Farwell of the Birds

September Gives Them the Impulse to Fly Southward.

Chicago Post: September tends to flocks. No, not sheep, but birds. It gives them the impulse to move southward to the land of safety and plenty, and it offers them mild but adequate protection while on their way.

It is in September that one finds summer and autumn as field companions. August flowers still give color to the meadows and roadsides, while with them in a rivalry that is all unselfish are the flowers that are autumn's own.

Through September nights the birds in great flocks move southward. The day of the singing of birds has gone except for the song sparrow and one or two other species which cannot check their tuneful desires, no matter what the season.

No song comes down through the night from the passing multitudes, but they drop their chirps and chink-links through the still hours in a sort of an unmelodious but sincere farewell to the land that has kept them in safety and in plenty through the golden season.

Cheaper Than One.

Cleveland Plain Dealer: "I'm going to New York and stay about a week, and have a good time," explained the tired business man. "About how much do you think it will cost me?"

"Oh," answered the young man who never gets tired, "you ought to get along on about $20 a day, if you're reasonably careful."

"Gee," exclaimed the other. "And if I take my wife along?"

"Take your wife along!" said the young man. "Well, in that case, it needn't cost you more than half of that."

Here's one case at least in which two can live cheaper than one.

There is more casarrn in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and for years it was supposed to be incurable. Doctors prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failure to cure by local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Catarah is a local disease, greatly influenced by constitutional conditions, and therefore requires constitutional treatment.

Hall's Catharr Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is a constitutional remedy, is taken internally and acts through the blood on the mucous surfaces of the system. One hundred dollars' reward is offered for any case that Hall's Catharr Cure fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials.

POULTRY AT THE OKLAHOMA STATE FAIR

It is time all breeders were looking forward to the fall fairs and shows. They should decide what they intend to do in the way of advertising to dispose of the surplus stock at a figure that will leave a profit after deducting the cost of high priced feed. It is admitted by everyone that breeding stock will sell for higher prices during the next season than at any time in the history of the country since the fancy fairs have occupied the minds of the people. The exceedingly high prices of birds have caused many birds to be sold, and to replenish the stock of breeders in the winter of the coming year will put the fancy birds at fabulous prices.

DISPLAY BESPEAK PRIDE OF EXHIBITORS

Each exhibitor at the Oklahoma State Fair, Oklahoma City (September 22-29) is always proud of his exhibit, whatever may be his choice among the varied fields of usefulness. This fact is manifest in the arrangement, the magic touch that beautifies, the appeals to the aesthetic sense which will be everywhere displayed. Each exhibit will speak of the joy of achievement and the pride in the heart of those who made it possible. It will inspire responsive pride in all who view it; awaken a feeling of fellowship with progressive people and a glory in a state good to live in.

FAIR FEATURES AGRICULTURE POSSIBILITIES OF THE STATE

The directors of the Oklahoma State Fair, Oklahoma City, have realized in years past that its greatest field was in the development of the agricultural resources of this State. Last year's Fair had an agricultural exhibit that was unexcelled any place in the United States and its Live Stock Show included some of the finest animals of the breeds. This department has largely been built up through an attractive premium list. Cash prizes and premiums in the Live Stock and Agricultural Department this year total $15,000. In addition to these cash prizes a great many specialties are offered on the winners in several divisions. The date of the Fair this year is September 22 to 29 inclusive.

THE VALUE OF THE STATE FAIR TO THE STATE

The Oklahoma State Fair and Exposition opens at Oklahoma City on Saturday, September 22 for eight days. This will be the eleventh annual exposition. No other institution is so far reaching in value to the people of the State. The Fair reaches and benefits every avenue of industrial life. It shows the possibilities of the State's soil, encourages diversified farming and enhances farm values; it emphasizes the value of intensive cultivation; stimulates the live stock industry; increases the interest in the dairy business and in high class poultry. The Fair encourages young men to engage in farming and stock raising; it extends our markets. It is a big State picnic, an economical method of learning how to improve your fortune. It is educational fun of a high moral nature that makes for the State better, bigger, broader men and women.

$3,500 IN SWINE PREMIUMS

The State of Oklahoma offers great possibilities to the breeders of swine. Its climatic conditions are right; the versatility of the soil and the advantage to market offers exceptional advantages to the Oklahoma farmer to raise pure bred hogs. Requiring the vast possibilities in this direction and desiring to encourage and stimulate the farmers to not only raise more hogs but better hogs, the Oklahoma State Fair, Oklahoma City, September 22-29, is offering over $3,500 in cash premiums.

FLY INSPIRES OVERTURE.

Insect's Buzzing Proves An Inspiration to Composer Mendelssohn. Los Angeles Times: It appears that no source is so humble that the true—and trained—musician cannot gather inspiration from it. It is told of Mendelssohn that his beautiful "Midsummer Night's Dream" music is dedicated for at least one of its effects to the buzzing of a fly.

Length of the Law.

New York World: The phrase "the length of the law" owes its origin to the enormous length of the parchment rolls upon which the ancient statutes of Great Britain were inscribed. The present day official title of the "Minister of the roll" is a reminder of this ancient custom. Some faint idea of the bulk of the English records may be obtained from the fact that a single statute, the land tax commissioners' act, passed in the first year of the reign of George IV, measures when unrolled upward of 900 feet!
