TERRITORY PICK-UPS

The statehood delegates are home from their trip to Washington and are regaling the territory towns with bits of their history the past two weeks.

Wagoner has started a 25,000 club. According to the News, Wagoner is going to push Muskogee off the map into the Grand river.

Clarence B. Douglas, editor of the Muskogee Phoenix, Admiral of the Muskogean war fleet, Colonel of the National Guard, "et cetera," arrived in Tulsa yesterday afternoon on the good Ship Mary D., which cast anchor in the Arkansas Bay. An admiral's salute of thirteen guns was fired by the armored cruiser, Soakittum, and the jolly old tars held quite a jubilee down on the levee as the admiral was rowed ashore by his able seamen. The Admiral was on short leave a few hours but after a brief time spent among the land lubbers sailed away to Muskogee with a cargo of nails.

Things do move lively at Durant, according to the News, which says: "Saturday night was ushered in by a scrap at the Red Light lunch counter on lower Main street, and the only information given to the News reporter today by Patrolman Anderson is that Christmas booze was the bottom of it. For a time stools and chairs called the attention of the crowd, and when the aggressor went away it required two or more court plasterers to cover the wounds on the face. It was all settled this morning before Police Judge Poole.

There is an honest disciple of Escalapius in Davis who says that he knows a rich man who imagines that he is made of glass and is always afraid he will break to pieces. The glass man is perfectly sane and sound on every subject under heaven. His relatives nor the attending physicians are able to explain the glass man's strange mania.

Heads of families desiring to build in Tulsa should inquire about the first-class lots on easy and cheap terms in the Friend & Gillette addition. 1f
