

BOXERS FINISH WORKOUT TODAY

Roman and McCabe Complete Preparations for Saturday Bout.

Paul Roman of Kansas City, and Bill McCabe of Okmulgee, middleweights who meet in the main event of the Grand Athletic club's card tomorrow night, conclude training today.

McCabe works at the Central fire station at a o'clock while Roman is to train at the Fryberger gymnasium in the Unity building, Fourth and Boulder.

McCabe returned to Tulsa yesterday morning, and declared he is in the best condition possible. McCabe says he has been working out at his home in Okmulgee and though he admits the class of Roman, is confident of victory.

Roman has been in Tulsa during the past 10 days. Paul is well known wherever fastio lovers congregate, especially in the southwest and in Tulsa. Those who remember the Roman-Mullen battle of some three years ago declare it to be one of the greatest battles ever staged in this city and for that reason, the fans who say that battle will be at the pinnacle tomorrow night.

McCabe is billed to fight, you can expect your money's worth, said an old timer yesterday. Roman's known class, with the reputed ability of McCabe, who brings a two-round knockout of Willie Meacham, indicates that a good battle is in prospect.

An extended preliminary card in which Jack Hurley, Ben Light and Kid Spack, bantamweight, figure, has also been arranged.

STILL FIGHTING JOHNSON

Outer Steps Are Begun Against American League Owners.

NEW YORK, Dec. 11.—(Special)—Tactical for what is termed the "steam roller" tactics of Ban Johnson, president of the American league, and the club owners supporting him, the New York club of the American league today started legal machinery in motion to oust Johnson from the league presidency.

As a preliminary step, a telegram was dispatched to Johnson in Chicago, advising him that it regards his contract with the league as abrogated and forbidding him to use league funds for compensation.

ASKS DAMAGES FOR DEATH

Remuneration Asked By Parent of Boy Killed in Slide in Sand Pit.

Damages of $10,000 for the death of their son killed in an accident at the Perry Sand company plant north of this city September 10, were asked in superior court yesterday by W. A. Wilson and Rebecca Wilson.

The parents claim their son Jessie Wilson was employed at the sand plant for only a short time, when he was killed by falling walls of sand. They allege the owners and agents of the sand company failed to properly trim the walls of the sand pit and in allowing portions of the sand wall to overhang the pit in which the deceased was working, they are liable for the consequences of their negligence.

SETTLEMENT of all differences between Ban Johnson and his "loyalists" and the "rebel" factions of the American league seems imminent and the settlement will be hailed with relief by the baseball loving public, which is tired of hickering by the moguls of the major circuit. While the fans aren't concerned in the position of baseball as a great sport, they are nevertheless very much interested in the methods employed in the conducting of the game. Regarding the merits of the Mays case, which led to the final break, the average fan and writer regards it with disgust.

Carl Mays was inordinate. He refused to play with the club which held his contract. And so, incapable of properly meeting this outbreak of Mays, the Boston club owners sold his contract. There are other details of the Mays case which do not interest the fan. Mays was a trouble maker. And instead of being punished, he was transferred to a club of greater potential possibilities and the burden of the fight is shifted from his shoulders to Ban Johnson.

Charley Comiskey and Ban Johnson have made some mistakes. But they are big men, two of the biggest in baseball. Unless they settle their differences in an amicable manner, the future of baseball is seriously threatened. Knowing the real love for baseball of the "Old Man" and the "Czar," we'd say that the affairs of the American league will be settled so that the popularity of the national game will not be impaired.

Don Hamon was found guilty of unlawful possession of liquor by a jury in federal court yesterday, and Charles Lippy entered a plea of guilty to the charge of introducing liquor. The men will be sentenced by the court today.

Convict Who Escapes Makes Promise Good; Goes to Leavenworth

Clyde Perry, who escaped from federal officers at Muskogee two weeks ago after conviction in the federal court of this city and sentenced to one year in the federal penitentiary, reported to the warden at Leavenworth Tuesday and voluntarily gave himself into the custody of that officer, according to a report received in this city yesterday by Harry Blake, chief deputy United States marshal, in attendance on federal court.

Perry was convicted of entering a box car in this city and stealing seven cartons of cigarettes. With 10 other prisoners he was taken to Muskogee for transfer to the federal prison at Leavenworth, but at the depot he slipped the handcuffs off his wrists and escaped unknown to the officers. Perry wrote a letter to the United States marshal explaining he was sorry for having escaped and notified him that he would give himself up at Leavenworth.
