects from such indulgence. There is avoidance of gasbiness, no sour risings, no water brash, you don't taste 'em hours after.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets are for both those who suffer after eating and for those who starve, for fear of suffering. They relieve the distress of indigestion and they also serve to assist the stomach to prevent indigestion.

Eating should be one of our chief enjoyments. It is really the most attractive of social gatherings, and it is worth our while to realize that we may indulge freely by exercising the precautionary measure of adding the digestive process. Thus you may eat your hot biscuits, buckwheats, rich cake, onions, mince pie, sausage and so on provided you take a Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablet afterwards.

peers in the other arms of the service in this war, it is almost sufficient this war, it is almost sufficient answer to point to the fact that one million of them already have done so.

The purpose for which the American Legion was founded, which will continue to guide its destinies, are stated in the following preamble to the constitution adopted at the St. Louis caucus last May:

"For God and country we associate ourselves together for the following purposes:

"To uphold and defend the Constitution of the United States of America; to maintain law and order; to foster and perpetuate one hundred per cent Americanism; to preserve the memories and incidents of our association in the Great War; to inculcate a sense of individual obligation to the community, state and nation; to combat the autocracy of both the classes and the masses; to make right the master of might; to promote peace and good will on earth; to safeguard and transmit to posterity the principles of justice, freedom and democracy; to consecrate and sanctify our comradeship by our devotion to mutual helpfulness."

Mutual helpfulness and service to the nation. These are the cardinal principles of The American Legion.

INDIGESTION Caused by Acid-Stomach

Millions of people—in fact about 9 out of 10—suffer more or less from indigestion, acute or chronic. Nearly every case is caused by Acid-Stomach.

There are other stomach disorders which also are sure signs of Acid-Stomach—belching, heartburn, bloating after eating, food retching, sour, gassy stomach. There are many ailments which, while they do not cause much distress in the stomach itself, are nevertheless traceable to acid stomach. Among these are nervousness, biliousness, cirrhosis of the liver, rheumatism, impoverished blood, weakness, insomnia, melancholia and a long train of physical and mental miseries that keep the victims in miserable health year after year.

The right thing to do is to attack these ailments at their source—get rid of the acid-stomach. A wonderful modern remedy called EATONIC now makes it easy to do this. One of hundreds of thousands of grateful users of EATONIC writes: "I have been troubled with intestinal indigestion for about nine years and have spent quite a sum for medicine, but without relief. After using EATONIC for a few days the gas and pain in my bowels disappeared. EATONIC is just the remedy I needed."

Thousands of letters telling of these marvelous cures. Try EATONIC and you, too, will be just as enthusiastic in its praise. Your druggist has EATONIC. Get a big 50c box from him today. He will refund your money if you are not satisfied.
