

LITTLE AFRICA IS ALL IN A TURMOIL

Cannot Agree on Which Candidate They Want for Policeman.

DON'T WANT A KING

Claim That Stratford Is a "Boss;" Democrats Take a Hand?

That section of Tulsa that is sometimes inadvertently referred to as "Little Africa," and where the colored population resides, is having a war at the present time that threatens at any moment to develop into a life-sized revolution.

It was started by internal strife over the prospective appointment of two negro policemen for that end of the city. The appointments have been held up by the city commission for several weeks in the hope that the residents of "Little Africa" would get together and agree on somebody for the place, for there is really only one position to be filled, as all factions seem to be agreed on Barney Cleaver as one of the officers.

Claim He's a King. Some of the leading colored Republicans claim that J. B. Stratford, Republican commissioner from precinct No. 16, is trying to pass as a "king." They object to his position especially when they cannot all be bosses. There are no volunteer private to be found. Stratford, they say, is being desired by the support of Martin a justice of the peace, and other Democratic negroes. In fact, they seriously attack Stratford's sincerity and party loyalty.

A man named Young is said to be the individual who has the support of Stratford, but there are many who claim that if Young should be appointed the bulk of residents of "Little Africa" would refuse to recognize him as their law, and revolt would surely take place.

No One Neutral. J. W. Wells and a former policeman named Williams are suggested by the anti-Stratforders, but out of the readiness of their hearts they say that they are willing to drop both of these men providing the commission will select a "neutral" person. The problem now is to find someone who is neutral, for practically every man, woman and child in "Little Africa" has lined up either with or against Stratford.

The anti-Stratforders say they will be perfectly satisfied with anyone the commission appoints—so long as he is not a "Stratford man." The commission is inclined to use diplomacy and has adopted a policy of "watchful waiting," but it begins to look like a settlement of the dispute cannot be made, and the appointments probably will be made at tomorrow morning's meeting.

Brave Fire Laddies TO HOLD CONVENTION

Men Who Battle Flames Will Meet at Cushing May 23-26 Inclusive.

BIG TIME PLANNED

Moving Pictures Will Be Made of Special Exhibits and Parade.

Special to The World. CUSHING, Okla., May 17.—The fire laddies of the state will meet in state convention in Cushing, Okla., on May 23-24-25-26. An elaborate program covering the entire four days has been arranged by Chief Gelbhaar of the Cushing fire department, which includes races of all kinds.

In order to make the big firemen's tournament one of the most complete and elaborate ever held in the southwest, arrangements have been made by Chief Gelbhaar with the Zenith Film Producing company of Kansas City to make moving pictures of all the big events and special attractions.

This will include something like a thousand Cushing school children, the members of the fraternal orders and local societies; merchants, prominent local and visiting people, all of whom have arranged to take part in the big parade on Thursday, May 25. This will add much to the interest of the meeting and make a permanent record for the exhibit that every one will want to see.

The city of Cushing will take great pleasure in acting as the hostess to the firemen of the state.

NOMINATE MEN FOR ROTARY POSITIONS

Al Farmer and W. E. Gordon to Be Candidates for President.

The names of men from whom the new officers of the Tulsa Rotary Club will be selected were placed before the club members yesterday by the nominating committee at the regular weekly luncheon. The election will be held early next month. Two candidates were named for each office as follows: President, A. L. Farmer and W. E. Gordon; vice-president, Frank I. Lewis and W. H. Bagley; secretary, John A. Hamner and Clark Fields; treasurer, R. E. Alexander and D. J. Davidson; sergeant-at-arms, Homer Conley, and Jack DeShane.

Practically all of yesterday's meeting, which was presided over by T. J. Byrne, was devoted to business and the speaking program was postponed until next week.

President Stahl announced that the long promised trip to Joplin to formally inaugurate the new Joplin club will be held next Tuesday and a score of more Tulsa members will leave Tulsa Tuesday afternoon, spend the evening at Joplin and return Wednesday morning. Delegations for a half dozen southwestern cities will be present.

Chairman C. J. Friedman of the entertainment committee announced that the annual ladies night entertainment would be held on June 6, and urged all to attend with their ladies as an annual program had been arranged. Every lady will be presented with a gift.

A telegram was read from several members of the Tulsa Rotary club attending the gas convention at Pittsburgh, announcing that the following Tulsans were the guests of the Pittsburgh Rotary club: Henry Greis, A. G. Huggins, Sam Dye, W. H. Bagley and A. V. Bourque.

LOCATE LLOYD COLE IN ARKANSAS TOWN

Wires Officers Here He Will Return Without Extradition.

VISITING HIS BRIDE

Accused of Obtaining $13,500 Under False Pretense on Lease.

Lloyd Cole, the young oil man for whom a warrant has been issued, charging him with obtaining $13,500 from Cyrus and S. J. Leater under false pretenses for alleged misrepresentation of an oil lease in Nowata county, has been located at Gentry, Ark. Sheriff James Woolley received a telegram from him yesterday saying he would return to Tulsa without extradition papers.

Cole, who is vice-president of the Cole Oil & Gas Co., came to Tulsa recently and engaged in the oil business. He became a tenant only a few weeks ago and it is presumed that he left Tulsa to join his young bride, who is visiting her parents in the Arkansas town.

When a deputy sheriff went to Cole's office Tuesday to serve the warrant he found that Cole had left the city, but a letter addressed to his wife at Gentry was found on his desk. It is not believed that Cole had any idea of being arrested and all unkindly of what was transpiring left for a visit to his wife.

"I will return without extradition," read the telegram received by the officers yesterday and Sheriff Woolley left last night to bring Cole back. Cole is said to be an exemplary young man by his friends here who greatly deplore the incident. He came here from Nowata.

Two Generations of Defenders Keep Step

Police Lead. The procession was led by a platoon of police, headed by Chief of Police Lucas, and a number of mounted officers.

Then followed the Tulsa Military band, after which came the department colors, escorted by a squad of color bearers. The Frisco-Santa Fe following were more than five hundred veterans of the Grand Army of the Republic and seven hundred veterans of the Spanish-American war. The Bartlesville Spanish War Veteran band was one of the attractions of the procession and applause greeted it all along the line of march.

Children Carried Flags. But what, as one old veteran described it, had been market balls for the veterans was changed into grape and shrapnel when the 6,400 school children of Tulsa passed along the streets. Each was provided with an American flag and singing and waving their flags it was one of the greatest sights that has ever been presented on the streets of this city.

This great looking of children, passing through the streets in an orderly and almost machine-like manner was a high tribute to the efforts of Superintendent Charles Adner, who personally led the body over the line of march without a single feature to mar it.

Pass Governor. It was at the finish of the parade, when the entire line passed in review before Governor Williams on the stage of Convention hall, that another compliment was paid the forethought of the fathers of the plan which gave to this city an audience of several thousands as to make possible the entrance and exit from its stage of 7,600 persons within the space of 45 minutes.

The first general meeting of the veterans of the G. A. R. was called to order at 1:30 o'clock and matters of importance to the organization, including the reading of several reports, were disposed of. It was at the beginning of this session that Governor Williams made a short address.

Governor Talks. "I have never given welcome to an organization which more touches my heart and for which I have a more kindly feeling than to this one before me," the state's executive said in his address. "It was for a cause as dear to your hearts as mine that I have so far that led you to engage in the great conflict of which you were victorious. But whether you had won or lost, you were fighting for a principle, and when a man sees that he is a man, a true man like all Americans should be."

"This organization is one of the greatest and grandest in our fair state, the whole nation is proud. And I, as the state's executive, am as proud as any man or woman in it. I want you to feel that you are the pride of our state."

Following this meeting, which adjourned at 4 o'clock, the several organizations took advantage of the opportunity presented by more than a score of automobile owners to make a trip about the city, returning in trip for the informal reception held in the banquet room of the Brady Hotel at which the ladies organization were hostess to the veterans of the two wars.

Night Session. From 8 o'clock until 9:30 o'clock the program included but a short business session of the ladies organization at the Convention hall after which the grand march of the military was called and the last event of the day's busy program was presented, special military music being one of the features.

It was announced that the following officers of the Ladies of the Grand Army of the Republic were elected at yesterday's afternoon session: Mrs. D. Wallace, Tulsa, department president; Mrs. Bertha Carey, Alva, senior vice-president; Florence E. Day, Ehd., junior vice-president; Elizabeth Furrow, Guthrie, department chaplain, and Mrs. Etta Query, Tulsa, department treasurer.

WANT SANTA FE TO BUILD OWN PLACE

Traffic Association Asks for Severance of Two Railroads.

QUARTERS OUTGROWN

Frisco Needs All of Present Station; Affairs Are Congested.

At a meeting of the Traffic association Tuesday evening the congested condition of the Frisco-Santa Fe depot was thoroughly discussed by a number of large shippers in Tulsa. It is a fact that the Frisco-Santa Fe as a joint proposition have greatly outgrown their present facilities and the traffic association is urging the Santa Fe to build freight terminals and a depot of its own.

Some slight improvements are being contemplated in the handling of the freight business for the joint roads, but it is not believed the new arrangement will relieve the situation. The association does not believe the roads will ever be able to give the proper service to the shipping public as long as they maintain joint facilities, as one road is certain to get the best of the proposition in the quickness of deliveries.

There is only one way in which the shippers and receivers of freight in Tulsa will get the service which is due them and that is by the Santa Fe building its own freight facilities, as the Frisco will occupy all of the available ground they have.

LOVE AFFAIR MADE INDIAN KILL SELF

Jack Hartley, Osage, Sent Bullet Through Head; Found on Tracks.

Jack Hartley, a full-blood Osage Indian, bought a ticket to the "happy hunting ground" late Monday night when he purchased a new revolver and walking out the Frisco tracks to a point near the Oklahoma Iron Works sent a bullet crashing through his right temple. His body was found yesterday morning by a negro, who notified Sheriff Woolley.

Hartley was about 46 years old. In his pockets was found $25.00 in money. He had torn the end from a shoe box and scribbled on it "Send word to Lewis Righorse, Pawhuska. I'm killing myself. My home is in the Osage nation."

According to a story told yesterday Hartley had called up a sweetheart at Oklahoma City on the telephone and he had been drinking immediately after and in a fit of despondency purchased the gun.

A coroner's jury in the court of Justice Lee handed findings evening that Hartley had come to his death by gunshot wound, self-inflicted. The body will be sent back to Pawhuska today for burial. No word had been received from relatives last night, although the sheriff's office made efforts to get in touch with them.

Hartley was quite well known here and it is said he had been married at one time.

House Passes the Flood Control Bill

Continued from page one. Mississippi and the Sacramento rivers were the only two projects that have been thoroughly investigated and surveyed and reported on to congress by the chief engineers. He explained that the Mississippi river project would make possible the reclamation of about fifteen or sixteen million acres by private enterprise.

Representative Moore of Pennsylvania and others attacked the bill. Mr. Moore declared that the people of the east were asleep and had no conception of the vast aggregate of appropriations being rolled up by this congress.

The congressional flood control committee will leave Saturday on a ten days trip of inspection of the Brazos and other rivers in Texas.

CONVENTION HALL SCENE OF COMEDY

Big Building Will Be Used Again This Year for Class Play.

The versatility of Convention hall will be proven May 29 when the second play ever given on that stage will be presented by members of the American School Peace league. The acting class of Tulsa high school, last year's senior class play is the only precedent and it was such a success that these who have charge of the occasion have decided to make it an annual event.

It has been found that with fair attention on the part of the audience, the players can be heard distinctly in any part of the house. The matter has been even better arranged this year than last because the cast was picked with a special eye as to how their voices would carry through the big space.

Every male character has played a prominent part in high school debating circles, having taken public speaking, and are well trained in the way to make their voices carry. They are all known in high school circles as good speakers and should have no trouble in "getting over."

Of the three leading girl characters one has rivaled the boys in the matter of debating and is considered one of the likely contenders for highest honors in the school in public speaking. Both of the other young ladies have strong clear voices.

The play to be given is "You Never Saw Tell" by George Bernard Shaw, the celebrated English dramatist. Miss Theodora Pottle, head of the music and art departments, is directing the rehearsals.

TODAY 'PEACE DAY' IN TULSA SCHOOLS

Children Will Observe Occasion With Rest of the World.

As has been the general custom in the Tulsa schools for several years, today has been set aside as Peace Day and the local system will join forces with all educational interests of the world to foster the idea of peace in the minds of the children.

The movement has been observed for many years, being promulgated by the American School Peace league. Tulsa teachers have been instructed by a special bulletin to give a talk or lecture on the subject as some time during the day. For material a pamphlet has been sent out which contains vivid articles supplied by the Peace league.

The special significance of the observance is the fact that to do away with the present condition, the pamphlet urges the adoption of the Hague conference plan.

Some of the schools have gone farther, preparing programs to be given before the school and parents. Many teachers are requiring a theme on the subject of peace and other methods will be taken to impress the idea.
