

MONACO'S RULER TAKEN BY DEATH

Owner of Famed Gambling Center, Monte Carlo, Made Fortune

WAS A SCIENTIST TOO

Awarded Metal by U. S. Society for Deep Sea Discoveries—Buffalo Bill's Pal

PARIS, June 26.—Prince Albert of Monaco, which consists of the principality of Monte Carlo, the greatest gambling center in the world and today following a long illness, he passed a fortune of many millions from his gambling concessions.

Prince Albert of Monaco, ruler of the smallest principality in the world, within whose eight square miles is the famous international gambling town of Monte Carlo, was well known in the United States as a sportsman and scientist. One of his old friends was the late Col. W. F. (Buffalo Bill) Cody, an aviator, who in Wyoming he went hunting years ago.

Was Scientist Too. The prince made three visits to the country, the first in 1884, as a sailor in the Spanish navy, when he obtained a three months' leave of absence; the second in 1912, when he passed considerable time in the west, and the third in April, 1921, when he received the Alexander Agassiz gold medal from the National geographical society for his researches in oceanography.

He was also an enthusiastic paleontologist but held that the sea held few, if any, secrets of the antiquity of man. One of the prince's most valuable contributions to submarine knowledge was his charting of the depths of both German and allied mines in the North and English channels. Although for years a close personal friend of the former emperor of Germany, the prince, from the beginning, supported the cause of the allies. The Germans seized his Chateau de Mouchon near Rheims and threatened to burn it unless he paid them a ransom of $100,000. The ransom was never paid. Just before the armistice, in 1918, the prince placed at the disposal of the American government his beautiful estate at Monte Carlo, where for months from 6,000 to 8,000 American wounded soldiers were brought through rapid convalescence.

Studied Deep Sea Fish. "We were engaged in a very interesting line of research between the Azores and the American coast when the war intervened to prevent our carrying on the work," said the prince on his last visit to America. "We were finding out a lot of interesting things. We had long thought that marine creatures, living at great depths, always remained there but we found that, for some mysterious reasons, some of these creatures rose to the surface at night and returned to the depths when daylight came. They were like 'living tides'."
