SEARCH FOR BODIES AS STORM ABATES

Eleven Perish When Canadian Steamer Maplehurst Is Wrecked

(By the Associated Press)
Calumet, Mich., Dec. 2.—With a virtual calm prevailing on Lake Superior which 24 hours ago was being swept by one of the most terrific gales in years, coast guards today planned to make a thorough search of the beach in this vicinity for the bodies of ten of the eleven persons who perished early yesterday when the Canadian steamer Maplehurst was benten to pieces on the breakwater at the upper entrance to the Keweenaw waterway.

One body, that of First Mate Henry J. Smith, was found on the beach late yesterday. Smith lost his life when as he leaped from the bridge of the Maplehurst to the small coast guard boat lurched forward, causing him to miss and fall into the lake. The bodies of Captain Nelson Bernard the Maplehurst's commander and the other nine members of the crew are believed by Captain Charles A. Tucker of the coast guards to be in the vicinity of the iron hull.

The hull rests on the bottom in 25 feet of water, 1,000 feet from shore. It was virtually stripped of its super structure by the steady pounding seas which scattered the cabin, bridge and other sections over a wide territory along the coast.

Nine men of the crew heroically saved by Captain Tucker and his crew of plucky coast guards while awaiting transportation to their Canadian homes are assisting in the patrol of the beach for bodies of their fellow seamen.

Nine members of the crew rescued by the coast guard, accompanying the body of First Mate Henry J. Smith, the first to be recovered, left by steamer this afternoon for their Canadian homes.

The body of Chief Engineer Ambrose Dunn, Kingston, Ont., the second to be recovered from the wreck of the Canadian steamer Maplehurst which sank in Lake Superior near here early Friday with a loss of 11 lives was found this afternoon by coast guards.

The funeral arrangements included no eulogies, the rites being in charge of the Rev. James E. Freeman, rector of Epiphany Episcopal church which Mr. Mann attended here, and Dr. J. Shera Montgomery, chaplain of the house.

WHAT IS SHIP SUBSIDY? HERE'S ANSWER

By Harry Hunt
NEA Staff Correspondent
Washington, Dec. 2.—The most bitter fight in Congress since the League of Nations battle will be waged over the administration's ship subsidy bill, on which President Harding has demanded early action.

Just what does this bill provide? It is submitted as a measure "to promote an American merchant marine." Simply stated, it provides six primary methods of assistance to vessel interests:

1. The sale of government-owned vessels to private individuals or corporations under the American flag, on terms permitting payments to be extended over 15 years, with interest at 4 percent on unpaid balances.

2. Government loans, up to $125,000,000, for new vessel construction or equipment. Loans may be made up to two-thirds total cost of such vessels, and to bear interest at rate of 2 percent.

3. Reduction of taxes on incomes and profits of individuals or corporations, earned by the operation of American vessels in foreign trade, and exemption from taxes of earnings or profits reinvested in new ship construction.

4. Monopoly to American shipping, wherever possible, in carrying out-bound foreign mails.

5. Requirement that one-half of all immigrants coming to American-owned vessels.

6. Direct cash payments by the government, on the basis of gross tonnage and mileage of vessels operated between American and foreign ports.

Supporters of the measure maintain that the cost to the government under its provisions would be less than the sum the government is now losing on its war-built merchant fleet. President Harding placed this loss at $50,000,000 a year.

They also declare the measure would stimulate private interest in the development of America shipping to the point where American ships would transport American products to the markets of the world, thereby liberating American pockets the profits from such transportation.

Further, they contend, an adequate American merchant marine would be an invaluable asset in time of war for the transportation of supplies or troops.

Opponents' Arguments
Opponents of the measure say the subsidy will constitute a gift of untold millions to a comparatively few groups of shipping interests; that it will not stimulate a truly great merchant marine, but will go only to lines operating ships over established routes; that it is un-American in principle, because it seeks to sustain, out of the public purse, a service which the administration says cannot be maintained in open competition with other nations; that by the special favors proposed in tax exemption and low rates of interest, injustice is done all other groups which must pay taxes and borrow money.

They also argue that, in addition to the direct cost to the government of the of the tonnage-mile subsidy, estimated by shipping board officials at $30,000,000 yearly, the lost taxes and other gratuities would add additional millions which never could be accurately figured.

WOULD PLACE BAN ON SECRET MARRIAGES

Proposal Made by Children's Code Commission to Legislature for Consideration

Secret marriages in North Dakota are in a fair way to become a thing of the past in the near future. That will be the result if the bill prepared by the North Dakota Children's Code commission to submit to the legislature in January becomes a law. The bill provides severe penalties for violation of the proposed measure and is worded as follows:

Section 1. The county judge, before issuing a marriage license, shall require the applicants therefor to file in his office, upon blanks to be provided by the county for that purpose, an affidavit of posting or of publication, as the case may be, showing that the applicants, at least ten days prior to their application for license, gave public notice of their intention to marry, either by posting such notice in a conspicuous place in the office of the county judge of the county in which application for license is made, or by publishing such notice for ten days in a daily newspaper of general circulation, published within such county, or for two successive issues of a weekly paper published in such county if no daily is published therein. Such affidavit shall be subscribed and sworn to before any person authorized to administer oaths.

Section 2.—PENALTY. Any person violating the provision of this act, or knowingly swearing falsely to any statement contained in any affidavit mentioned therein, shall be punished by a fine of not more than $100 or by imprisonment in the county jail not more than thirty days, or by both such fine and imprisonment.

The Code commission, in its report, states that, so far as it is advised, every state that has enacted a child welfare program has made provision that notice of intention to marry must be given before the marriage. This provision is designed to prevent haste and marriage without the consent of parents, the report adds.

The commission further suggests that the present North Dakota law requiring physical examinations before marriages ought to be amended to make provision for compensation sufficient to insure more thorough examinations than are said to be the present rule.

It is a play that only O'Neill would dare write, and only Gilpin could enact the leading role.

TACTICS OF DEMOCRATS CONTINUED

(By the Associated Press)
Washington, Dec. 2.—With the extra session of congress fast drawing to its close, senate Republicans today took counsel among themselves as to means of bringing an end to the Democratic filibuster against the Dyer anti-lynching bill, so as to obtain confirmation of about 1,500 presidential nominations before sine die adjournment.

Abandonment of the Dyer bill was considered at a conference prior to today's session attended by the ranking Republican leaders, but no decision was reached and arrangements were made for a Republican caucus late in the day.

Meantime the Democrats continued their obstructionist tactics, forcing a quorum call and the reading of Friday's journal.
