THE CITY.

Several Bismarckers are about to take a trip to Europe.

The LaShelle Brothers have purchased the postoffice news stand.

Another coat of paint will be put on the Sheridan house in a few days.

A seventeen pound catfish was caught out on the prairie near Fargo Monday.

The Banner City will not appear till next week. The engraved head has not yet arrived.

Mr. Craven, who is farming Meserve's farm this year, has located a claim northeast of Clarke.

A statement showing the financial condition of the city will soon be published as per city charter.

Ida Lewis is quite a granger. She is putting in over 200 acres of wheat on her farm south of Clarke.

Maj. Mitchell says he has applications for over $25,000 worth of lots in Helmsworth's addition to Mandan.

Parties owning unpainted houses should understand that a coat of paint is economical as well as ornamental.

There are several who have not heeded the Tribune's plea to clean up their yards, alleys, etc. Better they get at it.

Those parties driving fast horses before buggies that rattle worse than a child with severe croup, had better buy a box of axle grease.

A special train with the mounted police arrived about 1 o'clock this morning. They will go up the river by the steamer Red Cloud.

It rained enough yesterday to lay the dust. If these showers continue all summer, there will be no need of bringing the street sprinklers out.

Every Bismarcker, who owns a lot in Mandan will have to pay $43.75 for building a sidewalk in front of it. So says a Mandan village ordinance.

Street Commissioner Robidow has been instructed to clean up all the streets and alleys in Bismarck. He will also collect poll tax from every male citizen.

D. I. Bailey & Co. sold seven of the celebrated Diamond stoves yesterday. They let the people know what they have for sale and the people go there and get all they need.

A bonus of from one to two thousand dollars is offered for front street lots in Billings, Montana. Capitalists investing in Bismarck will realize more in the long run.

Now that the auction store has moved to the store room beneath the Tribune, some people who observe the red flag will be led to believe the Tribune is for sale by the sheriff. Not yet.

Lovett Gill came over from Mandan yesterday to see that beautiful piece of wheat on this side. While Mr. Gill desires to live on the west side he prefers the Bismarck side for wheat.

United States Commissioner Corey yesterday issued a warrant for the arrest of Ferguson, a mail carrier between Bismarck and Berthold. He is charged with deserting the United States mail.

Everybody in town thought it was quite warm and summer-like yesterday until they met Farmer Wallace rushing about the streets of the metropolis with two overcoats on, and the collars of both turned up.

W. H. Thurston was in from his farm near Clarke last night. He says he never saw crops looking finer and predicts a bounteous yield. His early sown wheat stands so high that bare ground cannot be seen.

Charley Williams is moving the old Foster restaurant building off the corner of Main and Third streets. The other buildings will be moved as soon as possible to allow work to begin on the brick block.

John Halloran, the water man, and Frank Lammpan, leave this morning for Benson's Landing on the Yellowstone, above Billings, where they will open a restaurant and await the arrival of the multitude and the iron horse.

A squad of archers, belonging to the Missouri colony, en route to Montana by the Red Cloud, amused themselves on the levee yesterday with a bull-snake nearly six feet in length, which they had captured and killed. Some children have strange ideas of fun.

Glendive has just established a hospital. Won't the editor of the Glendive Times, who has been referring to this paper as the small-pox Tribune, tell us what the establishment of a hospital at that point means? We will give him a week to answer this question.

Mr. Griswold, the gentleman from Moorhead who will put a saw mill in at Villard, in the Mouse river valley, returned from his tour of inspection through that region, last evening, and he is enthusiastic in praise of that country. He intends to ship his saw mill out there at once.

The Welches will take a benefit Saturday night at the Athenaeum. These people have pleased many a Bismarck audience and are entitled to a rousing audience. People prejudiced against the Fourth street place of amusement should not defer from giving an actor a deserved benefit.

Probate Judge Corey says he has issued more naturalization papers during the past four months than during any twelve months in any former year. These papers are not taken out by aliens for the purpose of enjoying the royal prerogatives of a voter, but so as to be able to locate on government land.

The St. Paul Dispatch hits Col. Donan's St. Louis beauties the following tap: "Forty maidens—four of them genuine beauties, it is said—did a very reckless thing when they came all the way from St. Louis to undergo the mortifying experience of placing themselves in contrast with St. Paul girls. Have they no mothers?"

An Englishman staying at the Sheridan house pronounced last Sunday's dinner the best hotel dinner he had sat down to since he arrived in this country. Such a verdict from one who had visited some of the most famous hotels in New York city, Boston and Chicago, ought to make Bismarckians in general and Mr. Bly in particular, very proud.

C. R. Williams had a number of ears of corn at his place yesterday that were grown by James Gayton, on his farm down on the Missouri river bottom, near Fort Rice. No finer corn was ever grown anywhere. This is a corn growing country, especially that portion lying on the river bottom, as well as wheat. This fact has already been demonstrated.

Referring to the report that a Catholic priest justifies the recent assassinations in Ireland Father Paul of St. Mary's church, Bismarck, does not think it possible for any priest in his right mind to take that position and thinks if such position was taken it should be held to be the expression of a diseased brain—in no sense indicating the position of the church.

Wm. McCrocy went east yesterday to buy a car load of cows for his Miles City ranch. He first thought of locating at Billings but on looking the ground over at Miles City concluded to stop there. He found the twenty cows he took up with him wholly inadequate to meet the demands for milk. He has been joined by Frank Donnelly who has already located at Miles City and who will move his family to that point at an early day.

Father Stephan, of Fargo, has received a patent for ventilating cars. The pure air is from the front of the engine by means of pipes which connect with each car. These pipes are perforated on one side and may be uncovered to the extent desired or entirely closed. They give the pure air free from smoke and cinders and have an arrangement in connection for receiving and carrying away the impure air. The invention is valuable.

W. E. Jones and Miss Susie Gustwait were married by the Rev. Mr. Stevens at the Franklin house, yesterday afternoon. Mr. Jones is somewhat of an old timer in Bismarck and the up river country. He will be remembered by the newcomers as the handsome and smiling former night clerk at the Merchants hotel. He is now a resident of Mandan, where he will set up housekeeping and begin life aright by observing that biblical injunction so frequently quoted to young married people.

The names of the persons killed in the railroad accident near Spiritwood, on the North Pacific, are W. L. Turner, the brakeman, and Morris Racine, a laborer. The name of the man who was thrown under the ditches locomotive is not yet known. Mr. Turner was a young man of excellent character, and was formerly a resident of Stevens Point, Wis., where his parents reside. He was for a long time conductor of a passenger train on the north division of the Wisconsin Central, between Stevens Point and Ashland, on Lake Superior, and later was conductor of a way freight between this city and Fargo.

The Pioneer Press says: "G. K. Barnes, general passenger and ticket agent of the North Pacific, has, in the line of his duty, designed many attractive advertisements, but none which will reflect more credit upon his taste and judgment than the new 'fly-bills,' as they are technically called, which announces that on and after May 24 the steppers on the North Pacific, already noted alike for beauty and comfort, will run through between St. Paul and Bismarck. These, with the palace day cars, are an earnest of the intentions of Mr. Barnes when the road will reach from St. Paul to the Pacific."

In speaking of the farming operations of Mr. Steele a correspondent of the Minneapolis Tribune says: "Mr. W. F. Steele, proprietor of the Steele farm, is located at present in Jamestown. He states that he has purchased sixty cows and will soon be able to furnish the western towns along the road with any amount of first-class butter. His next venture will be in the sheep-raising line. He now has men in Wisconsin and Michigan who are to purchase 3,000 head of Cotswold sheep, which he will put in the 'Buttes,' a range of hills ten miles north of his farm, the land there being too hilly to cultivate but well suited for grazing. He has seeded most of his land to coarse grains preparatory to winter feeding."

Purely Personal.

Jack of Clubs' partner returned to Bismarck yesterday.

Mrs. Linn has so far recovered as to be able to sit up. She will soon be well.

Lew Mixer, well known in Bismarck, died at Glendive, M. T., Tuesday night of small-pox.

Capt. Greene and private Gerard came over yesterday to purchase an invoice of plants from Major Fuller.

John Ostland has fully recovered and leaves this morning for the east to purchase a car load of horses. Mr. Ostland has been convalescent for ten days past and now finds himself fully recovered.

H. S. Parkin, the proprietor of the town of Springdale, trader at Fort Yates and government contractor, is registered at the Merchants. He goes east this morning and will probably take in Washington, D. C.

Mrs. W. B. Halstead, who has been unable to join her husband in Bismarck, on account of the mud at Fargo, succeeded in reaching here last evening, and is stopping at the Merchants. During the past four weeks she has been trying to get her household furniture removed to the railroad depot at that town, and at last was obliged to leave much of it there until next August when it is thought the streets of that town will be hard enough to bear up a loaded wagon.

The Pioneer of Painted Woods.

Wm. Mercer, the "old-staid inhabitant" of the Painted Woods district, came to the metropolis Tuesday to prove up on his homestead, which he has held as an actual settler during the past thirteen years. He was very anxious to get his patent as he wants to locate a pre-emption and tree culture claim before the land is all gobbled in that region. Settlers, he assures us, are going into that section in larger numbers than the citizens of Bismarck have any idea of. The number already there, he estimates at no less than 200, and that the land under cultivation will foot up in the neighborhood of 3,000 acres in his district. Crops are in superb condition and every body is very much encouraged with the outlook. William is looking forward to the time when a busy center of commerce will cover the site of his old wood yard on the banks of the great river, where variety theatres, saloons and other resorts of civilized amusements will flourish. Then he will be content to cease rustling.

A Dangerous and Annoying Nuisance.

Shall Bismarck continue to be a public stock yard or will the city fathers take effective measures to rid the city of the curse of allowing dangerous, injurious and annoying stock to run at large within the settled portions of it? Four-fifths of all the shade trees that have been planted in the city have been destroyed by starved horses, mules or ponies, by eating the bark and limbs—or have been run over and rubbed down by cows and oxen. This is quite harmless in comparison to their more dangerous attitude to women and children. Good mothers are kept in a constant fright about themselves while on the streets, and are properly constrained from allowing their children the privilege of playing out-door, for the benefit of invigoration from the fresh air lest they be run over or kicked by the stock constantly running in the streets and on the sidewalks. But a few days ago a beautiful little girl, the daughter of Steven Ryan, a hardworking mechanic residing across Thayer street from Mr. Hart's residence, while endeavoring to drive some horses from the door of her father's house, was kicked in the face by a horse, her nose broken and smashed in, her face and head dangerously wounded and she, if permitted to survive, maimed and disfigured for life. It is said the owner of this horse is known and may have to pay dearly for this act of his vicious horse. If he is guiltless on the ground that it is permitted by the city, then should not the city be responsible? It is hoped that the city authorities will take speedy and effective measures to abate and prohibit this terrible nuisance.

A Colored Colony Coming.

W. S. Ingram, a colored man of Mayersville, Miss., writes to know if the members of a colony of his race would receive the same courtesies in this section that would be extended to a colony of whites. The Tribune can assure Mr. Ingram that there is no color line in this region. A man, no matter what his color, or previous condition of servitude, has the undisputed right here to take the free lands of Dakota, and work as hard as he sees fit, and make all the money he can. No one will deny him this privilege. A man is not sized up by his color in the Bismarck region, but by his worth. A man may be black, "but a man is a man for a' that" out here. Let Mr. Ingram come on with his colony of colored men, the people of this district are not afraid of them, and will never allow the colonists to outdo them in politeness. This land is broad enough to give them all a farm. Mr. Ingram, who is an intelligent colored man writes:

"Those of us coming are all laboring people and willing to work. All we ask is the same encouragement strangers of other classes of people receive in a new country. And if you give us a lay out you will find that we will be a great service to your country."

In From Springdale.

H. S. Parkin, the Standing Rock trader and government contractor, arrived in the city yesterday from the agency. He reports the crops and the grass in that section as somewhat ahead of that in this vicinity, especially the grass. A good many newcomers have settled outside of the reservation. Springdale, the new town of that section, is growing rapidly and substantially. Many buildings have been erected there this spring and from the present outlook Mr. Parkin has no hesitancy in banking on Springdale being the coming Missouri river metropolis between Bismarck and Yankton. That young city possesses many advantages that other towns cannot boast. The largest Indian agency and military post on the river is tributary to it. In addition to this it is surrounded by the best farming lands in Dakota, with an abundant supply of timber near at hand. It also enjoys cheap steamboat transportation to the best markets in the east and south. The stream of pure, cold spring water that courses through the town can be easily and cheaply converted into a water power to drive manufactories. On the whole that section is destined to become a rich agricultural country and Springdale its thriving center.

A Scared Indian Agent.

The Indian agent at Poplar River agency, thinking perhaps that he was not remembered at Washington, seized upon one, lone case of smallpox at Wolf Point, as a pretext to send a scare message to the department at Washington, and to be printed throughout the land, that small pox was raging "all along the Missouri river." The truth was not sufficient for him. He desired the department to believe that he was heroically standing at his post of duty, amid a small pox epidemic that reached "all along the Missouri river." He has one case in his region, miles away from everybody and the Indians. He ought to know, if he knows enough to be an Indian agent, that there is now no danger from small pox. The disease does not spread in a temperature of seventy degrees above zero. Here is his telegram:

"Small pox is all along the Missouri river. Have one case on south side of river. Ordered there by post commandant. It came up on steamer Gen. Meade. Think it advisable to inspect boats down river six miles east of here. Will you give authority to appoint health officer?"

The Entertainment To-Night.

Every preparation has been perfected for the entertainment to be given by the ladies of the reading room association this evening, and an enjoyable time may be expected by those who attend. Should the weather be rainy and unfavorable the exercises will be postponed until the first pleasant evening. The following is the PROGRAMME.

A Change in the Dress.

The style of the dress of the little girls who will appear in the fan drill at the reading room entertainment Friday evening, has been changed to the court costume of the Queen Anne style. The ladies having this entertainment in charge calculate that it will be the best they have yet given. The principal features will be entirely new and interesting. Of course, it is unnecessary to expatiate upon the coming performance, as it is too well understood by our citizens that whatever the ladies of the reading room undertake to do they do well. All that is necessary is to make the simple announcement that an entertainment will be given by them in order to insure a large attendance.

A Granger's Opinions.

Our friend Wallace, the granger boomer, was in the metropolis Wednesday. The crops in this section, according to his idea, could not be in a more advanced condition. During all his peripatations up and down the world he never saw a more promising crop outlook than is presented in this section at present. The wheat is now sufficiently advanced to protect the ground from the hot rays of the sun, which precludes the probability of injury from drought. The ground is thoroughly saturated with water and consequently there is nothing to fear from the ordinary drawbacks that growing crops in every country are subject to. The wheat fields that were sown during the fore part of February, before our spring snows and rains came, are looking superbly, and it is the common opinion that the question of early sowing in this region has been settled in the affirmative. But the harvest will fully establish this point.

A Hifalutin Biscuit Shooter.

Dining room girls are a scarce element in our local population. The Merchants hotel proprietors have been compelled to rustle to keep this force sufficiently large to give immediate attention to the hungry and impatient multitude which takes it provender at that hotel. A few days ago they thought to relieve the demand by adding a young man to the force of waiters. He was a dignified and hifalutin young man. Kept his brown-brindle locks as smooth as a baby's back, and indulged in big words. The significance of the words he employed was a matter of little difference to him, only so they were big, and long and not of the ordinary. "Our Arthur," who is a little cranky, requested the young man while he was in harness there, to dilute his tea with hot water. The tea was taken to the kitchen, diluted, and at once returned. Upon placing the beverage on the table, the young biscuit shooter paralyzed "Our Arthur" by remarking: "If your tea is not sufficiently adulterated, I will adulterate it some more." But he was excused, and soon after fired out of the house.

The Athenaeum Closed.

The Athenaeum on Fourth street has been closed for want of patronage. Our citizens no doubt recognized the fact that a place of amusement that sent to Milwaukee for its printing ought to depend upon that city for its audience, and acted accordingly. Any concern in operation in this city that will send abroad for its printing is no friend to Bismarck, and our people are beginning to see this point. The Athenaeum manager evidently obtained his printing a little cheaper in Milwaukee, but that is no argument. He can go to an eastern city also, and gain admission to a better show than was ever given on Fourth street, for ten cents. It's the local newspaper that induces people to come here, and these are the people that a place of amusement looks to for support. The better the patronage of the local paper, the stronger it becomes in its work of attracting the attention of the world to the locality in which it is printed. Thus the influx will be larger and the attendance at the places of amusement will be accordingly augmented. It's odd that business men can't understand such a simple proposition.

Fraudulent Certificates of Deposit.

The Receiver of the U. S. land office, Bismarck, D. T., received the following last evening:

Department of the Interior, general land office, Washington, D. C., May 12, 1882.—To receivers of public moneys—Gentlemen: Having come into possession of information that large numbers of fraudulent certificates of deposit, purporting to be issued at various U. S. depositories, for moneys alleged to have been deposited to cover cost of surveys, as provided for by sections 2401, 2402 and 2403 (as amended by the act of March 3, 1879) of the revised statutes of the United States, have been issued and put upon the market, rendering it possible for innocent parties to be defrauded in their purchase, you will cause the people in your respective districts to be advised of the existence of these fraudulent certificates, and request that all holders of certificates of deposit send them to this office for the purpose of examination and verification; said certificates to be returned to them without delay, with the certificate of this office as to their genuineness attached.

The Jubilee Singers.

The original Tennessee Jubilee and Plantation Singers will give an entertainment at the Methodist church on the evening of the 27th for the benefit of the church. They are the happiest set of people on the face of the earth, and their songs will not fail to touch the hearts of all who hear them. They are simply immense, and draw crowded houses wherever they give an entertainment, whether in crowded city or country village. There is no class of music more popular and nothing that just takes hold of a man equal to this.

Our Population Increasing.

Major Harmon, who is now in Minnesota buying a herd of 2,000 head of cattle, will probably be so elated upon hearing of the increase in his family, that he will buy double the amount of stock he originally intended to purchase. It's a bouncing big boy. A daughter was also born to Mr. Brockway, who is now out on the extension. It seems the baby boom has set in earnest. Little immigrants are coming thick and fast.

Young Ones in the Park.

There is a gang of about a dozen boys who prowl about town until 10 or 11 o'clock at night, sometimes in the back alleys, sometimes in the streets, and sometimes in the park. It is a school of crime that ought to be broken up. If parents haven't sufficient pride in their children to stop it, the city authorities ought to interfere. The city marshal should be instructed to arrest them. It is cheaper to look after them now than to take care of them as criminals by and by.

Experienced Water Works Man.
Wm. H. Hawes, of Bismarck, was connected with the water works at Worcester, Mass., eight years. He deserves consideration when the Bismarck water works take definite form, and will prove valuable help.

The Opera House.

Quite a number came over from Fort Lincoln last evening to hear Mr. McCarthy sing "Custer's Last Charge," and all the old Seventh cavalry soldiers in the city were also there to hear it. The change of programme last evening gave great satisfaction. Nothing like something new.

STEELE COUNTY SEAT KIDDER COUNTY

Offers great inducements to settlers, because, it is excellent dark loam with clay sub-soil. The railroad runs through it. The largest yield of wheat, according to railroad statistics, has been raised in this county. It has a county seat, (Steele) court house and complete set of records, etc., and only owes $2,000 interest 5 per cent. Taxes are merely nominal. Good water and healthy climate. No swamps or boggy land. It joins Burleigh county on the east and is the best watered county in Dakota. (See map.) Excellent sheep and cattle ranges. Cheese factory and dairy at Steele. There are thousands of acres of government land yet to be had FREE, near the railroad and county seat. For any information, address either
