MUSICIANS HARD HIT BY WAR.

Highly Paid Singers Before the War Now Only Eking Out Existence. Paris, Aug. 10.—(Correspondence of The Associated Press)—French musicians—instrumentalists, concert singers and teachers, excepting those who have gone to America—are among the greatest sufferers from the prologation of the war. Those who had savings had eaten them up in two years waiting for a revival of social life, and the concert and serious engagements, while today that revival seems to be as far off as it did a year ago.

Some musicians have had engagements, such as opera singers and cafe concert artists. Although they have suffered less than those who have had nothing to do, they have felt the situation acutely. One singer, who held title roles at the opera and who received about 600 francs a night before the war, now gets ten francs. There are also teachers who have been able to secure pupils, but with a reduction of from fifty to seventy-five per cent in prices. There are many others who have not been able to maintain their classes at all. They, with the instrumental artists out of employment, are in the worst position. For a teacher is obliged to keep up appearances, generally pays a pretty good rental, and has a rather expensive household.

You would be surprised, said an American musician in Paris to the Associated Press correspondent, if you knew the names of some great artists that I could cite who are in the worst possible dilemma as a result of prolonged idleness. One of them, a woman who has been applauded by people from all over the world, is living on almost nothing, doing her washing and cleaning her own apartment. Another is selling off his rare furniture, piece by piece, though before the war he posed as a man of considerable means. The rare engagements that such artists now get is only a drop in the bucket, for some of them had incomes of from 20,000 francs upward before the war, lived accordingly and now have nothing.

Lindsay Home Burned. The S. T. Lindsay home on the Washita river, near Durwood, was destroyed by fire Friday. The building and contents were a complete loss. Mr. Lindsay estimates his loss at something over $3,000, with no insurance.

Pianos The Bush & Gerts Compare the Bush & Gerts with any Piano at any price that you might think just as good. The Bush & Gerts is built of the best materials that can be bought, by the most highly skilled men to be secured. No Piano can be better built. The tone of the Bush & Gerts is rich and deep, bell-like—many people prefer it to the tone of any other. The splendid design and finish of the Bush & Gerts cases is a by-word in the piano trade. One glance of the Bush & Gerts tells you that it is a thoroughly worthy of a place among the priceless furnishings of the richest homes. The Bush & Gerts has truly wonderful durability. Your investment in a Bush & Gerts is a source of lifelong satisfaction. Yet the Bush & Gerts is moderately priced, selling for considerably less than any other Piano of anything like the same quality. Price $350.00 upward. E. B.
