

COMMITTEE SEES PROPOSED SITE

All But Two Towns in the Race for Institution Have Been Visited

Tulsa's qualification and desire for the proposed state soldiers' hospital were presented officially and fully Wednesday when two members of the locating committee were taken to the site near Sand Springs offered without cost by Charles Page, Grant Victor of Afton and Horace H. Hagan of Tulsa were the two members present. R. A. Fell of Ardmore was unable to meet with them here.

Accompanying Victor and Hagan to the proposed hospital site were Dr. W. Albert Cook and Dr. Roy Dunlap, representing the medical fraternity; Ira L. Reeves and Alva J. Niles, representing the Chamber of Commerce and C. A. Borley, R. E. Carter, Dr. Paul H. Brown and R. A. Boyd, representing the American Legion. At Sand Springs they were joined by Frank H. Long and Arthur Artie, representing the Page interests.

The committee members were informed that the county commissioners have officially announced they will build a hard surfaced road from the Tulsa-Sand Springs highway to the hospital site if it is selected as the location for this institution. The site is within 1,300 feet of the Tulsa-Sand Springs inter-urban line and overlooks the entire city of Tulsa, affording a commanding view for several miles in all directions.

The locating committee expects to visit Claremore and Nowata Thursday to ascertain the merits of sites offered by those towns. All other cities and towns in the race for the hospital have been visited.

The umbrella, which was a "snapper" one of the kind, had an ebony and silver handle and bore a plate inscribed "you, sponsor staff, Chattanooga, 1921."

WILL STIMULATE FRUIT FARMING

Committee From Junior C. of C. Now Studying Situation

The agricultural committee of the Junior Chamber of Commerce commenced a series of trips in investigation of fruit farming in Tulsa county Thursday afternoon with a visit to the fruit farm of Elva C. Barrows, southeast of the city. The party was headed by Robert Stewart, chairman of the agricultural committee, and vice president of the Junior Chamber, who will take several other groups of members to the Barrows farm this week.

Recommendation that the organization set to work in behalf of bettering the situation as to fruit farming in Tulsa county will probably be made by Stewart at the regular meeting of the chamber next Tuesday, though the exact nature of those recommendations will not be known until after this week's investigations. That stimulation of the fruit farming industry in this county would react with great financial benefit upon both city and county was the belief stated yesterday by Stewart.

For one thing, a large sum of money would remain here if this county grew its own fruit. Stewart said, citing in proof Tulsa wholesale grocers alone spent $2,250,000 last year for canned and fresh fruit and that the amount which went out of the pockets of the ultimate consumer was of course higher. "The Tulsa county fruit belt, which is the sandy land adjoining the Arkansas river, is not very large, but it is able to produce most of the marketable fruits, fruit mead, claim," Stewart said. "Just what can be done to increase use of the fruit belt for this purpose is not clear at present, but there is need for fruit farmers to be interested in coming to the county and for farmers now on land to its possibilities in this line and there also may be need for better roads in the fruit belt, as good roads are

Ten Corporations Use the Overhead Wiring

Whether local public service corporations will be required to place all wires underground by January 1, 1922, is to be decided at a meeting in the city hall Monday afternoon, January 10. Mayor T. L. Egan will preside. Both the Chamber of Commerce and the Tulsa Fire Prevention association are strongly in favor of having all wires and eliminating those overhead not only because of the danger of overhead wires to fire fighters, but also because of the civic improvement they believe the "haze" will bring about. The meeting was announced and will be held at the request of the fire prevention association. Representatives of all companies maintaining overhead wires are to be requested to attend. There are about ten such corporations.
