Compete
For A
Shetland
Pony

The prize Pony is 7 years old; weight about 500 pounds; broken single and double and to the saddle. Can be seen at any time at Bacon & Van Alstine's livery barn.

[ Ponies similar to this one are selling in the East for $100 to $200. The Evening Times will pay the boy who wins $75 in cash for the pony if the lad would rather have the money than the animal.

The Evening Times will pay boy canvassers for subscriptions taken in any town or city in North Dakota the following commissions:

- On a 3-mos. subscription to the Evening Times, at $1.00 paid in advance . . . .25c
- On a 6-mos. subscription, $2.00, in advance . . . . .50 cents
- On a year's subscription, $4.00, in advance . . . . . $1.00

In addition to these cash commissions, there will be a prize of a valuable given to the lad who will secure the largest number of paid in advance subscribers before April 1, 1906.

The pony will be delivered to the winner free of cost.

Contestants are not confined to any particular part of North Dakota or Minnesota as a field for canvassing

As the contestants enter the race the result of their work from day to day, as sent to this office, will be published in The Evening Times so that the relative position of each will be known daily.

Reports must be made daily.

Those who desire to engage in canvassing for The Evening Times will be supplied with necessary blanks and full instructions by addressing this office.

A bright active boy in every community--no matter how limited the population--can earn good wages by devoting an hour or so each day to the work. At the same time he will stand a good show of winning a valuable Shetland Pony absolutely free.
