

KIWANIS PRESIDENT SPEAKS TO NEW CLUB

Albert H. Bell Welcomes Tulsa Town Society Into the Ranks of City's Civic Organizations.

ORGANIZATION A MONTH OLD

Miss Beets and Miss Baker Will go to St. Louis National Convention as Local Delegates.

The feature of the weekly meeting and dinner of the Tulsa Town club last evening was a splendid address from Albert H. Bell, president of the Kiwanis club of this city. Bell was introduced to the members and guests by Miss Louella Beets, president after which Mr. Bell launched at once into a heart-to-heart talk which proved very interesting. Bell welcomed this new organization into the ranks of civic organizations of Tulsa. "I believe there is a great future for you," he said. "I have always had faith in women's organizations of such an altruistic nature and their potent force has been noted by those who have had such clubs organized in their midst. I would rather risk a woman's club like this as a factor in civic affairs than most any other organization. Bell said he had preferred to talk to the directorate and not before the club because he had some things to say in the way of admonitions. But as he had been asked to address the members, he would not change his line of thought and would say to them the things he had planned for the board. He talked on membership, classification, programs and luncheons, giving in clear and concise manner many valuable hints. At the close of his talk, Miss Beets, the president, informed Bell that she was glad to know that the club had already conformed to many of the things he had suggested, and that she felt assured more than ever now that the club was on a fair road to success.

Much Done in Month. The president announced that the club was a month old and had accomplished much. It had assisted in organizing the state and was affiliated with the national association. It had assisted in two drives and was arranging to look into civic matters as they came about and would offer to do its part whenever called upon. It was with quite a feeling of satisfaction that it was announced that the club had raised one-sixth of the money Tulsa gave to the Salvation Army drive, and had raised more than $1,500 in the Armenian drive now on. Miss Caroline Baker was unanimously elected as a delegate to represent the club at the St. Louis convention, which meets in two weeks. Miss Irene Beets has been elected as a delegate to the national convention. Miss Beets will go by virtue of her office. Tulsa has been specially honored at this national meeting. Miss Beets has been asked to preside with the national president on Thursday. The delegates from the club has been asked for a 15-minute talk on the program, and Miss Irene Beets has been invited to attend and assist with the music of the convention. The next meeting and dinner will be in the Tea Cup Inn on next Monday evening and at this time the regular monthly business meeting will be held.

Confederate Sons' Commander Buried

George W. Bruce

Special to The World. MUSKOGEE, June 29.—Funeral services were held at St. Paul's Methodist church here this afternoon for George W. Bruce of this city, state commander of the Sons of Confederate Veterans and prominent Mason, who was ground to death last Saturday under the wheels of the Katy pier at Cherokee. Mr. Bruce was a brother-in-law of W. Case Brady of Tulsa, and Mr. Brady with his family was here for the funeral. Several other relatives also came from out of town. The body was buried in Greenhill cemetery. Mr. Bruce was almost instantly killed when he slipped under the last log of the fast Katy train while attempting to board it after it had gotten well under way.

MORE COPPERS GO ON TULSA BEATS TODAY

Several Additions to Force Will Be Made Immediately After Meeting

Several additions will be made to the local police force and five detachments within the next week. A number of patrolmen and traffic cops will be appointed today as the result of conference held yesterday between the chief of police and Commissioner Bohm. The appointment of J. H. Sharp as patrolman is the only definite name decided upon, but several other names are under consideration and will be added to the police force today. The eight-hour day for patrolmen also is being debated. The opening of the new station in West Tulsa will require large additions to the fire fighting force here, and the "two platoon" system which goes into effect today will also necessitate additional men.

Chamber of Commerce Committee Went Over Pressey's Plans and Declared His Report Was Right

The Page exam and the opponents of the Spavinaw project have declared that the Spavinaw project has not been checked and investigated. Following is the report of the committee of the chamber of commerce, made several months ago. This committee of business men, accompanied by geologists and engineers, went over the Pressey report and went over the ground of the Spavinaw project and reported favorably on the findings of Mr. Pressey as to every feature.

Following is the report in full: Following is the report of a special committee of the chamber of commerce on the available source for water supply for the city of Tulsa, as submitted by the chairman, Mr. Farmer to the chamber of commerce directors at a regular meeting held March 4, 1915, and unanimously adopted by the directors present.

April 4, 1919. Chamber of Commerce and Federation of Allied Interests, Tulsa, Oklahoma. Gentlemen:

We, the special committee assigned the duty of investigating a proper source of water supply for the city of Tulsa, and in the course of our duties, beg leave to make the following report:

Realizing that the question of an adequate and satisfactory water supply for the city is paramount to any other question affecting the interest of the citizens, we have gathered information from every available source in our investigation of the subject and have endeavored to consider it from every standpoint.

Various meetings of the committee have been held and sub-committees composed of the best available engineering and financial talent of the city have been extended investigations, and have made reports to the committee of the whole.

We have been greatly pleased by the fact that every individual to whom we appealed for information and assistance has readily co-operated with us with great interest and enthusiasm, to the end that we have procured the most reliable information possible.

We have thought best to submit our findings under the following heads: First—Water, Quantity and Quality.

We are unanimous in our opinion that the only source from which this city may be absolutely assured of a permanent and satisfactory water supply is as proposed in what is known as the "Henry A. Pressey Report on Spavinaw Creek."

In company with engineers, geologists and city officials, this committee visited the proposed source of water supply and inspected the proposed site of the dam. There seems to be no question in the minds of any one, either as to the quality or quantity of water to be had from this splendid stream, which has an unusually large drainage area and is constantly fed by springs. Our conclusion is that this water is far superior to any other available source, not only because of its present purity, but because it can never be subject to exploitation for oil or gas and consequent pollution therefrom. The fact may not be stated with reference to any other available source of supply in the immediate vicinity of Tulsa. The geological formations appearing on the surface at Spavinaw are such as are found below any of the known producing oil sands in Oklahoma.

Second—Engineering. This sub-division involves a consideration of two points, the first being as to the feasibility of the Pressey plan from a strictly engineering viewpoint, and second, as to the cost of his proposed plan.

On the first point, we have satisfied ourselves that the plan as outlined by Mr. Pressey is entirely feasible and practicable as an engineering project.

The second point, we would simply say that it is our belief that the estimated cost of this plan as outlined by Mr. Pressey is quite reasonable. We would, however, recommend that as a preliminary to the issuance of bonds, the exercise of sound business judgment would justify the employment by the city of another engineer to check the estimated cost.

Third—Financial. Your committee having taken into account the importance of this project, and realizing that the investment of so large a sum of money in the city has given the matter of financing most serious consideration.

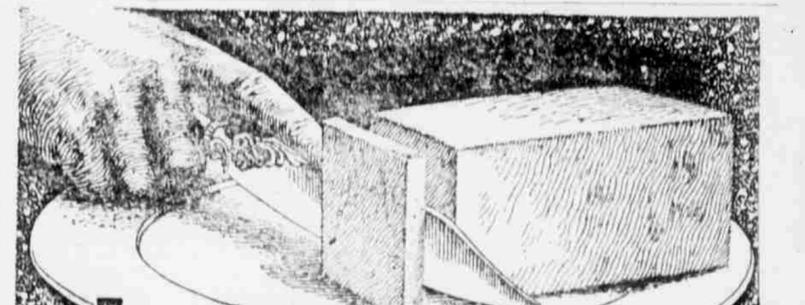

Through the present Water Administration has extended to us every possible courtesy in our endeavor to determine the actual consumption of water, the cost thereof, and the revenue therefrom. We have not been able to procure exact data by reason of the fact that the water consumed has not been metered, and because the city records for the month of water were not kept by the Water Department as would give us certain figures. We have endeavored to ascertain from the larger water consumers of the city to what extent they would increase their use of city water, provided an ample supply of pure water was made available. We find that a great many industries, who use large quantities of water, are not purchasing at this time any appreciable part of their supply from the city, and that a greater number of dwellings are obtaining their water supply from wells and cisterns, and that it is almost a universal custom to purchase bottled drinking water.

Various of the larger industries have assured us they would purchase city water and increase their consumption, if a good quality were provided. We find that the water department has no record of water consumed by the street, fire or park departments, and that no credit is given the water department for

Would You Miss a Slice Cut off the End? THAT'S what you lose when you pay for a "pound of butter" and get but 15 ounces. Read the label on the carton. The net weight is printed thereon as required by law. If it reads "net weight of contents 15 ounces," you are paying more per ounce for butter than you would if you bought the pound size of Armour's Cloverbloom BUTTER. The size of most 15-ounce cartons of ordinary butter is skillfully reduced by slicing a little butter off each of the sides and ends. And when you say: "I want a pound of butter..." That's why we say, buy Armour's Cloverbloom butter by name. It is a full pound package always. We sell it no other way. Churned in the choicest dairy sections, from pasteurized cream, its sweetness and purity are guarded for you with a parchment wrapping inside of full pound cartons marked with the Oval Label—the top-grade mark of quality foods. Even though the price is a few cents more, you are certain of high grade butter and at a lower price per ounce. You will be pleased with its goodness—its wholesome taste and attractive color—always the same uniform quality. Your dealer has Cloverbloom or can get it for you. Ask him for it, and get full value. SITES DESIGNATED FOR TWO SANATORIA

One Will Be Built at Clinton and the Other at Tahalaha, Board Decides.

OKLAHOMA CITY, June 30.—Clinton and Tahalaha will be the sites of the tuberculosis sanatorium for white people, authorized by the last legislature, and the negro institution will perhaps go to Bailey. This announcement was made by Dr. J. H. Lewis, state health commissioner, after the members of the state board of health, Sam Lafayette, chairman, George W. Clark and J. W. Kayser, had inspected half a dozen proposed sites. The Clinton sanatorium will be built in the near future and is designed to accommodate the patients of the west side of the state. The Tahalaha sanatorium probably will be built next year. The legislature appropriated $150,000 for each of the white institutions and $50,000 for that for negroes. Only $100,000 of the appropriation, however, is available this year.

The site of the Clinton sanatorium is about a mile and a half from the city and includes 150 acres of prairie land, all of which is available for use. The inspection of the Clinton project brought its acceptance because of accessibility, interest of the people of Clinton and their offers of assistance and co-operation, and the fact that an excellent water supply is available.

Today an exclusive negro town in Oklahoma county, the present is the only applicant for location of the sanatorium for negroes.

When the sanatorium bill was pending in the legislature J. B. Harper, speaker, took the lead of the house and a resident of Tahalaha, waged a desperate fight to have Tahalaha written into the act as the location of one of the institutions. The Tahalaha sanatorium will be located in the Winding Star mountains, one of the most beautiful sections of Oklahoma. The site comprises 640 acres of timbered land on the scenic highway and will be near a tuberculosis sanatorium for Indians built in 1915 by the federal government. The Tahalaha institution will be built on the colony plan, an administrator of a group of cottages. Native rock and pine timber on the property is sufficient in quantity to construct the buildings. A perpetual water supply, fed by ever living springs, will be brought by gravity from the heights of the mountain into the sanatorium grounds and piped through all its buildings.

Protest Against New Law. PERU, Ind., June 29.—The Benevolent Education association, representing 16 schools, today adopted a resolution protesting against the Smith-Townsend bill. "Federalization of all school districts," says the plan, "is the death knell of educational freedom."
