British Yoke on Ireland Is In Violation to Human Laws

Government Comes From Consent of the Governed, Says James Devine.

ASKS FOR MERE JUSTICE Oppression and Autocracy Were Causes of American Independence.

By JAMES DEVINE. A little over 140 years ago a body of men who had either migrated there or grown up in the vast expanse and greater open range country along the eastern shores of America got together and declared it to be their opinion that all men were created equal in the pursuit of life, liberty and happiness, and also that it was for the purpose of securing these blessings and privileges that governments were instituted among men.

Kings Started. This declaration, coming from the sturdy governors of the rugged hills of a new world untroubled and unmolested every king and tyrant of a European throne, and in a measure restrained them in the rights which they had created, but which the usurper kings and emperors usurped the prerogative that naturally belonged to Almighty God.

The source of Autocracy. Most of the English monarchs that followed the unfortunate people of Ireland, and the tyrants of the continent, came from the same source, and they are not of blood with the needs, trials and cares of the common masses of humanity.

Men in a large sense are creatures of habit, and their habits are the result of life in which they are born and raised.

As a rule men born in the lap of luxury and raised in ease and indulgence, and who have never known the natural soil and atmosphere in which the soul and spirit of man gather, that spirit of justice and love of right that make men great.

This code of brute force, this domination of power, with the utter disregard for human rights, often set an incompetent, indolent idiot on a throne for a throne for life, with power which came to him like the manna from heaven, and he demonstrated that the big game would not carry enough to the throne would pass on to the next.

As to the so-called "kings" of the NC-3, the expert in the navy department reported preparing plans for huge zeppelins for further experiment.

City Planning Commission, Urged Years Ago, Is Needed

Philip Cates, Lawyer, Long Ago Outlined Plan Which Many Favor Adopting. WOULD MAKE BETTER TULSA

Officials Overworked Haven't Time to Devote to Numerous Small Things. SEMI-OFFICIAL GOVERNMENT

Why Not Have Waste Paper Cans in Streets and Have Avenues Properly Marked?

The problem before the city is to meet the extraordinary growth with a yearly appropriation which will provide the necessities. This growth manifests itself yearly.

The suggestion for a city planning commission came from Philip Cates, lawyer, eleven years ago. Cates delivered an address before the annual conference of the Tulsa Home League of Improvement.

Now that there is evidence of the need of a planned municipality, it will follow the city would recommend a campaign for adoption of a city planning commission.

Must Have Harmony. The foundation of a city planning commission is to have a harmony of interests between the city and the state.

Need Organization. But it is pointed out that although the city has met every crisis in its career and has solved all the problems of magnitude, there has been a marked tendency to let other matters go by the board for a solution through individuals and independent efforts.

After months of pointing and pointing a committee of nine men representing one of the civic clubs has succeeded in rendering great assistance to Tulsa in setting forth a solution of the housing problem.

Little of Building Wanted. The municipal government of Tulsa has its hands full both as to financial and administrative problems.

It knows that its name like the name of Rome will be remembered by the generations to come.

It knows any man who would endeavor sacrificing his life for the love of his country or the dignity of his people is made of the purest gold and diamond dust.

The world today is saturated with the spirit of the square deal and of the pure justice.

In advance. That is what we need. We must have a good plan for the city's future. An Essential Body. I have given the city planning commission little to its consideration. The commission is known as the official body which will operate among three items to a certain extent, but it does not have the authority. My idea of such a commission is to have it made up of representatives of the city and the state. The city of Oklahoma has adopted the city planning commission and has found it to be a success.
