Of Dakota.

BISMARCK, WEDNESDAY, OCT. 9, 1878.

SALUTATORY.

Northwestern Dakota has wanted but one thing to make her perfect, and that is an orthodox, square-toed, rock-rooted, iron-bound, brass-finished, copper-bottomed, mountain-butressed, God-fearing Democratic newspaper, and such the BISMARCK TRIBUNE is, and will be henceforth. We have purchased the paper, good will, material, business, and everything except its Republican principles, of Col. C. A. LOUNSBERRY, who retires from journalism, and we are now sitting around prepared to take subscriptions and advertisements, and do any class of job work with neatness and an alacrity which will be only equalled by the presentation of the bills thereof. As to what the paper will be (apart from its politics), we refer the reader to the journalistic proverb, "a newspaper is what you make it," and observe that we propose to make it pay. STANLEY HUNTLEY.

HON. NATHAN COLE, present member of the National House from the second district of St. Louis, is a candidate for re-nomination on the republican ticket. The profundity of Mr. COLE'S statesmanship, so far as testified in the profound silence with which he has maintained no position on any side of all questions since he entered upon the functions of Congressman. A good story floated around Washington last winter. Some St. Louisians placed a petition in his hands to present in the House. "But I can't catch the speaker's eye," protested Mr. COLE, doubtfully. A commitee went to the speaker who promptly agreed to recognize COLE the next morning. RANDALL looked at COLE and exclaimed "The gentleman from Missouri!" Three times he repeated it, but COLE sat paralyzed by "House fright," and the petition went in through other hands. This was the only time COLE was recognized, nor was any effort made afterwards to bring him to the front.

SENATOR SPENCER is inclined to pass some severe strictures on Judge BENNETT. The charges of corruption and dishonesty are sufficiently serious to warn good Republicans against committing themselves to the support of a man who has laid himself open to such an attack, without investigating the damaging allegations. In the excitement of a canvass, men are sometimes prone to unguarded statements, but Senator SPENCER appears to have weighed his words well, and they cut like a knife, clear through the question of politics and strike the candidate in the vitals.

THAT there is a spirit of public enterprise abroad in the city of Bismarck is amply testified by the alacrity with which our people went into the building of accommodations for the wintering of steamboats. A few days after the scheme was broached, most of the money was raised, a company was formed, and preparations were completed for the commencement of the work. It is such quickness in detecting a want, and readiness in supplying it, that make cities.

THE oracular announcement made by Senator SPENCER that we shall have a war which will last exactly ten years, will scarcely startle the country. There is a disposition on the part of the people to shut up one eye and grin when they hear these political prognostications, but it will be found beyond the range of possibility to ever excite the nation to battle again with so little a principle for a basis as the manipulations of a few wire workers.

SPEAKING of Judge BENNETT'S poverty, the Vermilion Standard pathetically observes: "The fact that a man is poor is no reason why he should be denied the support of his fellow citizens to any office in their gift." Just so, old True penny, but it is because Judge BENNETT will make a poor delegate that the people respectfully kick, not because he is a poor man.

ONE thing certainly should be said in favor of Mr. HAYES; he has kept away from Washington and hasn't meddled with the affairs of the government. Traveling about the country and exhibiting himself with prize cattle don't do much harm, while his presence at the national capitol might have worked incalculable injury. His trip should be encouraged.

THE publisher of the TRIBUNE has associated with him as partner, Mr. MARSHALL JEWELL, for some years connected with the Chicago press, and a journalist of talent and reputation. Mr. JEWELL will have charge of the mechanical end of the schedule, as well as assist in the editorial and news departments.

"HE is corrupt, dishonest, a pharisee and a fraud," remarks Senator SPENCER of Judge BENNETT, and as SPENCER has been a member of the United States Senate, it is fair to assume that he understands the definition of those terms.

IN one thing the Black Hills people unanimously agree with Judge BENNETT, and that is that he ought to leave that part of the country under any circumstances and without delay.

AFTER their term of office expires, perhaps RUTHERFORD B. HAYES, and LUCY W., his wife, can be employed cheap to go on wedding tours for young married couples.

MR. SAMUEL J. TILDEN is the only President of the United States who never visited the White House during his term of office.

Personal.

Mr. Hayes is making preparations for another tour, this time to New York. Having taken the first prize at several cattle shows he naturally wants to display himself.

Cincinnati is fairly happy at last. Theodore Thomas has moved over there, and the strain of his little mingle with the squeals of the hog to the intense delight of musical Cincinnati.

A communication from "J. B." showing that the Indian is naturally a coward and a thief, is respectfully laid over until we can see how close to Bismarck the coming tribes propose to stay away.

Now if our peripatetic president really wants to see something worth while, he should find his way to Ogala as speedily as practical. There might be enough excitement in the vicinity to entertain him.

Just so, Judge.

[Deadwood Enterprise.]

THE conversion of the BISMARCK TRIBUNE to the faith of democracy is additional evidence of the popularity of Mr. Tripp, and republican repudiation of carpet-bagism.

As They Understand It.

An enterprising pawnbroker on Main street has placed over his sign the traditional three golden balls. Thus does civilization in the Hills mount one step higher.

The chief delicacy of the season can now be had at the store of Messrs. Hallett & Keating who are carrying an excellent stock of the finest oysters in the market. This firm have made a specialty of oysters, and from their large experience as well as the necessity of satisfying their
