TEACHERS IN LOVE MUST GO.

Mansfield, O., April 16.—"Girls in love are not equiptent to teach school."

This was the decree proclaimed today by a jury in the common pleas court in the suit of Ethel M. Downend against the Madison township board of education for $328.42. Miss Downend was discharged as a teacher of music several months before the expiration of her contract, the board alleging incompetency. Miss Downend then sued for the balance of her salary. The defense proved that she was in love with a young man while she was teaching school, and the jury decided that love made her incompetent.

EASTER IN THE CHURCHES

SPLENDID WEATHER CALLED OUT LARGE CONGREGATIONS

SPECIAL EASTER MUSIC

All Churches in the City Were Filled Both Morning and Evening—Great Display of Easter Finery.

Easter Sunday was ideal in every respect. The weather was ideal. It was ideal particularly in affording the ladies an excellent opportunity for wearing and displaying their new dresses and new hats and bonnets. It was ideal for church going, and all the places of worship were filled, because from time immemorial the church has always been the place for the display of new finery, and will be until the millennium.

The churches themselves were dressed in Easter finery. Flowers, the most beautiful decorations of all, were profusely displayed in the most prominent places. The altars and platforms were glowing with white and pink carnations, roses and lilies, all typifying the glorious fact that "Christ is risen."

The services were suitable to the occasion. Easter music floated out on the still summer air, and the worshippers had their thoughts lifted by sermon and song to a Saviour living and able to save.

In the Methodist Episcopal church, south, the congregations filled the church both morning and evening. In the morning there was only standing room and in the evening not much more. The morning service was delightful in every way, the special music being particularly fine, including a violin selection by Miss Cogswell, a lady recently come to the city, and a master of the instrument. The pastor, the Reverend J. H. Ball, preached on the text "Jesus wept," and altho he has preached many good sermons since coming to Tulsa, this was one of his best efforts, if not his very best. In the evening his subject was "What will you do with Jesus?"

At the morning service ten members were received into the church by letter and seven children baptized. In the evening one was received by letter.

At the Methodist Episcopal church there was also a large congregation in the morning and another in the evening. The Rev. G. W. Martin preached two eloquent sermons and received, in the morning, ten additions to the church.

At the Presbyterian church the music was especially delightful, as it always is in this church, and the pastor, the Rev. C. W. Kerr, preached an able sermon full of Easter suggestions. In the evening the time was devoted altogether to music and the church was simply packed.

The Reverend Randolph Cook occupied his own pulpit both morning and evening and preached to large congregations. Here, also, the music was specially adapted to Easter, and was excellent.

At Trinity Episcopal there was no service in the morning, but in the evening a special program of Easter music was given, music of a very high order, and rendered by a full choir. The Masons marched in a body to the church, and they and the regular congregation and many strangers listened to an able Easter sermon by the rector, the Reverend R. D. Baldwin.

There were no special services at the Catholic church, but the music was slightly added to and was of Easter character.

Talking to a stranger last night about Sunday in Tulsa, he remarked to the World man he "was never in a town where the churches were so largely attended by all classes." This is a fact and speaks volumes for the city and her people.

Governor Frantz of Oklahoma contributes an article entitled "The New State" to the May issue of "Southwest," published by the Passenger Traffic Department of the Rock Is-

CHURCH RETURNS THANKS.

The Macedonia Baptist church returns its best thanks to the public for the assistance given yesterday at its Easter services. Twenty-five dollars were contributed to the different collections, and the pastor and deacons feel much encouraged thereby, and by the prospect for better things further on.

C. L. NETHERLAND, Pastor.

Have you tried yet to solve the "mystery"? If not, send in your firm.

HIS CLIENT WENT TO THE GAL.

Impressive Appeal Backed Up by Defendant's Appearance.

The late Charles P. Thompson of the Massachusetts supreme court at one time in his practice had a client named Michael Dougherty, who had been arrested for the illegal sale of liquor.
The police had no evidence except one pint of whisky, which their search of his alleged kitchen bar room revealed.

In the superior court this evidence was produced and a somewhat vivid claim made of prima facie evidence of guilt by the prosecuting attorney. During all this Mr. Thompson was silent.
When his turn came for the defense he arose and said:

"Michael Dougherty, take the stand." And "Mike," with big red nose, unshaven face, bleared eyes and a general appearance of dilapidation and dejection, took the stand.

"Michael Dougherty, look upon the jury. Gentlemen of the jury, look on Michael Dougherty," said Mr. Thompson. All complied. Mr. Thompson himself, silently and steadily gazing at "Mike" for a moment, slowly and with solemnity, turned to the jury and said: "Gentlemen of the jury, do you mean to say to this court and to me that you honestly and truly believe that Michael Dougherty, if he had a pint of whisky, would sell it?" It is needless to say "Mike" was acquitted.

MONEY IN MAKING FANS.

Last Year's Export from One Chinese Port Valued at $500,000.

The export of fans of several varieties from the ports of Hanchow, practically all of which are of local manufacture, has assumed proportions which merit attention, say United States Consul Anderson. The value of fans from the port in 1904, as reported by the customs authorities, is considerably over $500,000 in gold, and this probably does not cover more than half of the trade.

While the vast bulk of the fans thus exported are rated as paper fans, most of them are known in foreign markets as fancy goods. The fans above rated as "fancy" are silk creations of more or less beauty and novelty, greatly valued by tourists.

While practically all these fans go to Shanghai, where they are con-rolled by a guild, as is the case with most other Chinese products, a very large number find their way to the United States.

"Uncle" in China.

Among the Canton houses there are occasional exceptions to the usual one storeyed or low constructions. Some of these are built like square towers four or five stories high, with no outside windows save at a considerable distance above the ground, and no outside projections by which thieves might get in.

These establishments are called paw shops, but they appear more to resemble banks. It is usual among the Chinese to deposit their possessions of value, when not in use, in these establishments. The people also store there in summer their winter clothing, on which money is often lent by the proprietors.

To have dealings with a paw shop is in no way derogatory to a Chinese gentleman's dignity.

Babylonian Studies.

Eminent Babylonian explorers say that the multiplication table which the Babylonian child had to commit to memory extended to thirty times thirty, and that he was easily conversant with two languages besides his own.
The schoolrooms have been discovered and to-day it is possible to examine the schoolbooks, the tablets with the arithmetic lessons still legible upon them.

Tobacco and Wisdom.

Love of tobacco and wisdom often go together. Prince Bismarck was not to boast that he had in something like fifty years consumed over 100,000 cigars, a number that works out an average of five a day—no great feat perhaps for one who was at one period a "chain" smoker, lighting each cigar from the glowing stump of the one just enjoyed.

Practical Preparation.

"I'm surprised that you favor higher education," said the visitor to the village blacksmith. "Well, the colleges are improving," explained the man of brawn. "Time was when they didn't teach nothing but book-learning, but now, by the time my son gets through the athletic course, he'll be fit for a first-class blacksmith!"—Detroit Free Press.

Knew Whereof She Spoke.

She knew something of the condition a man gets into when he runs his own automobile and particularly of the oil and dust that covers his hands and clothes. So when her husband announced that he had just bought a car of his own, she remarked, with a sigh: "Now I suppose it will be a case of oily to bed and oily to rise."

In County Clare.

Pat (to his affrighted horse): Glory to goodness! Sure 'tis a motor-car Where's me coat? Bad scan to it, it's over yonder on me spade. Niver mind, darlint, I'll put me waistcoat over your purty face the way ye won't see the great mar-herin' spitcherlin' divil.—London Punch.

Sunday School Collection.

After the annual Sunday school sermon had been preached at St. Ann's, Nottingham, a collection was made in aid of the sick and poor. The gifts included thirty-five oranges, 213 eggs, forty-six pots of jam, 102 bananas, fifty-six tomatoes, sweets, tea, dolls and toys.

Eternal Value of Humor.

A poet says, "Humor is a great thing, but it has never yet won a battle, built a city or bred a horse." Why should we win battles, build cities and breed horses if the world cannot laugh? Humor is akin to happiness and happiness to hope.

Musical Regiment.

The First East Surrey Regiment of the British army is never without music. When its band is not playing, thirty men who are experts on the mouth-organ provide the music, the whole regiment sustaining an accompaniment.

Salt Along the Congo.

Along the central part of the Congo river there are a number of salt marshes. The Africans dig shallow holes in these, whence issue streams of hot water which, on being evaporated, leaves a residue of salt.

Return to Native Soil.

The Benedictines from France, who have settled at Malvern, England, have merely come home again. King Edward the Confessor, founded a hermitage at Malvern, and after the Norman conquest, in 1066, the hermitage became a Benedictine priory.

Women to Take Census.

Germany in December women will be

One Thing Wanting.

One day little Barry was gazing intently into a drug store window, wrapped in admiration of a mechanical device to advertise a tooth wash—a woman brushing her teeth. The child could not be coaxed away, but kept looking and looking at the figure. At last he turned and said eagerly:
"Mamma, when does she spit?"

Turkey and Goose Race.

Recently a turkey and a goose were matched to walk a race of 100 yards in London. There was great excitement, hundreds of people witnessing the affair. After one false start the goose got well away, leaving the turkey at the post, and, following his master in good style, won easily amid great applause. Before and after the race the goose, with a box on his back, collected money for a local bee-pital.

Oxone Purifies the Air.

One of the most interesting new products of chemistry is oxone, or sodium peroxide. It is made in tablets, a pound of which placed in water will give off more than two cubic feet of oxygen gas. A few such tablets and a little water would do much to improve the air for breathing, where work has to be done in confined spaces and under unfavorable atmospheric conditions.
