

SENTIMENT GROWS TO SINK HUN SHIPS

Secretary Daniels Home From Europe Says England Favors Course White French Are Divided.

WOULD BE "MORAL LESSON"

Benson Sees Example to World—Too Expensive to Equip Warships for American Use.

NEW YORK, May 17.—Secretary of the Navy Daniels, who has been in Europe for several weeks inspecting American naval forces and paying visits to European authorities, returned today on the transport Mount Vernon.

Secretary Daniels said it was not yet determined what would be done with the German battleships, but that there was a strong feeling, particularly in England, that they should be sunk.

The secretary declared it would be a "moral lesson" to the world to sink the German ships, but that there was a strong feeling, particularly in England, that they should be sunk.

French sentiment, Mr. Daniels said, was somewhat divided on the question, the main argument being against sinking the ships being that it would be a "waste of property."

CHEROKEES TO RENEW CLAIMS FOR MILLIONS

A committee representing Cherokee citizens will go to Washington this week to assist in preparing a bill which will permit the bringing of a suit against the government to recover several millions of dollars which the tribe claims is due as a result of a treaty with the government under the provisions of which valuable tracts of land were ceded to former slaves of the tribe.

The movement to secure a settlement with the government has been under foot for several years, but it is understood that Secretary Lane of the interior department has advised against such action.

Among those who will go to Washington to present the tribe's claims are S. R. Lewis and A. C. Hunt of Tulsa, James S. Reynolds of Vinita and E. S. Atkins of Muskogee.

Craig County's Proposed Courthouse

Special to The World.

VINITA, Okla., May 17.—Craig county will vote tomorrow on the proposition to build in the city of Vinita a courthouse to cost $150,000. The building will be of carriage stone and will be modern in every particular.

Craig county rents a building not suited to court purposes for about $3,000 a year. The funds to be voted upon tomorrow will automatically pay themselves in 25 years. The interest will be little more than the rent now being paid.

The basement of the new building will contain a large assembly room for public gatherings and an armory for the national guards. The first floor will be occupied by the office of the county election board, superintendent of schools, county surveyor, jailer, rest room and the war relic museum.

The Foster-Parents of Our Children

It is strange that the generous-hearted American people, who poured out their riches so prodigally in response to every patriotic, every charitable appeal and who are so much interested in the welfare of every child, should have neglected to properly encourage and reward the services of one of the noblest professions in the field of human activities—a profession that, in lofty ideals, in unselfish principles, in sacred responsibilities, stands side by side with the ministry of the gospel itself.

We wish to bespeak with whatever power and authority we may have and with such words as may be granted to us, some measure of consideration for the foster fathers and mothers of our children—the school teachers of the United States of America.

There is no class of workers of which we demand so much. We commit into their keeping the minds, the bodies and the very souls of our children in the tender and formative years of their lives, and they, receiving these children, can indeed be said to hold in the hollow of their hands the future of America.

Either Foot or Martyr.

When we consider that the 740,000 teachers of America are paid an average of $500 a year, more over, we consider the fact that the big road agents actually advanced 100 per cent since the beginning of the war, thereby cutting the buying power of these insignificant salaries only a foot or a martyr would choose to hang as a profession, or would long remain in it unless these terrible conditions were swiftly remedied.

The peace and security of the world of the future will be in the hands of the generation now in our schools. These boys and girls must "weave up the ravaged sleeve" of civilization. Their hands must be trained in the ways of the world, and their minds must meet and solve the difficult and crucial problems that will be their inheritance.

The district and county courtrooms will be on the third floor. Commodious witness rooms and the offices of the district and county judges will be on this floor, also the court clerk.

5,000 for a Minimum.

Let each community invest in a training method and womanhood that can pay the price of reconstruction that lies before us. Let each community set for its goal, as far as is practicable, a minimum wage of at least $1.00 a year for the teachers of America.

Truly they have made the nation their everlasting debtor. Truly had they not done their work so well this republic would not outlast the span of a generation.

What, then, have the teachers received at our hands in return? They have received little of honor and somewhat less of pay. Other classes through powerful organizations have secured generous wages. The teachers have no spokesmen, however, to demand even the simple justice of a better wage, so that they may give their pitiful wage, so meager, so meager, so pitifully inadequate, that it places a burning brand of shame and disgrace upon this nation.

Gompers Not to Quit.

NEW YORK, May 17.—Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor, denied today a published statement that he was considering resigning his post as head of the federation.

Aged Tulsan and Brother Were Bounced On Knee of Lincoln and His Rival Steve Douglas

W. A. Cox aged 72, pioneer of Oklahoma in the early days when this country was first opened to the settler and now a resident of Tulsa at 214 South Lawton, was a boy 10 years old and lived on his father's farm near Peoria, Ill., when "Abe" Lincoln and "Steve" Douglas stomped the state "back in '37" and appeared in joint debates on important questions of the day upon which each took issue in the race for governor.

The two candidates traveled over the state of Illinois together and one night W. O. Cox and George Cox, his elder brother, were confirmed in different political faiths which the latter kept to the day of his death.

"I never forget that night as long as I live, and the picture of that festive gathering stands out in my memory today as if it had happened last night instead of 62 years ago. I sat with 'Steve' Douglas and here across the circle of firelight sat my brother George on the lap of Lincoln who later became one of the strongest characters in American history and one of our greatest presidents."

"Enthusiasm in the political discussion had waned. Unexpectedly then Mr. Douglas asked me a question—'What are your politics, my son?'"

"Why, I am whatever you are," replied 'Then you are a strong democrat, son,' he said. 'And then Abe said to my brother George, 'Well, what are your politics, my boy?' 'I'll be just whatever you are,' George told him. 'Well, then you are a mighty good republican, son,' said Lincoln.

to Kansas and went into the farming business. At the opening of Oklahoma for settlement, in 1889, Cox came to Oklahoma and resided at Guthrie for 20 years. He also lived in Sikeston and has been a resident of Tulsa for several years. Cox lives by himself in the basement of his house at 214 South Lawton and raises rabbits as a diversion. "I expect to die some day, but I haven't any financial worries, but I get rather lonesome down here sometimes. Come down and see me again some time, young folks. I'll be glad to have you."
