Cold Storage Plant Sold.
This afternoon the cold storage plant on Main street was put up for sale to the highest bidder. This action was brought about by the City National bank, which held a mortgage for $3,044 against L. B. Peyton, who has been operating the plant for some time.
Attorney H. C. Potter was the auctioneer. The bidders were few, and the plant was knocked down to Sam Noble for $3,000. Mr. Noble was a surety on the mortgage with Mr. Peyton. Just what disposition will be made of the plant Mr. Noble could not at present inform us.

Star Route Service.
By order of the postmaster general bids will be accepted up to October 15, 1902, for the reletting of the star routes from Ardmore to Simon, Ardmore to Haulton and Ardmore to Ma-dill, to become operative Nov. 10, 1902.
These routes were let last spring and became operative on July 1, last, but according to a department ruling that the contractor must live on or at one end of the route, which in this instance it seems he does not, these routes will again be let on the date stated. The necessary blanks for prospective bidders can be obtained at the postoffice at this place.

The Woman and Her Face.
Once upon a time a woman had a quarrel with her features because they made ugly faces at her when she looked in the glass. She scolded and scolded, but it all did no good.
Finally she sat in front of her mirror, and with rouge, powder and black pencil went deliberately to work to show her face how wrong it was and succeeded.
After a time she smiled a smile of intense satisfaction, and her face smiled pleasantly back at her.

that I needn't worry myself; that I could keep it as long as I pleased.—

BIZET AND HALEVY.
The Story of the Origin of a Popular Air in "Carmen." Bizet, the composer of the world famous opera "Carmen," and Halevy, his librettist, once occupied apartments whose outer doors opened on the same landing. As soon as he had finished an air Bizet would hasten to submit it to his neighbor, who subjected it to the most severe criticism. From morning to night the place resounded in the composer's apartments. One night Bizet finished a dramatic bit in which he flattered himself he had successfully sketched the pride of a triumphant torador after a successful bull-fight. But Halevy listened in silence and showed but a moderate enthusiasm. Bizet, somewhat piqued, asked the cause of this coldness.
"It's good, I admit," said Halevy.
"In fact, it's too good. It lacks movement—it lacks snap—in short, it's not popular enough."
"Not popular enough!" shouted the piqued composer. "Do you want to write for the slugs?" He went out in a huff, but soon relented and in an hour returned with another air. "Listen to this," said he; "here is my torador idea written down to your popular level." It was indeed the song of the torador, and the only one which on the first night received an encore and seemed to move the first night audience from its torpor.—Chicago

The Burmese Game of Chess.
The Burmese game seems to be rather a heavy variety of chess, the peculiarity of it being that a pawn "queens" when it strikes an imaginary diagonal line drawn from the player's left hand corner to the right hand corner in front of him—his opponent's left hand corner. The pieces are massed on the player's right hand, but the three privileged pawns—there are only three allowed to "queen"—can only "queen" when the queen has been taken. We should say here that no piece equivalent to our queen really exists in eastern chess, the most powerful piece being equivalent to our rook or castle.
In the Burmese game the privilege of translation confers no higher hand on a piece than that of "chekoy"—called queen in European equivalence by virtue of its being unique—a piece possessing scarcely more power than a pawn. The usual move of the piece called "queen" in all oriental varieties of chess is one square diagonally and it is never one of the superior pieces.—London Spectator.

A Plant 1,000 Years Old.
In the town of Hildersheim, Germany, is probably the most unique plant in the world. It is a rosebush 1,000 year old and sprouts from its branches have realized fabulous sums.
Some years ago a rich Englishman offered $250,000 for this entire tree, but the sum was indignantly refused. This wonderful plant clings amid thickly grown moss against the side of the famous old Church of St. Michael. It is claimed that it has bloomed perennially since the days of King Alfred, and this statement has never been disputed, for its record has been as carefully kept as the pedigree of the bluest blooded family in the kingdom. It is supposed to have been discovered by some mysterious means through the medium of King Louis of Hildersheim as far back as 1032.

Maddening.
The wife of an Edinburgh journalist said to a young unmarried friend: "Fannie, take my advice and never marry a newspaper man."
"But your husband is a newspaper man, and you seem to get along very well."
"But we don't. Every evening he brings home a big bundle of newspapers from all over the country, and it nearly drives me crazy."
"How so?"
"I read about the bargain sales in London, Manchester and other places a hundred miles off, where I can't get to them."—Scottish American.

Rather Discouraging.
"She told me she had made a study of palmistry."
"Well?"
"Well, she offered to read my palm, and I let her."
"Naturally."
"And then she told me that I was going to suffer a disappointment in love, but would get over it and marry a poor girl."
"What did you say?"
"What could I say? She's rich, and I intended to propose to her that very evening."

What Answer Could She Make?
Mother—Elsie, your sister tells me you took a second helping of pudding at Mrs. Brown's today.
Little Elsie—So I did, mamma.
"Do you think that was right, Elsie?"
"Yes. You know you have often told me not to contradict any one, and Mrs.
Brown said, 'I know Elsie will have a second helping to pudding,' and I couldn't contradict her, could I?"— Washington Star.

Tit For Tat.
Algy—When he married the widow, he stopped smoking.
Maud—Why?
Algy—Well, she gave up her weeds for him, and he gave up the weed for her.

Certainly a Clever Lawyer.
"Is he a good lawyer?"
"A good lawyer? Why, say, I've known him to prove the truth of what isn't so and not half try!"—Chicago Post.

THE WOODCOCK.
Where Does It Hide During the Molting Season?
It is during the months of August and September that the mystery of the woodcock's life begins. This is the molting season, when the bird changes its plumage before beginning its journey southward. At this time it leaves the swamps. Where does it go? That is a question which has never yet received a satisfactory answer, although each sportsman and naturalist has his own opinion, and many fine spun theories have been advanced.
Some say that the birds move toward the north, some that they seek the mountain tops, coming into the swamps to feed only after nightfall; some that they seek the cornfields, and there have been many other such theories.
Probably the truth lies in a mean of all these statements. I think it probable that the birds know the loss of their feathers renders them to a certain extent helpless and more exposed to the attacks of their natural enemies, and they therefore leave the more open swamps and hide in the densest and most tangled thickets. It is certain that they scatter, for at this season single birds are found in the most unusual and unexpected places.
Years ago when shooting in Dutchess county, N. Y., I knew one or two swamps, which we called molting swamps, where in August we were sure to find a limited number of birds.
These swamps were overgrown with rank marsh grass and were full of patches of wild rose and sweetbrier.
If we killed the birds which we found there, we were sure in a week or ten days to find their places filled by about the same number.—Outing.

Passing of the Cattle Range.
As an outlet for Texas cattle Indian Territory pastures are rapidly becoming a thing of the past. Opening of Indian lands to settlement is the cause.
Year by year the area of pasture accessible to quarantine cattle is becoming more circumscribed and expensive and the South Texas cattle grower is brought face to face with the problem of securing a new outlet. That he has no alternative but to put his stock in condition for the block himself is apparent. This will probably be the last year that the Territory pastures will be available and South Texas must go into feeding or go out of the cattle business or at least its present pretentious scale.—The Live Stock
