OUR STREET SHOWS.

Our Merchants' Business Cut Short—Bonanza for Street Fair.

An ARDMOREITE reporter, by courtesy of the management, has made the rounds of the shows composing the Street Fair and this is how he saw it:

Annie, the Fire Dancer, is really a good show, and to one that has not seen it is well worth your while and the price of admission.

Florentine, the Flying Lady, poses in mid air, moves about and seems to defy all laws of gravitation. If there was anything that supported her, or if there were any reflecting mirrors, the ARDMOREITE reporter failed to see them.

The War Show is partially carried out. We saw the battle in the Philippines; the rushing in of the waves and horrors at Galveston looked natural, but we failed to see the naval battle, which is promised on their canvass. When the management announced all over, you could hear a disgruntled grunt go up from the audience, signifying, as we thought, that they were not satisfied.

The Chinese Show in the red tent will please the little folks it is on the vaudeville order, and Joe Hayden, who speaks and sings Chinese fluently, is all right in his line. Mr. Hayden says he is the author of "There'll be a Hot Time in Old Town Tonight," which song they sing with great effect.

"A Trip to the Orient," and the "Turkish Theatre," are both about the same thing, and consist of singing and dancing, but—well, we would not ask our ladies to visit them.

The snake eater has been stopped by the mayor and his diet cut off.

The fat man, Philip Kreigh, says he weighs 715 pounds and measures 81 inches around the waist and was born in Houston, Texas, 38 years ago. He got up and shook hands with us and drew his coat partially off to show us that he was all flesh and not padded. He said he did not feel uncomfortable, and stood there and chewed tobacco and spat tobacco juice just like anybody else.

The free shows consist of the Miller family in their bicycle and trapeze exhibition. They are really good.

We were promised a high diver, to make a leap of 90 feet into a tank of water every day at 3 p. m., but as yet he has failed to put in his appearance.

The street fake contingents are on every corner, in great shape, and taking many dimes from our midst.

Our merchants say that business is at a standstill, and seemed to be very much dissatisfied with the whole affair.

The city received $36.15 Tuesday and $37.50 yesterday as her percent of the receipts.

FOR SALE—A fine Jersey bull, two years old. Apply I. BOGER, at Ramsey's drug store. 2S 6t

WANTED—To buy a stock of groceries, large or small, at a bargain. R. W. RANDOL, 24-tf

T. Y. Morgan is now the possessor of the admittedly prettiest horse in Ardmore. He purchased the animal from Mr. Shippey, who recently brought him from Tennessee.

Take Stock.

The cheapest investment that can be made in building is a good, accurate set of drawings and specifications carefully prepared. 5

He Saw the Show.

The boy's mother gave him some money to come to town to buy a can of tomatoes. He got the tomatoes and as he started home the band began to play and he went down to hear it. The man on the box made a "spiel" and the boy just had to go in, that's all. He had to carry back so much money, but he gave the can of tomatoes in lieu of the price and saw the show.

"The Bluest Blue makes the whitest white—that's Red Cross Bag Blue. Refuse imitations."

Gone Into History

OUR magnificent opening of superb Easter millinery, attended by every success we had hoped for, has passed into history.

Better equipped than ever before, we are now ready to furnish you the very latest creations in fashionable millinery.

Our extensive cash buying for two big houses has placed us in a position to make you some interesting prices. You are invited to carefully inspect every piece of millinery in the house. Our experienced trimmers shall take great pleasure in aiding you in making a selection.

J. J. Dabbs

Services will be held at the Episcopal church on Good Friday, on Easter eve and on Easter. Bishop Brooks will be here as well as Rev. George Biller of Lehigh, and take part in the exercises. The program will appear later.

Barall's shirts, hats and clothing was not damaged much, but prices were all burnt off, and you get them at your price for the next 30 days. 5tf

Attention is called to the advertisement of Mack Pettitt which appears in this issue. The need of improved stock in horseflesh is very apparent in Ardmore and the introduction of thoroughbred Kentucky stock will be received with delight by all lovers of such. You are requested to visit Mr. Pettitt's barn on Carter avenue, where you can see the animal and his pedigree.

For Rent.
