

AMENDMENT TWO GAINING STRENGTH

People Seem to Favor the Nonpartisan System of Government

WHAT COL. LYNCH SAYS

Charter Framers Favored It but Were Deterred by Obstacles Then

With the special election just one week off, much interest is centering upon the question of nonpartisan government for Tulsa, which the voters will be called upon to decide next Tuesday. While no special campaign is being waged for or against the proposed charter amendment yet the matter is being quietly agitated in club circles and other places where people congregate.

So far as sentiment has been publicly sounded it appears to be in favor of the nonpartisan amendment. The republican mass meeting held a week ago voted for it. Several of the civic clubs to which the matter was presented endorsed the proposition. Many of the regular politicians in both parties are openly fighting the amendment but the business interests and the women constitute the most powerful influence and they are in a great majority for the new step.

"You can quote me as favoring a nonpartisan government for Tulsa," said C. B. Lynch, city builder and former city commissioner Tuesday. "I have always been in favor of such a government. It was the intention of the persons behind the original charter to institute this but it seems that they ran up against obstacles that resulted in partizan government being again set upon the people, largely against their will at that time."

"However, to get around this obstacle those favoring nonpartisan city government got out a nonpartisan ticket composed of both republicans and democrats and in one of the hottest political fights in the history of the city it was elected. I served as commissioner of finance and revenue under the Mitchell administration, the first commission under the charter. The result of this election clearly demonstrated that the people favored this form of government then and circumstances since should not have altered such a sentiment."

"Such an administration is responsive to the onerous demands of no political party and can devote its entire energy to giving the city the government to which it is entitled. No matter how conscientious and trustworthy city officials elected under the partizan system may be they are always subject to the attacks from politicians on the other side who may be out and whose entire ambition for two years is to try to get back, no matter to them if the exigencies of the case require that the best interests of the city be sacrificed in carrying on their ruthless partizan ambitions."

"Tulsa people have a splendid example of nonpartisan government in connection with the public school system. Up until about eight years ago the board could be elected along partizan lines. The result was a continual agitation resulting in school fights that at times almost disrupted the schools. Now the schools move along without friction because the people have placed on the board men in whose judgment they have complete confidence. The same thing should hold true with regard to the city government. If removed from the stigma of partizan-ship."

Marguerite Zender Heads 'Angel Face' Personnel

Marguerite Zender.

"Angel Face," a three-act musical comedy will be presented Friday night at Convention hall with Victor Herbert as the composer and Harry H. and H. B. Smith as librettists and lyricists. It achieved more than an average success during its long engagements in New York, Chicago and Philadelphia.

It has youth, beauty, comedy and wholesomeness as assets of the plot and cast. It has the advantage name she is something of an "enfant terrible." She and her sisters are barred from romance and matrimony until the eldest of the family, a huge stockinged, torquoise speckled damsel of uncertain age, is led to the altar. On this plot basis the librettists rear a story that complicated by a scientist who practices an elixir of youth on a grand-mother from Keokuk, by the search of an amateur detective for a kidnapped baby, by a sculptor and his partner who are the hosts of musical comedy chorine contorts, which, however is satisfyingly elucidated through the twin solvents of mirth and melody.

GETS DEATH PENALTY

Cancy Farmer Pleads Guilty to Attack on Neighbor's Wife; Prisoner Spitted Away.

ATOKA, Feb. 14.—Carefully guarded to avoid mob violence and with the hearings shrouded with secrecy, Sam Watkins, farmer of near Cancy, pleaded guilty in the district court today before Judge J. H. Linebaugh to a charge of having murdered Mrs. Cora Jones, wife of his neighbor, last Thursday. Watkins was sentenced to die in the electric chair at the state penitentiary at McAlester May 5.

Watkins, according to the authorities, confessed to beating the woman to death after her body was found in a hog pen last Thursday on her husband's farm. The prisoner was removed from the county for fear of lynching. On the following night more than two hundred masked and mounted men all heavily armed, surrounded the jail and demanded Watkins.

A committee from the mob was permitted to search the jail by Sheriff Phillips and when it was found that Watkins was not present the mob dispersed.
