

WOMAN'S AWFUL VENGEANCE.

Young Washington Music Teacher Hit Stabbed to Death.

Rochester, N. Y., Nov. 19.—Miss Florence McFarlin, aged 21 years, a music teacher, was stabbed to death in her father's house here today by another woman and an hour later Mrs. Lulu Young, wife of Frank Young, at one time city purchasing agent, was arrested as being the supposed murderer.

The woman who committed the deed rang the bell of the McFarlin house this morning, and when Miss McFarlin answered it, attacked her with a knife. Miss McFarlin ran screaming through the hall into the kitchen closely pursued by her assailant. In the kitchen she stumbled, half turning. In a flash her pursuer was upon her and, with a rapid slash, stabbed her five times. Miss McFarlin sank to the floor, dying instantly. The murderer fled. The only words she was heard to utter were: "She has gone between myself and my husband, and I'm glad that she is dead."

The dead woman was the daughter of a railroad man. She was a person of refinement and good appearance. Mrs. Young made no statement after her arrest.

Stepped Against a Hot Stove.

A child of Mrs. George T. Benson, when setting his usual Saturday night bath stepped against a hot stove which burned him severely. The child was in great agony and his mother could do nothing to pacify him. Remembering that she had a bottle of Chamberlain's Pain Balm in the house she thought she would try it. In less than half an hour after applying it the child was quiet and asleep, and in less than two weeks was well. Mrs. Benson is a well known resident of Keller, Va. Pain Balm is an antiseptic, analgesic and especially valuable for burns, cuts, bruises, sprains. For sale by City Drug Store, F. J. Ramsey and Ardmore Drug Co.

He Could Hardly Get Up.

P. H. Duffy of Ashley, Ill., writes: This is to certify that I have taken two bottles of Foley's Kidney Cure and it has helped me more than any other medicine. I tried many advertised remedies, but none of them gave me any relief. My druggist recommended Foley's Kidney Cure and it cured me. Before commencing as I was in such a shape that I could hardly get up when once down. Sold by Bonner & Bonner.

W. A. Herrin of Finch, Ark., writes: I wish to report that Foley's Kidney Cure has cured a terrible case of kidney and bladder trouble that two doctors had given up. Sold by Bonner & Bonner.

The Best Remedy for Croup.

From the Atchison, Kan., Daily Globe: This is the season when the woman who knows the best remedies for croup is in demand in every neighborhood. One of the most terrible things in the world is to be awakened in the middle of the night by a whoop from one of the children. The croup remedies are almost as sure to be lost, in case of croup, as a revolver is sure to be lost in case of burglars. There used to be an old fashioned remedy for croup known as hive syrup and tincture, but some modern mothers say that Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is better and does not cost so much. It causes the patient to "throw up the bile" quicker and gives relief in a shorter time. Give this remedy as soon as the croupy cough appears and it will prevent the attack. It never fails and is pleasant and safe to take. For sale by City Drug Store, F. J. Ramsey and Ardmore Drug Co.

Gold Only For Royalty.

It is a notable fact that in Abyssinia one but those who are related to the monarch is permitted to wear gold in any form. They may deck themselves with diamonds and other precious stones, but the jewels must not be set in gold. The penalty for infringement of this law is death by decapitation.

HER FRENCH A FAILURE.

The Tragedy of a Blacking Bottle in the Latin Quarter.

She was spending her first month in the Latin quarter of Paris. She spoke English fluently, with a Boston accent; also she spoke German, could make a fair stammer at Italian and knew a few words of Hindoostanee, but of French not a syllable. One morning she found herself in a wrestling match with a bottle of French shoe blacking. The pesky bottle, understanding that it had to deal with an alien, refused to give up its cork. She had no corkscrew of her own and did not know how to ask for one, even if she dared suspect that her next door neighbor might be possessed of the luxury. The time of her pet fork she had beat on the obstinate plug, the point of her best penknife she had broken off short, and nothing remained except to throw the bottle out of a window to get at its contents. She decided as a last resort to try breaking the neck off the bottle. With a "stove lid lifter" she administered several cautious taps in the region of the jugular of the obstinate neck. "Nothin' doin'." Then she tapped harder still, and the blacking came. All over her fingers it came, all over her light woolen skirt and over much of the floor and window sill. She decided to have the skirt cleaned and, packing it into a bundle, tripped off to an establishment where she found embarrassment because she could not understand questions. Finally she got the drift of the conversation. The cleaners wanted to know what had caused the spot. Fortunately a bottle of shoe blacking was standing near by, and she pointed at this and "oid" and "oid" until she left in heightened spirits, feeling that she was not helpless and that she had made the cleaners understand. When the skirt was duly returned the following week, it was dyed black.—New York Tribune.

ANIMAL ODDITIES.

Breton sheep are not much larger than a fair sized hare.

The mandarin duck is one of the most beautiful of aquatic birds.

The queen is always at the mercy of the bees and is a slave instead of a ruler.

A beetle one-third the size of a horse would be able to pull against more than a dozen horses.

The greyhound, which can cover a mile in a minute and twenty-eight seconds, is the fastest of quadrupeds.

The giraffe, armadillo and porcupine have no vocal cords and are therefore mute. Whales and serpents are also voiceless.

The glowworm lays eggs which are themselves luminous. However, the young hatched from them are not possessed of those peculiar properties until after the first transformation.

To escape from dangers which menace them starfishes commit suicide. This instinct of self destruction is found only in the highest and lowest scales of animal life.

Hebridean Proverbs.

The daily talk of the Hebrideans has a shrewd picturesqueness. "Let the loon go laughing home," they say. That is, "Be careful of whatever you have borrowed."

If a person were to be met coldly on going to a friend's house, he would say: "The shore is the same, but the shellfish is not the same."

The impossible is denoted by "blackberries in midwinter and sea gulls' eggs in autumn."

"Better thin kneading than to be empty." That is, "Half a loaf is better than no bread."

"The man who is idle will put the cats on the fire."

"He that does not look before him will look behind him."

"A house without a dog, without a cat, without a little child, is a house without pleasure and without laughter."

Homes in Italy.

Speaking of homes and ways of living, Mr. Luigi Villari in "Italian Life in Town and Country" reveals a curious state of affairs. In Italian cities there are no slum districts. The poorest of the poor may be lodged in the same palace with people whose income runs over $25,000 annually. The poor are packed away in the garrets or in the cellars, to be sure, and their misery must be rendered all the more acute by the sight and scent of such lavish living. High class Italians have no objections whatever to dwelling over a shop or place of business.

A CHRISTIAN CALL.

To the People and Ministers of All the Christian Churches.

The following is a call issued by the ministers at Ada for a convention to be held at Holdenville, I. T., on November 25 to devise some plan whereby congress may right the wrong done to the children who are starving intellectually in this fair land:

To the ministers of all Christian churches, Greeting:

At the earnest solicitation of the members of the executive committee of the Chickasaw Territorial association, and from a burning sense of our own Christian duty and obligations to the one hundred and fifty thousand school children in the Indian Territory, that are growing up in ignorance, which we conceive to be one of charity and duty.

We understand the conditions that exist here to be as follows:—Congress has, in all its legislation, provided us no free school system, and so far as we are able to ascertain, it has not seriously contemplated the establishment of any such necessary and beneficent institutions for our friendless people.

Under the terms of the Atoka treaty adopted in 1897 the revenue and royalties derived from the coal in the Chickasaw and Choctaw nations were guaranteed to the Indian children of those nations for school and educational purposes. Even this partial means of public education was stricken down by the adoption of what is known as the supplemental treaty, for that instrument provides that the coal mines belonging to these nations shall be sold within the near future, thereby destroying the very source that fed these Indian schools.

Now, in view of the fact that we have no school fund or means to provide for one, and in view of the further fact that these vastly rich coal fields in the Choctaw nation are soon to be sold, we the undersigned ministers of the gospel of Christ most earnestly call, appeal and beg every minister of the gospel living in the Indian Territory, irrespective of denomination or creed, to meet in Holdenville, Indian Territory, on Tuesday, Nov. 25, 1902, there and then to discuss and evolve some plan whereby congress can be induced to provide some means to assist the intellectually starving children of our land.

To the end that the Christian men and women of the Indian Territory may be aroused from their seeming indifference to our blasting wants of education, we appeal to each and every minister to preach a sermon on "Education in the Indian Territory," on Sunday, Nov. 23, 1902.
