

OUR YOUNG WOMEN

are so often subject to headache—are languid, pale and nervous—because their blood is thin or insufficient. They are not really sick and hesitate to complain, but they lack that ambition and vivacity which is their birthright. They do not need drugs—but do need the tonic and nourishment in Scott's Emulsion that makes richer blood, fills hollow cheeks, suppresses nervousness and establishes strength. Nourishment alone makes blood and Scott's Emulsion is the essence of concentrated nourishment, free from wines, alcohols or opiates. If mother or daughter is frail, pale or nervous, give her Scott's for one month and see the betterment. It has a wholesome, "nutty" flavor. Avoid substitutes. At any drug store. RUB RHEUMATIC ACHING JOINTS AND STOP PAIN

Instant relief with small trial bottle of old, penetrating "St. Jacob's Oil."

Rheumatism is "pain" only. Not one case in fifty requires internal treatment. Stop drugging! Rub soothing, penetrating "St. Jacob's Oil" right into your sore, stiff, aching joints, and relief comes instantly. "St. Jacob's Oil" is a harmless rheumatism liniment which never disappoints and can not burn the skin.

Limber up! Quit complaining! Get a small trial bottle of old, honest "St. Jacob's Oil" at any drug store, and in just a moment you'll be free from rheumatic pain, soreness and stiffness. Don't suffer! Relief awaits you. "St. Jacob's Oil" is just as good for sciatica, neuralgia, lumbago, headache, sprains.

Something Wrong Somewhere. A mendicant stood forth arrayed in a cloud of gloom and a placard bearing the legend, "I Am Deaf and Dumb." Comes old Festus Pester, wearing a grout that would have put a hyena to shame. "Huh!" he snarled. "What's the need of that sign? I see you are deaf and dumb!" "Like heck, you can!" returned the afflicted one. "You don't see deaf-and-dumbness, you pickle-headed fool; you hear it!"

A PINE WHOOPING COUGH REMEDY.

Mothers, Dr. Bell's Pine-Tar-Honey is just the remedy for your children's cold ailments. The fact is that pine is a quick enemy of cold conditions. Its qualities loosen the mucus in the throat, soothe the lungs and open up the air passages. The combination of honey, soothing and pleasant, with the loosening pine quality makes this an ideal cough remedy for children. Each passing year brings for it new friends. A family of growing children cannot afford to be without it. 25c a bottle.

Experimentation.

"We are making a study of efficiency in our business." "How is it working out?" "A little slowly. We have put so many men at work gathering data for the efficiency program but it has left us kind of short-handed."

Beware of Cheap Substitutes

In these days of keen competition it is important that the public should see that they get Chamberlain's Cough Remedy and not take substitutes sold for the sake of extra profit. Chamberlain's Cough Remedy has stood the test and been approved for more than forty years. Obtainable everywhere.

Drake in Offenburg.

Offenburg, near the edge of the Black forest, upon which bombs have been dropped by a hostile airman, has a remarkable connection with England. It is not necessary to insist upon the story that it was founded by Offo, an "English" king, in the year 600. Some maintain that the name of the place simply means "open town." But in the market place stands (unless it has been "strafed" since the war began) a statue of—Sir Francis Drake! It is not, however, as naval hero that Offenburger honors Drake, but as the introducer into Europe of the potato. While the figure holds a map of South America in the right hand, the left clasp a flourishing potato plant, with fine "Kartoffeln" attached.—London Chronicle.

Cowed in Prison.

"That threatened men live long is an adage as true as it is old," remarked an old New York detective who is still on the job. "I don't know how many crooks I have arrested and sent to jail, neither can I recall how many of them have threatened my life as soon as they were free. Most of them have. But you see, I'm still in the business, though my hair is gray. The fact is that never a one of the many that I have aided in putting where the dogs wouldn't bite 'em has made even an attempt at carrying out his threat." "Don't they hate you more when they get out of jail than when they went in?" was asked. "It's a very desperate man indeed who is not cowed and tamed by imprisonment," answered the old sleuth. "The average criminal is no gentleman. He is as cowardly and as fierce as a tiger. Only fear and force rule him. But his spirit is usually broken, and his inseparable companion is fear when he comes out into the world again."

Practical Side.

Perceval Claude was greatly enamored of Maude Marie. Three times a week he could be found barking at her papa's front gate, and nearly all his salary was turned into cream chocolates by an appreciative confectioner. "You don't know how much I love you, darling!" softly cooed Perceval Claude, putting his arm around the dear girl one night when the moon was shining brightly and crickets were chirping musically. "Gladly would I die for you!" "O Perceval Claude!" ecstatically cried darling. "Do you really, really and truly mean it?" "Yes, dear," was the impressive rejoinder of the other. "Now, next week, any time." "Say, Percy," suddenly exclaimed the fair girl after a moment's hard thought, "do you carry any life insurance?"—Philadelphia Telegraph.

Does Red Make You Nervous?

Suppose that you or your family are nervous, jumpy, inclined to irritability. Then you should choose the cooler, calmer shades of the scale of blue. This doesn't mean confining yourself to blue. Orange belongs in the scale of blue; for orange, being made of the two other colors in the spectrum, is the complementary or direct opposite of blue; and, used with discretion, especially if the room has a northern exposure, it gives life and beauty to the main scheme, without becoming too exciting for the alert nerves of those who are to live in it. But if there are several husky, growing boys in the family, if you are all full of energy and life and go, then a red room will be voted jolly and bright, and will tone in well with your temperament. You don't want to overdo it, of course

Chamberlain's Tablets.

Would it not be terrible if Mr. Bryan would have to swat Col. Roosevelt in "self-defense"?

Nerves Play Queer Pranks.

"Diseased nerves play queer pranks," remarked a specialist. "I had a patient who once spent five months in a hospital, taking a rest cure. He suffered from insomnia constantly. To reach his home it was necessary to spend a night on the cars, and he looked forward to this with great dread. Even when well he had always slept poorly on a train, and he looked forward to an absolutely wide-awake night. So he supplied himself with a powder in the hope that it might help a little. He didn't need the drug, however. He slept eight solid hours, far better than in the quiet of the hospital. Then there was a woman who had nervous prostration so badly that she was confined to bed and had to have a trained nurse. Early one evening her family were startled by an awful commotion and shrieking in her room. They rushed up to find her in a corner killing a mouse with the back of a hair brush, while the nurse stood in the center of the bed, screaming."

After the war doubtless the European governments will go into the moving picture business and recoup their losses speedily.

HUSBAND RESCUED DESPAIRING WIFE

After Four Years of Discouraging Conditions, Mrs. Bullock Gave Up in Despair. Husband Came to Rescue.

Catron, Ky.—In an interesting letter from this place, Mrs. Bettie Bullock writes as follows: "I suffered for four years, with womanly troubles, and during this time, I could only sit up for a little while, and could not walk anywhere at all. At times, I would have severe pains in my left side. The doctor was called in, and his treatment relieved me for a while, but I was soon confined to my bed again. After that, nothing seemed to do me any good. I had gotten so weak I could not stand, and I gave up in despair. At last, my husband got me a bottle of Cardui, the woman's tonic, and I commenced taking it. From the very first dose, I could tell it was helping me. I can now walk two miles without its tiring me, and am doing all my work." If you are all run down from womanly troubles, don't give up in despair. Try Cardui, the woman's tonic. It has helped more than a million women, in its 50 years of continuous success, and should surely help you, too. Your druggist has sold Cardui for years. He knows what it will do. Ask him. He will recommend it. Begin taking Cardui today.
