SOCIETY GIRL A SQUAW.

Heiress Weds Arapahoe Indian and Adopts Tribe's Customs.
Miss Grace Wetherbee of New York a beautiful and gifted girl, who had all the advantages of education and society that money brings, is now living on the Shoshone Indian reservation, the wife of a full-blooded Indian.
She dresses as a squaw, carries a papoose on her back, is careless in her manners and indifferent to the conventions which govern white society. But she is regarded as a beauty by the Indians and has richly earned the title. The romance of Grace Wetherbee and Sherman Coolidge is one of the prettiest the west has ever produced. Six years ago Miss Wetherbee came to Fort Washakie, eighteen miles east of Lander, to visit the family of J. K. K. Moore, post trader here. She met and immediately fell in love with Sherman Coolidge, a full-blooded Arapahoe Indian, tall, straight as an arrow, with piercing black eyes, supple body and a mien and voice unusually earnest for even an Arapahoe Indian.
He was then, as he is now, engaged in mission work on the Shoshone reservation. He called several times to see Miss Wetherbee and openly pressed his suit. She was not slow in consenting and after all her friends advised that she was determined to become the red man's bride and would elope with him if need be, they gave reluctant consent and the ceremony was performed.
Since that day Mrs. Coolidge has lost many of the graces of the white woman of culture and education, but she has a look of supreme happiness in her eyes and seems entirely contented with her earnest, grave-faced husband and the brown, black-eyed baby she carries on her back.
On the reservation she is an angel of mercy, visiting the sick at all times of the day and night, helping the unfortunate and giving her husband the greatest help in his work of educating and uplifting the more ignorant members of his tribe.

A Judicious Inquiry.
A well known traveling man who visits the drug trade says he has often heard druggists inquire of customers who asked for a cough medicine, whether it was wanted for a child or for an adult, and if for a child they almost invariably recommend Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. The reason for this is that they know there is no danger from it and that it always cures. There is not the least danger in giving it and for coughs, colds and croup it is unsurpassed. For sale by F. J. Ramsey, W. B. Frame, Bonner & Bonner, and the Ardmore Drug Co.

Economy is a subject which admits of being treated with levity, but it cannot be disposed of.
Spent More than $1000.
W. W. Baker, of Plainview, Neb., writes: "My wife suffered from lung trouble for fifteen years. She tried a number of doctors and spent over $1,000 without relief. She became very low and lost all hope. A friend recommended Foley's Honey and Tar and thanks to this great remedy it saved her life. She enjoys better health than she has known in ten years." Refuse substitutes. Sold by City Drug Store.
