House Coats.

The man who has nobody to think of but himself, and the man who has somebody to think of and for him, both enjoy the possession of house coats, or smoking jackets.

It's mighty comfortable to come home at night, and slip into a coat that you're not afraid to wrinkle; and it's gratifying the next day to go to business without the wrinkles that the house coat got instead of your sack coat.

The complete holiday stock is ready now. Fine choosing for a man himself—fine choosing, too, for somebody thinking for him.

Every coat at half you would be asked in the cities during the holidays.

We'll tell you how to get the proper measure.

COUNT THE DAYS.

Count the days till Christmas.
The time is drawing near—
The time of friendly giving
To all we hold most dear.
Of gifts and friendly greeting,
Well wishes everywhere,
And tokens of remembrance
Removing every care.

We gently call attention
To our well-laden store,
Filled with the choicest pieces
From ceiling to the floor;
And ask you to inspect them
Before elsewhere you go.
The time will not be wasted.
You'll be repaid, we know.
