DAKOTA lost a friend in the death of Alexander H. Stephens.

Ex-Governor Sprague, of Rhode Island, was married last week in Staunton, Virginia.

The Duluth board of trade has issued a remarkably neat little pamphlet containing the annual report of the trade and commerce of the zenith city.

The subject of divorce is to be treated in the April number of the North American by Judge Jamison, the well-known divorcee of Chicago, and the Rev. Dr. Theobald D. Woolsey, the life long opponent of divorce.

The New Northwest, a New York city publication, very truthfully observes: Bismarck has five churches and a free reading room, and it costs a saloon keeper five hundred dollars for a license to sell liquor.

The late Edwin D. Morgan provided handsomely for his grandson and namesake, but like old Zach Chandler, made the legacy dependent upon his legate's issue.

The Cincinnati Enquirer, which is renowned for spicy headlines, had the following on the expiration of the late congress: Dead—Beyond all fear of resurrection—With all of its corruption and its sins upon its head—without even the grace to repent upon its death-bed—And may the Lord have mercy upon its alleged soul!

O. E. FROST, editor of the Tin Cup Record, at Tin City, Idaho, grasps the situation in this way: "In retiring from the editorial and business management of the Record, we embrace the opportunity extended to us to say that we do so without a single regret."

The following paragraph appeared in the Pioneer Press of the 10th inst.: "In New York it is given out by the powers of the North Pacific railroad that the booming influence of the organization will be thrown to the aid of but three towns this season. These are Mandan, Richardson, and Livingston, in Montana."

LUTE NIEMAN, the brilliant young editor of the Milwaukee Journal, was visited at his office a few evenings since by Fred Burgin, city editor of the Sentinel, who proceeded without ceremony to give Nieman a terrible thrashing.

That Mandan Shooting Affair. Book, the man who shot Welsh near Mandan, Saturday, informed a TRIBUNE reporter that the account of the shooting and his subsequent action, as published Sunday morning, while substantially correct, contained certain minor inaccuracies.

At last accounts Welsh was lying at a dwelling house near the scene of the tragedy, and it was thought he would be removed to the Lincoln hospital. The doctor thinks his wounds will not prove fatal.

Opera House. New stars, procured often enough, will draw good houses, and Manager Whitney is "on top" of this fact in good shape.

I have sold my stock, fixtures and business known as the Postoffice News Depot, to Messrs. Mason and Conover of this city.

The duties of E. J. Westlake, the newly appointed superintendent of the dining room cars on the North Pacific, will, it is expected, be to see to it that the cars are clean and comfortable.

The Capital has discovered another gambling den in Jamez, and it calls upon the authorities to break it up. In the course of the search the Capital charges Sheriff McKee with "shameful, notorious neglect" of his duty.

Chasleton has a city charter, but the Reporter says the town's know what to do with it.
