STRAW VOTE WAS NOT TAKEN.

Public Nuisance Had Second Thought and Refrained.

"I suppose it's a little early, but—" said the man with the notebook and pencil as he walked to the front of the car and addressed the first passenger on his right.

"Oh, no—none too early," was the reply.

"If you think it is, just say so." "But I don't."

"There are men who hide their political opinions under a hat, and there are others who are perfectly independent."

"Very true."

"As you seem to be one of the latter

Addressed the First Passenger, and as you admit that it is none too early, I will—"

"Do you think it none too early yourself?" interrupted the other.

"Why, no."

"Then pick out the spot on the street you prefer to light on."

"It may be," said the man with the notebook, "that we don't mean the same thing. I mean that it is none too early to take straw votes for the next Presidency."

"And I mean that it is none too early to take you by the neck and bounce you off the car just as soon as you ask me the name of my candidate!"

Then the notebook and pencil were pocketed, the man sat down in a weary way, and the car rolled on and on and the conductor knocked down two more fares.—Cincinnati Enquirer

In an All-Tobacco Cigar

This is the result of analysis of an all-tobacco cigar. An English parliamentary report showing adulteration of tobacco gives the following as ingredients in very cheap cigars: "Sugar, alum, flour or meal, rhubarb leaves, saltpeter, fuller's earth, starch, salt-combings, chromate of lead, pest moss, molasses, burdock leaves, common salt, endive leaves, lampblack, gum, red dye, a black dye composed of vegetable red, iron and licorice, scraps of newspaper, cinnamon stick, cabbage leaves and straw brows per."

Experience alone enables a man so to design and so to carry his design into practice that he can achieve commercial success with them. Gradually and happily it is beginning to be understood that the college car impart only a portion of the information an engineer should possess.—Engineer.

Baboon Was Happy.

When a battalion of infantry was leaving England for South Africa, a baboon, the regimental mascot, showed an amount of joy that was in striking contrast with the demeanor of most of his military friends. "He knows he's going back home," said a sergeant.

Is Your Mental Tool Box Well Supplied ?

EVERY householder prides himself upon his ability—when occasion demands—to handle a hammer, saw or chisel—upon a knack of driving an "emergency nail or of doing most any sort of a "can't wait" job. He realizes that in the commonest odd job about the house he needs tools—that a mere "pair of hands" is not enough. Man being a tool-using animal discovers, too, that in his daily life he needs tools not made of steel—intangible tools—mental implements—mental hammers, saws, squares, bits, chisels, planes—and the knack of using them. These tools are merely "ways and means" of repairing little losses, finding lost things, securing tenants or help, quickly selling property—personal or real—and they are more commonly known as and they have been called "chief of expedients," and are, in reality, publicity doing the world's odd jobs.
