THE TWO HEADED SNAKE.

A Boa Constrictor That Has a Very Deceptive Tail.

Every now and then some traveler tells of a two headed snake which exists in Egypt, and whenever the narrator hasn't seen the snake himself, he is more or less disposed to assert that there really is a snake with two heads in Egypt, because he has been told about it by many reliable persons.

Indeed, sometimes a traveler who has actually caught a glimpse of the snake is likely to declare that it truly is two headed, for the serpent certainly appears to be so when seen only by chance.

It is only when the snake is actually taken up and examined closely that the truth is revealed.

The two headed snake is not a poisonous serpent. It is only a boa constrictor, and it is fairly common. But it is so secretive that it hides away in its sandy burrows almost constantly. It is strangely formed in so far that its tail, instead of tapering off to a point as the tails of other snakes do, widens out into a bludgeon shape, thus making it look so utterly unlike a tail that it is almost impossible to think it is anything but a head when the snake is seen for only a moment.

To add to the deception, jugglers catch these boas and paint jaws and eyes on the tail. The work is so carefully done that only a trained observer can distinguish the real head from the false. Thus the story of the two headed snake has obtained wide circulation, and has even crept into the books of otherwise accurate writers.

But the second "head" is only a tail after all—Exchange.

Room For Improvement.

At a dinner given by Mr. Joshua Reynolds, at which were present Harry Rick, Johnson, Fox and others, Dr. Bernard, the dean of Berry, had asserted that after the age of forty-five a man does not improve. "I differ with you, sir," said Johnson. "A man may improve, and you yourself have great room for improvement." The dean was confounded and for the instant silent. Recollecting himself, he remarked, "On reflection I see no cause to alter my opinion, unless I were to call it improvement for a man to grow—which, I allow, he may—positive, ruddy and insolent and save arguments by brutality."

Folded In.

"Madie, Harry asked me to marry him last night."
"Oh, I am delighted," replied her friend. "How did it happen?"
"Well, you see, he just asked me and I said 'Yes' and then he stood up and folded his arms."
"Well, I never. Was he not more interested than that? Whatever did you do at such treatment?"
"What could I do? You see, I was in his arms when he folded them."

DO YOU BELIEVE IN SIGNS?

A mark, note, token or symptom, indicates that by which anything may be known, that is, we are forewarned if evil is to befall us, or we have the pleasure of anticipation if the signs betoken a fortunate occurrence. Accidental occurrences all have their signs, every disease has its symptoms. The point is to heed the former and counteract the effects of the latter. Spells of sick-headache follow indigestion and stomach disorders, belching, biliousness and dyspepsia are signs of sickness. People that believe in these signs and know that they are true from experience, can get immediate relief and a speedy cure by the use of Dr. Gunn's Improved Liver Pills. Sold by druggists for 25 cents per box. Only one for a dose. For sale by W. B. Frame, druggist.

It is not necessary to say "Excuse me!" if you fall from a ladder and land on top of the foreman. The foreman will do all the talking that is necessary.

If troubled with a weak digestion try Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets. They will do you good. For sale by F. J. Ramsey, Ardmore Drug Co., and W. B. Frame.
