

LEGIONAIRES WILL RUN OWN SPECIAL

Organizing a Crew of 15 to Take Their Train to Kansas City

Legionnaires will attend the national convention in Kansas City, and they won't walk, either. A "legion" committee from Joe Carson post is now busy enrolling a crew of willing workers who, in a few days, will be on their way to the convention city. It is estimated that a force of 15 will be required to "man" the special train which will leave here over the Frisco, Oct. 22. The first to volunteer for the service were R. A. Beard, post commander, and Major Charles Bailey, adjutant. They are now looking for the position of the crew.

Let Nothing Interfere. "Can we do it?" "Absolutely!" heard asked and answered himself yesterday afternoon. "Joe Carson post won't let a little thing like a rail strike interfere with a reunion of their buddies. They are going to get the train out of the city and the prospect of operating a train doesn't frighten us. If the strike does occur and if we can't get the train out, then we'll probably be in any objection from railroad officials."

Local legionnaires are frankly enjoying their preparations. Commander Beard said jokingly last night that there had been more applicants for the work of conductors than any other, but that "We would really prefer a non-armed and un-packeted man for this job." Mr. Beard has real qualifications to back up his application for firing the engine, as he once "fired" a ship's engine, the Atlantic, and fifty men here of Joe Carson post, their wives and members of the ladies' auxiliary will attend the national convention October 23 to November 2, inclusive. Between 75,000 and 100,000 legionnaires from all parts of the country are expected at the convention, which will probably attract all others in point of attendance.

NORVELL WINS SUIT

Given $10,000 Damages in Suit Brought Against Him by Mrs. Tracy to Foreclose Mortgage.

Award of $10,000 damages against Norvell in a suit brought by Mrs. Tracy to foreclose mortgage, was given Wednesday by the jury in the case of Norvell v. Tracy, Indian woman, who was given $10,000 damages, local attorney, by a jury in district court last Wednesday evening. The case has been on trial for the last week and the jury was out about four hours.

Norvell was the defendant and the woman was the plaintiff in the suit. She filed suit against the attorney to foreclose the mortgage for the balance of the purchase on lots in Norvell Park addition which he had purchased from her. In his answer to the Indian woman's petition, Norvell asked damages totaling $10,000 for a cloud placed upon his title by reason of other suits brought by the Indian woman.

The case has a long history, dating from 1918, when Norvell sued the woman for attorney's fees which he said were due him. The matter was later settled out of court. Norvell will be given several lots in the addition. Later he bought more lots and following this Mrs. Tracy filed suit against him, suing to set aside the former agreement and clouding his title. Norvell won a victory in this suit in lower courts and won again when she carried it into the supreme court. His claim of damages in the last suit was because of the other suits which she had brought.

According to Norvell the Indian woman said a mortgage of about $12,000 on the lots which he had purchased. Unless her attorneys carry the matter to the supreme court a complete settlement will probably be reached within the next few days. Norvell says. Attorneys for Mrs. Tracy have not yet said whether they would appeal the case.

RETAILER HAS A HARD ROW
Forced to Handle Too Many Brands to Satisfy Public Taste.

To many persons engaged in the retailing business, a result of stimulation and increased production during the war, some of these brands may go out. Lee J. Leavelle, told the Rotary club at Hotel Tulsa Wednesday noon. Recently he said he visited a drug store that carried on its shelves 31 kinds of face powder, 27 brands of toilet soap, and 19 kinds of tooth paste. Another store handles 32 different brands of shaving machines. The subject of Leavelle's talk was "Where Does the Retailer Go from Here?"

It is common today to see merchants with three or four brands of clothing, six or seven different brands of underwear, and eight or nine different makes of gloves. But the wise retail merchant, realizing that concentration will mean a more rapid turnover and a maximum profit, is rapidly cutting down the number of items he carries. He is concentrating in all departments on one or two well known standard brands.

Concentrate Buying. If you concentrate on buying your merchandise from just a few manufacturers whose lines are complete, you automatically reduce the number of lines you carry in stock—you automatically cut down mixed stocks, broken lines and odds and ends.

Leavelle scored the newspapers of this country charging that they favored the recent buyer's strike and have not been constant in going their part to reduce living costs, entirely misstating facts and misquoting figures to carry out his contention.

Complete Test Cases

Washington, Oct. 19.—Three

test cases, brought by the World

Publishing company, the Democrat

Printing company and the Tulsa

Examiner company, all of Tulsa, Okla.,

to recover judgments against the United States upon awards made by the interstate commerce commission, were tried today in the court of claims. Should the claimants in the suits be successful, it will open the doors of the court to suits based upon about 13,000 awards, involving an aggregate amount estimated at between $50,000,000 and $100,000,000.

The plaintiffs alleged that they were compelled by the director general of railroads to pay unreasonable

and discriminatory freight rates and that they were entitled to recover the difference between the amounts paid, and the amount

which the interstate commerce commission fixed as reasonable.

The railroad administration contended the claims upon the ground that the provisions of the federal railroad control act preclude the bringing of suits against the United States and the obtaining of judgments

in the court of claims.

Simply Referee He Says

Reeves Tells Rotarians He Does Not

Represent Page Interests Alone.

Col. Ira L. Reeves, manager of the Chamber of Commerce, explained to the Rotary club at Hotel Tulsa,

Wednesday noon, that in agreeing to the terms of Charles Page's letter on the water situation he does not expect to represent the Page interests alone. He did not construe

the letter as asking him to act in such a capacity, he said.

"As I understand it, I am asked to act as a referee, acting for both sides, and not merely to represent the Page interests," he explained.

"I have never yet shared duty, and as referee in this matter I expect to try to do my duty, regardless of criticism

that may be directed against me."
