Editor World I am profoundly impressed with your editorial in this morning paper, caretioned "The Disgrave of Tules." It breathes a spirit of lustice, altruism and a love of humanity which is worthy or emulation by the press of the whole nation. This is introduced blest in baying a paper, within its corporate limits, which while the hortson is still black with the nation of freatme is still heard, and the flame of the incendary is not visible has the courage to conflict of incendary is not visible has the courage to conflict and any sympachy for the sufferers.
