JIM WHITFIELD RECOVERING.

From Injuries Received by Falling Off a Santa Fe Train Several Weeks Ago—He Still Has to Use Crutches.

Jim Whitfield was in Ardmore today from Betwyn. Mr. Whitfield received serious injuries about a week ago while on the Santa Fe passenger train between Ardmore and Marietta. While passing from one car to another, he was thrown from the train and painfully injured. One of the vestibule doors was open and the edge of the train rounding a curve threw him from the platform. His left arm was broken and his right hip and leg injured. His arm was bound up in plaster of Paris and he is compelled to use a crutch to walk. While his injuries are not very painful they might have been worse and Mr. Whitfield is lucky that he was not killed.

PENSION DECISIONS.

By the Assistant Secretary of the Department of the Interior.

Accidental Injuries.

An act of gross carelessness on the part of claimant resulting in accidental injury, and causing disability for which pension is asked. The Department holds that said act put claimant outside the line of duty, relieved the Government of responsibility and rendered the consequences non-pensionable.

Individual Furlough.

Where a soldier was captured by the enemy while on individual furlough, conveyed to a military prison, and during his confinement as a prisoner of war contracted disease and died, it is held that, having been kept in distress by the enemy, he died in the line of duty and the claim of his widow for pension is valid.

Line of Duty.

A soldier is not in line of duty while absent beyond the lines of his command on leave or on pass to pursue of pleasure, or to attend to private business, and a disability contracted or accidental injury occurring while so absent, is not pensionable.

Re-rating, Minors' Pension.

The pension which is allowed the minors of a deceased soldier cannot be divided except in the distribution of the sum total thereof among the minors themselves, and when one dies the whole original pension goes to the living; but the $2 additional for each child, the "increase," as it is generally called, first provided in the act of July 25, 1866, is not a part of the original pension aforesaid, inherited from the soldier, and, consequently, lapses whenever the child, named for

CONVENING OF COURT

TOMORROW FIRST DAY, WILL BE GIVEN TO ORGANIZATION.

BOTH DOCKETS ARE HEAVY

Number in Jail Awaiting Action of Grand Jury—Civil Docket Contains 410 Cases.

For the past several days the official family at the court house have been busy preparing for the January term of court which is to open tomorrow morning at 9 o'clock. Judge Hesse Townsend will preside and all the remaining officials will be in their usual stations. This term will perhaps be the last court held in this section under Federal jurisdiction where all cases that arise in this section will be tried. Both dockets are unusually heavy and the term will last for several weeks, perhaps for two months or longer. The civil docket is larger than usual, and the criminal docket is unusually heavy.

The first day of the court will be given over to organization and getting ready for the trial of causes. The grand and petit juries will be empaneled, and the various dockets called. After impaneling the grand jury a number of bills will be handed out against parties that are in jail at present against whom no indictments lie.

The criminal docket has been set with 99 cases arranged for trial, for crimes ranging from murder and rape to larceny and disturbing the peace and carrying a weapon. Together with these against whom indictments lie are a large number in jail who will have to receive attention and at the present time about 100 prisoners are lodged in that place of safe keeping.

Arrangements have been made and dates set for trial for six murder cases, three rape cases, one man slaughter case, nine assault to murder, thirty-one disposing of whiskey, seven for introducing whiskey, three for perjury, nine for larceny, and a number of others for minor offenses.

The trial docket of the civil side of the court contains 410 cases set for trial at this term.

Among the criminal cases set for trial, the outcome of which will be watched with interest, are the following: E. W. Lester, who is under indictment for murder, Lester will be tried for having killed D. F. Fraser on the streets of Ardmore, Ed Willis, another important case set for trial, was to come up, but the defendant has gone to a tribunal that never errs, and will have justice meted out to him by one who is higher in authority than any of us on this earth.

Perhaps the most interesting case set will be the one of the United States Government against D. H. Johnston, Ex-Gov. P. S. McSely, Gen. Mansfield, J. F. McCreary and Melvin C. Deane charged with conspiracy to defraud the government, in the matter of issuing false war-time medals to the Chickasaw Nation schools.

The case of T. E. Rowland, who was at one time connected with the Federal office in this city, but who is under indictment for uttering a forged instrument while in office, will also come up.

The case which involves a legal point which has been closely contested and which will perhaps have to be settled finally by the highest tribunal of the land, is that of Jeff Carson, who is under indictment for introducing, Carson is said to be an agent for a liquor concern in Texas and was taking orders for stuff for delivery in this section.

In all probability the cases against the Foshoe boys and others for introducing will be handled at this term.

The first few weeks will be given over to hearing civil matters, and the criminal docket will be called commencing Jan. 28.

FIRE INSURANCE.

Full Amount May Not Be Paid Even When Loss is Complete.

In a fire insurance policy the sum insured merely marks the maximum liability accepted by the insurance company and determines the premium to be paid. It is not money advanced by the insurance office as a measure of the value of the property insured.

If I have a life policy for $5,000, says a writer in the Nineteenth Century, my heirs can, on proof of my death and their title, receive at least $5,000, possibly more if there are bonuses. If I have a ship and I insure her with marine insurance companies for $5,000, I can recover the full $5,000 at once should my ship be totally lost. But if I insure my house against fire for $5,000 I cannot recover $5,000 unless I can prove the house to be worth fully that sum. All that I am entitled to demand is the actual value of my house immediately before it was burned, and I must give every assistance to the insurance company in order that the actual value may be justly determined.

By statute the insurance company has the power to reinstate that house, as far as the sum insured will go, instead of paying me anything. In practice, compensation is usually agreed and paid in cash without recourse on either side to the right of reinstatement, but in no case am I entitled to more than the actual value of my house as it existed just before the fire.

PATENTS ON INVENTIONS.

Must Be in the Names of the Actual Inventors.

The law provides for the granting of patents only to the actual inventor of the patented invention, and a patent granted in the name of any one else is invalid. For this reason it is essential that the application for patent be made in the name of the one whom the law regards as the inventor. In some factories it is the custom to patent every invention in the name of the president of the company. This frequently happens because the company has been built up on inventions made by the president or other officer, and as a matter of pride the president wishes to see all patents issued in his name.

This is a dangerous thing to do in the case of inventions which were conceived by the employee independently of the officer, such as inventions wholly worked out by employee without suggestion or assistance from the officer, for if in a suit brought under such patent it were shown that while the patent was granted in the name of the officer the invention was actually made by an employee the patent would be declared invalid, and usually a suit would not have reached such a stage until it was too late to go back and patent the invention in the name of the real inventor.—Edwin J. Prindle in Engineering Magazine.

The Huguenots.

Here are two essays on the Huguenots by Chicago public school pupils: "The Huguenots are people in France that are followers of Victor Hugo. Their leader is a man named Jean Valjean that was a thief, but got converted and turned out well. The Huguenots are very good people. A lady named Evangeline wrote a long poem about them, but it don't rhyme." "The Huguenots is the name of a big thing like a steam roller that the mogul used in India to run over people. It squashed them to death and was very terrible. It had eyes painted on it like a dragon and snorted steam when it was running. They are no huguenots any more."

John Bright and Lord Manners.

In one of his speeches in the house of commons John Bright quoted in a spirit of banter and ridicule the well known lines written by Lord John Manners in his callow youth: Let wealth and commerce, laws and learning die. But leave us still our old nobility. Lord John, who was present, immediately got up and pulverized the great tribune by retorting, "I would rather be the foolish young man who wrote those lines than the malignant old man who quoted them."

THINK MORE—SPEND LESS

Why is it that the average man is worth so much less in money and property than we have a right to expect him to be? It isn't because he doesn't make the money for the average man is industrious and has earned from $10,000 to $30,000 in the past ten years. It is because he doesn't give much serious thought either to his income or his outgo. Serious thought would teach him the value of a dollar; then he would spend carefully and save steadily. That system soon places any man ahead of his fellows. A bank account helps you to realize the value of money and we invite your account and will help you to save.

Returned From New Mexico.

K. C. Tucker returned yesterday from Roswell, New Mexico, where he has been confined for several weeks in St. Mary's hospital. The grave fears entertained for Mr. Tucker's health were dispelled while in Mexico by the development of gastritis of the stomach, the former symptoms of which had led to the belief that his lungs were affected. While his present ailment is no mean malady, his recovery is now assured.
