Writes to Governors of States Asking for Co-operation

WASHINGTON, Jan. 14.—President Harding has written to the governors of all states asking them to take part officially in the erection of a great victory memorial building in Washington. It was announced today that the white house.

The memorial building, according to the president's letter, "is intended to be a worthy national monument to the services of our armed forces in the world war and also to represent a compliance with the wish of General Washington, that a great educational establishment should be provided here."

The great auditorium, the president said, "designed as a meeting place for national and international gatherings will have its ceiling gilded with gold and blue stars; a blue star for every survivor who lived in the war; a gold one for each who gave his life for his country. The initials of every man making his own star. This will be produced a true service flag of the nation with its millions of stars and that it may be given the character of a truly national memorial, it is wished that each state should provide for the stars for its own men, in addition to any other participation it may choose to assume. To make this structure a true shrine of national patriotism, representing for our country the sentiments that the Westminster and St. Paul's church attest to Englishmen and the Pantheon and the Invalides and the Cenotaph—to this is the ambition of the earnest men and women who are carrying forward the work of the George Washington Memorial association."

The project has appealed strongly to me, and I know, to patriotic men and women all over the land, as one of such inspiring nature as to deserve generous encouragement."

Tulsa Takes Auto Ride On Bumping Mexican Train

An automobile ride on a bumping, protesting Mexican train through a section made unsafe for other modes of transportation by the inclination of Yaqui Indians to take the war path on little pretext or none, was one of the more or less interesting experiences which varied a trip down the western coast of Mexico with a geological survey party for Ray P. Walters of this city.

Coming from Guaymas there is a large belt where the Yaqui Indians have raised so much disturbance in the last few years that there is no automobile travel and therefore no road. Walters said, "our party decided to drive through, but after making our own road for ten miles, we turned back and decided to ship the cars through. So we rode into Navajito in our automobiles placed on two flat cars. All the bridges along the right of way had been burned and the road rebuilt by going off the grade down into the arroyos and back again. Some one pointed out a spot where the Yaquis not only long ago stopped a train and killed 40 people, though several were saved by help brought from the next town by the engineer and fireman who uncoupled the engine. We heard many things about the Yaquis and the worst part was that the state government was said to be paying and backing them."
