THE STATE'S OLDEST NEWSPAPER (Established 1878)

BLOND ESKIMOS

Capt Joe Bernard has come back to Nome, Alaska, after spending four years in the Arctic hunting for blond Eskimos.

"Only brunets," the half dozen captain said he found.

It will be hard convincing the hardy captain that Stefansson didn't bleach his Eskimos before bringing them to civilization.

Future blond hunters in the Arctic will do well to take with them a liberal supply of peroxide.

But, anyway, why run up to the North Pole looking for blonds, when they may be found nearer home?

Apparently the bakers are experimenting and will achieve the vest-pocket-sized loaf soon.

THE PHOTOGRAPH

Daguerre, in 1820, discovered the principle used in making photographs. He worked on his idea 20 years, and in 1840 the first "sunlight picture" of a human face was made.

The initial success followed failure. Daguerre took an exposed plate from a camera one day, and, discouraged at his inability to make the plate retain the picture, tossed it into a cupboard. Next morning he found the picture on the plate. A dish of mercury, also in the cupboard, had done the work. From then to now the progress of photography has been rapid.

The centennial of the camera sees it snap a flying cannonball, picture a moving world, and catch the smallest wrinkle of the human face.

New York Socialists intend to elect legislators until the assembly gets tired of firing them.

TO INTERVENE

Brazil proposes a venture into government trading. A measure recently introduced in the Chamber of Deputies gives the government "power to intervene as buyer or seller" in commercial markets.

It isn't that the government intends wiping out private business, to engage in state socialism as a substitute to individual initiative, but that the government hopes to stand between the Brazilian producer and loss, and, when necessary, to come between the Brazilian consumer and loss.

The idea being nothing more than this: If prices drop below the cost of production—plus a fair profit—the government will buy of the products enough to hold up the price. When prices go too high—profiteering—then the government steps in and sells enough of the products to lower prices.

These miners' vacations would not be so annoying if Old Boreas would lay-off this winter.

UNDOING THEIR WORK

When German invaders came to the great French coal mines of Lens they dynamited walls and flooded mine shafts, not so much to "win the war" as to block French industrial progress after the war ended.

For that the Germans lost the Saar Basin coal fields.

Now it seems that Germany must not only stand by and see France consume Saar coal, but soon will witness the reopening of the Lens mines. France has worked heroically within Lens. With dynamite and pump the French reconstruction agencies have toiled early and late, making phenomenal progress in undoing the Germans' destruction.

Experts estimate that in 1922 more than a million tons of coal will be mined in sections already reopened.

Explorer Bernard spent four years in the Arctic in a vain search for blond Eskimos. What does anybody want with a blond Eskimo?

HE COMES

Even before the dates for the world series are announced, yet, before the final games are played, a new actor strides upon the stage. In a thousand schools, big and little, and on a thousand fields, the football warrior strides.

Each, no doubt, in the solitude of his mind hopes to become a football Ruth, or Speaker or Cobb. And, no doubt, before the season ends, football will have its Chapman, too. But now, in the optimism of youth, the squads gather accoutered with all the panoply of the game, to spend sunny afternoons in learning sets of hysterical numbers, going through the mechanical tricks evolved by the game's higher minds. The novices fall on the ball, boot and pigskin into long, high spirals and do other things their superiors teach.

Well, let him come—this football hero. It is a great game. It builds up the boy physically, keeps him awake mentally, teaches him poise, self-reliance, self-control, initiative, coolness and speed, both in his mind action and his feet. His "day" comes, the day when he's king or vanished, either the Saturday before Thanksgiving or on Thanksgiving Day. Too bad all of 'em can't be winners.

Henry is detremined to put the ford in afford.

The wrong use of TNT is a taInt on civilization.

When a candidate hedges is it fair to say he is fixing his political fences?

A Sioux City, Iowa, goat was sold for $750. That was the owner's rock-ba-a-a-tom price.

Are bow legs more prevalent or is the new style letting man in on the world-old secret?

There's this to be said in favor of the grape juice highball—it doesn't make you miss the last car home.

Candidates may rejoice that although women may vote for them they cannot dictate what neckties they shall wear.

William J. Bryan asserts that he is still a Democrat, but not for Cox for President. He says that at San Francisco the Constitution and the Ten Commandments were traded "for a glass of beer." That doesn't sound much like the silence of the grave. Bryan's is another voice in the air that must worry Cox.

It has taken the League of Nations three months to reach a tentative decision in the quarrel between Sweden and Finland over the Aland Islands. And now the League prays Finland and Sweden remain calm while it sends its investigators to examine the matter at issue at close range. Meanwhile, both parties to the controversy have had extra time in which to increase their armaments. The League enthusiasts who are indulging in premature applause should await apprehensively the outcome of the affair.

EDITORIAL REVIEW

Comments reproduced in this column may or may not express the opinions of The Tribune. They are presented here in order that our readers may have both sides of important issues which are being discussed in the press of the day.

LET MR. COX EXPLAIN

Governor Cox may have to appear as a witness before the senate campaign fund investigation committee, unless H. E. Talbott, president of the Dayton Metal Products company and president of the City National Bank of Dayton, can clear up entirely the mystery of Mr. Cox's $5,000 note, which was drawn in favor of the bank and paid by the metal products company, according to testimony.

An investigator employed by the Frear aircraft inquiry committee of congress, it is testified, was unable to obtain any explanation of the $5,000 note transaction from officers of the metal products company.

Governor Cox will have to show what was done with the $5,000, which, presumably, he received when he signed the note. Somebody will have to prove that Cox reimbursed the metal products company for paying his note, if it can be proved. G. B. Lockwood, editor of the National Republican, drew an inference or raised a suspicion that the $5,075, including interest, which the metal products company paid, was a campaign contribution, that it was a contribution by a corporation, which undoubtedly is contrary to Ohio law, and that it was not mentioned in the statement of Cox's campaign expenses when a candidate for governor of Ohio in 1918.

These are serious charges. Unless they are completely refuted, they will make Cox's original allegation that sinister interests have tried to buy the presidency, through contributions to elect Senator Harding for the purposes of using bayonets to suppress labor troubles, more of a boom-erang than ever.

Cox has been put on the defensive and the opposition has become the aggressor in many ways by recent disclosures of the campaign fund investigation. It has been admitted that campaign contributions were demanded from many federal officials through an evasion of the law, by sending letters of solicitation to the homes instead of the offices of the officeholders. Such a holdup of federal employes, with an implied threat that they will lose their jobs if they do not contribute, is odious whether it is technically a violation of law or not.

The Cox special train to the San Francisco convention, with barrels of 2.75 per cent abroad, the expense said to have been paid by checks of Colonel Deeds of aircraft notoriety, does not smell sweet, nor the alleged contribution of $21,000 by the Dayton Metal Products company, already mentioned, a holding company for aircraft concerns, to a Cox campaign fund, said to have been raised under brewery auspices.

The campaign fund inquiry, instigated by Cox, has got entirely out of hand, and Senator James Reed is in a panic over it.—St. Paul Pioneer Press.

"HELPED ME RIGHT FROM THE START" SAYS MRS. CARTER

"I spent nearly the whole of last fall in bed in a terribly run-down condition, following a bad attack of the influenza, and could find nothing that would relieve me until I took Tanlac," said Mrs. Irma Carter, of 2706 Iglehart avenue, St. Paul, Minn.

"I no more than got over one attack of severe cold and sore throat than I would come down with another. Bad weather aggravated my troubles and I was simply miserable. My appetite failed and my stomach was in such poor condition that everything I ate bloated me up with gas and I had terrible pains in my chest and kept getting worse all the time."

"I read so much about Tanlac that I finally got a bottle and it helped me from the very start. The pain left my chest before I had even finished the first bottle. I have taken four bottles now and my appetite is so keen that I'm eating like I'd been starved. I have been relieved entirely of bloating and all other signs of indigestion, and have already gained nine pounds in weight. I am enjoying good health again and certainly bless the day I started on Tanlac."

Tanlac is sold in Bismarck by Jos. Breslow, in Driscoll by N. D. and J. H. Barre, in Wing by H. P. Hoffman and in Strasburg by Strasburg Drug Co. —adv.

BAPTISTS WILL CLOSE MEETING THIS EVENING

(Continued from Page One) noon to the state penitentiary was cancelled on account of the conditions out there at present.

A unique dedicatory service took place this noon when an automobile was dedicated in front of the church for Rev. C. J. Hill, state colporteur to use in the gospel work throughout the state. Rev. F. E. Stockton offered the dedicatory prayer, and Rev. E. Wiesle made appropriate remarks.

Yesterday, the examination of W. F. Sharp for ordination was held and passed upon. The examining committee consisted of two delegates and a pastor from each church in the state, and of the representatives from New York. Before Mr. Sharp commenced his study for the ministry, he ran a dance hall in Kentucky. He was graduated from high school at Louisville, Ky., and attended the Southern Baptist Theological seminary at that city. He came to Jamestown recently to accept the position of assistant Y. M. C. A. secretary, and on June 6, he was called to the pastorate of the Jamestown Baptist church. His ordination will take place in the near future at Jamestown.

Release for Women who Suffer

The multitude of American women who suffer terribly day after day and year after year from ills peculiar to their sex is almost beyond belief, —yet there is hardly a town or hamlet in the United States wherein some woman, and often many, do not reside who have been restored to health from some of the worst forms of female ills, and often avoided operations by taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

These Two Women Tell of Their Experience.

Carrollton, Ky.—"I suffered almost two years with female weakness. I could not walk any distance, ride or take any exercise at all without resting. If I swept the floor or did any kind of work it would bring my sickness on. I was weak and languid, had no energy, and life was a misery to me. I was under the care of a good physician for several months and tried other remedies. I had read of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and decided to try it. After taking twelve bottles I found myself much improved and I took six more. I have never had any more trouble in that respect since. I have done all kinds of work and at present am an attendant at a State Hospital and am feeling fine. I shall always recommend your Vegetable Compound."—LILLIAN THAYER, 824 South 6th Street, Carrollton, Ky.

Onalaska, Wis.—"Every month I had such pains in my back and lower part of stomach I could not lie in bed. I suffered so it seemed as though I would die, and I was not regular either. I suffered for a year and was unfit to do my housework, could only wash dishes once in a while. I read an advertisement of what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound had done for other women and decided to try it. It surely did wonders for me. I have no pains now and can do my own housework without any trouble at all. I will always praise your medicine as I do not believe there is a doctor that can do as much good for female weakness as can Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and you may use these facts as a testimonial."—MRS. LESTER E. WARNER, R. 1, Box 69, Onalaska, Wis.
