GRIEVED TO DEATH.

Andarko Man Refused to Live After Death of His Wife.

Oklahoma City, O. T., Dec. 3.—Grief over the death of his wife caused the death of John H. Brown of Andarko yesterday. Mrs. Brown died just four days previous to the demise of her husband, and while the latter was afflicted with Bright's disease it is said that his anguish was extreme and he constantly expressed the wish that he might die and join his beloved mate. He gradually became weaker and exactly four days almost to a minute from the death of his wife he passed from this life. Mr. Brown was a distant relative of the John Brown "whose body lies rotting in the grave," fame.
