

MOST SUCCESSFUL MONTH FOR C. OF C.

Local Business Men's Organization Takes Part in Varied Interests.

COL. DOUGLAS ACTIVE

Is Instrumental in Bringing New Interests Here. Gets 21 Members.

The month just brought to a close has been one of the most successful in the history of the Chamber of Commerce and Federation of Allied Interests, according to data which has been compiled by Secretary Clarence R. Douglas, who is just completing his first month's work in that capacity.

The activities of the club for the month began on the second day when the directors met in regular noonday luncheon at Hotel Tulsa, and discussed and disposed of routine matters brought before them by the secretary. On the fifth of the month the entire membership of the Chamber of Commerce, the Tulsa Retail Merchants Association and the Traffic Bureau joined in a reception and smoker in honor of the visiting members of the Kansas City Chamber of Commerce. The following day the directors held another meeting at luncheon at the hotel.

Want Kendall In.
Two days later several of the officials of the Chamber of Commerce, including Vice-President Frank Greer, took part in a meeting held in Kendall, which had as its purpose the discussion of ways and means for the annexation of Kendall to the city of Tulsa. The meeting was largely attended.

On the 15th the Retail Merchants' association held the annual election of officers and on the following day another of the regular directors' meetings was held. On the 19th a banquet was given by Colonel John Johnson to members of the organization under him in this state, known as the One Hundred Thousand Dollar Illinois Life Insurance Club.

Two days later the directors of the Chamber of Commerce gave a banquet in honor of the retiring secretary, E. O. Tillburne, and the incoming secretary, Clarence R. Douglas. Colonel Douglas, however, was not present, due to an engagement in St. Louis on the evening of the affair. His trip to St. Louis was in connection with a conference of railroad men in that city.

The called meeting of the delegates to the Good Roads and Ozark trail convention was held on the 14th and on the following day the leading wholesale grocery dealers of Oklahoma were in executive session in the Chamber of Commerce rooms.

General Council Meets.
The general council of the Chamber of Commerce met during the noon hour of June 14 at Hotel Tulsa, and several matters of vital importance to the organization, and the city in general, were discussed and action taken upon.

The two following days were given a place on the busy calendar of the club by the arrival in this city of a representative of a large brass foundry, seeking a location for a plant. The site was selected on the 15th and work was begun immediately to move to this city at once equipment for a large brass works.

The first part to be played by the Chamber of Commerce in the recruiting of a company to take its place in the Oklahoma national guard came on the 26th when the first meeting of those interested in such a movement was held in the clubrooms and on the same evening there was a meeting of prominent Kendall and Tulsa residents in the clubrooms for the purpose of advancing the movement to annex the village of Kendall to Tulsa. On the same day the delegation of Muskogee boosters arrived in the city and were guests of the Chamber of Commerce and the Rotary club during the noon hour.

The Tulsa Retail Merchants' association held the annual election of officers on June 23 and on the next day there were meetings of the directors and of the general body, it being the regular meeting night of the Chamber of Commerce.

Ready to Entertain.
The railroad and reception committees met in the rooms of the Chamber of Commerce the following day and made preparations for the entertainment of the visiting Missouri, Kansas & Texas officials who were expected to arrive in the city during the month, but who returned to their posts as a result of orders for troop movements.

The club took part in several movements for improvements of conditions in the city, assisted in securing funds to place to the credit of Company C, Tulsa, O. N. G., and purchased more than $100 worth of tobacco, cigars and papers for the soldiers passing through the city from eastern cities to Mexico. Several thousand pieces of literature also was distributed by the secretary and several hundred pieces of correspondence were mailed. During the month 21 new members were enrolled and but one resigned.

MANUFACTURERS OF OKLAHOMA ASLEEP?

Oklahoma Branch of Naval Consulting Board Makes Last Appeal.

GOVERNMENT SCHEME

Industries of This State Can Get Contracts for War Material.

The naval consulting board of Oklahoma is urging the industries of the state that wish to have the cooperation of the government in time of war, and who have been delinquent in filling inventory blanks, to act at once. The board believes that by neglecting to fill and return these inventories, many Oklahoma manufacturers are standing in the way of their own prosperity in case of war.

The following telegram from Capt. H. V. Hinckley, Oklahoma City, civil engineer, member of the board, is self-explanatory.

Mr. Editor—Please say to the manufacturers of Oklahoma that if America were to get into a real war, most of our industries would find themselves out of work and out of men. Our government, through the national consulting board, has asked them to say whether they would take an annual order, either for raw supplies, which they now manufacture, at cost plus a reasonable profit, and whether they would like to have their employees enlisted in the industrial reserve and therefore be exempt from military duty. Many industries have not responded and are standing in the way of their own prosperity in case of war. Uncle Sam prefers to scatter the war profits among the thousands of small shops over the country but this co-operation is not compulsory. A supplemental list of manufacturers desiring to cooperate with the government will be forwarded to New York July 6. Delinquent manufacturers are advised, for their own good, to give this matter attention tomorrow, returning the inventories with all questions answered, to Prof. Edwin Dellar, acting chairman, Norman, Okla., naval consulting board. By H. V. Hinckley, member.

Patriotic Duty.
This is a patriotic duty as well as a precaution looking to the preservation of industry. When the German emperor declared war, the factory employes in Germany took up their new war tasks at other machines, at which they had been trained for years, and continued to augment the supply of shells. England on the other hand had to send her troops to the front with a limit of three rounds of ammunition per day and she now has 125,000 women in her shops helping to supply ammunition for the allies. If any machine shops in Oklahoma have not received inventory blanks, they should write to Professor Dellar at once requesting same.

In order to pave the way for greater efficiency in the industrial census being taken under the direction of the naval consulting board, the Associated Advertising Clubs of the World, touching American business at practically every point, have placed their entire organization squarely behind the movement.

president, and a specially appointed committee of leading publishers and advertising experts, will shortly start an advertising campaign in the newspapers and magazines of America in support of the work of the committee on industrial preparedness, which embraces an organization of thirty thousand highly trained engineers, formed for the purpose of making a thorough inventory of American industry for the first time in national history.

After a consultation upon the campaign with members of the committee, Mr. Houston said:
"The plan which has just been approved by President Wilson, the secretary of the navy and the naval consulting board, provides for the active cooperation of our organization with the thirty thousand engineers who are undertaking the tremendous task of making a very index survey of American industry, so that it may be prepared for national defense, if need comes. Through the great power of advertising we are arousing manufacturers, workmen, business men, in fact the entire country, to the vital need of making industry the basic line of defense so that, if necessity arises, it can supply munitions quickly and abundantly."

Offer Free Space.
"Publishers of leading newspapers, magazines and farm papers, poster men and electric sign men, trade paper publishers and others representing the different advertising interests have already offered space to carry the advertising, without cost to the government. We are enlisting the service of the most distinguished illustrators in the country, of the best copy writers and engravers, and it is our purpose to have a campaign of advertising that shall be commensurate in quality and power with the great national task which the government has asked us to join the engineers in undertaking."

Tulsa already has felt the effects of this campaign. Distributed over the city are striking billboards, urging cooperation of everyone, with the engineers who are forming the national inventory. Other steps in the campaign will follow in the near future, it being the purpose of the advertising to put the manufacturers in a receptive frame of mind.

The preliminary part of the census has been completed and forwarded to Washington. The work will be continued and by the aid of publicity M. Valerius, who is in charge of the local field, hopes to pick up many industries which have hitherto escaped the notice of him and his aides.

The data secured from the Tulsa factories will be included in a card index of the entire nation, from which the army and navy officials will be able to estimate our capacity in every line of manufacturing.

The plants that can handle some kind of government equipment will be given trial orders as a means of educating the workmen in turning out that commodity. Similar trial orders will be given at intervals for an indefinite length of time so that the factories can be kept ready for the call to arms.
