

THE EVENING TIMES

ESTABLISHED JANUARY, 1896
PRINTED EVERY WEEK DAY IN THE YEAR
THE TIMES PUBLISHING COMPANY (INCORPORATED)
PUBLISHERS AND PROPRIETORS
J. E. LAMPMAN, Editor

SUBSCRIPTION RATES
DAILY: One Year in advance $4.00, Six Months in advance $2.50, Three Months in advance $1.50, One Year not in advance $1.50
WEEKLY: One Year in advance $1.00, Six Months in advance .75, Three Months in advance .50, One Year not in advance .50

SATURDAY EVENING, JULY 7, 1906.

REPUBLICAN STATE CONVENTION.

To the Republican Electors of the State of North Dakota.
In accordance with the instructions of the Republican State Central committee, a state convention of delegates...

Thursday, July 12, at 11 o'clock in the forenoon, for the purpose of nominating candidates to be supported at the next general election...

Delegates to said convention from each county will be chosen as provided under the Primary Election Law...

Table listing delegates by county: Barnes, Benson, Billings, Bottineau, Burleigh, Cass, Cavalier, Dickey, Eddy, Emmons, Foster, Grand Forks, Griggs, Kidder, LaMoure, Logan, McHenry, McIntosh, McKenzie, Mercer, Morton, Nelson, Oliver, Pembina, Pierce, Ramsey, Ransom, Richland, Sargent, Stark, Towner, Teton, Traill, Walsh, Ward, Wells, Williams, Total.

he would have no adaptability for the intricate reasoning processes which mark the successful lawyer. He would plan and construct a house or possibly a machine but he would be constructionist not a follower of precedent.

If such a boy should select the law for his life work he would be out of harmony with his calling and all he could only make him a surface lawyer out of touch with his work and destined to be a failure.

If he should fail the world would say he was devoid of energy or ability. The trouble would be that he was forced into a calling for which nature had not qualified him and for which he had no natural ability.

The same reasoning applies to every trade and profession. The people who enter them are not fitted by nature for the work and the struggle against those who are so qualified is too swift. The misplaced ones drop out while those who have selected the sphere in which they can best work make brilliant successes.

The old adage that there is room at the top should be so modified that it would mean that there is a chance for the one who selects the work for which nature intended him. Mediocrity can be attained in other callings but the man or woman whose success has been phenomenal has been in the particular line of work in life for which nature equipped him.

A JOURNEY OF IMPORTANCE.

The Fourth of July was a very good day for the secretary of state to set out on his visit to South America. He goes on a public errand of friendliness and good-will. May the happiest auspices of the day attend and prosper him.

He will be due at Rio de Janeiro, the beautiful and hospitable city that is to entertain the third Pan-American conference on the 25th. There he will remain a fortnight or so, before going on to Montevideo, Buenos Aires, Valparaiso and Callao.

We may be sure that his welcome to the Brazilian capital will leave nothing to be desired, and that his stay there will be a benefit to the whole American family. He is the secretary of state, and will speak with the authority of his great office.

He is also Elithu Root, and persuasion sits on his tongue. His intellectual force will leave a lasting impression on all the Latin-American presidents and statesmen whom he meets during his summer visit; his tact and courtesy will charm them; his lucid explanations and frank sincerity will, we hope convince any doubters among them (if doubters there are) that this country cherishes no unavowed, selfish, sinister designs, which nothing but good to its neighbors, and desire their friendship.

A special interest will attach to his visit to Buenos Aires, where some of the Spanish journals and English journal that should be thoroughly ashamed of itself have been trying to sow distrust and make mischief. Also to his visit to Valparaiso. Back in the days of President Harrison, Mr. Blafhe, Patrick Egan, Balmaceda and the Junta, American bluejackets on shore liberty in that handsome seaport were attacked by a mob, and diplomatic unpleasantness followed.

But that's all ancient history now, and in these days Chile and the United States are very good friends. Probably Mr. Root will bring away from Valparaiso only the pleasantest memories, and he's sure to leave only that sort behind him.

THE COUNTY FAIR.

The Evening Times has called attention to the Great Red River Valley Exposition to be held in this city the last of this month, and urged the necessity of advertising its advantages to the world.

As a matter of fact there is nothing better for a city than a successful and well patronized agricultural fair. It brings the farmers to the city and gives them an insight into the progressiveness of the business people which will be valuable to both farmer and business men in the future.

The fair needs to be thoroughly advertised and constantly boomed. It will stand it. The committees have worked hard and have secured some magnificent attractions, but it is useless to have attractions unless there are people to see them. It is a peculiarity of the American people that they must be interested in such things by those who have them in charge.

The fair in this city will be the best in the state, and the people should know it. This is a strong statement for there are some decidedly forth associations who are putting forth their very best efforts.

The best agricultural exhibits that can possibly be secured will be exhibited in profusion. The best stock which can be grown in the state which has forged to the front in the breeding and developing of live stock will be shown.

It is remarkably true that the methods of culture and the kinds of grains grown in this state are largely acclimated. The new comer in the state, of whom there are thousands, no matter how successful he might have been in other places, will have to learn much of the peculiarities of our cereals and other plants. They should also learn something of the possibilities of our state as a stock producer. This information can be largely procured by attendance at the fairs, and especially by attending the one in this city where the largest exhibit of both the vegetable and live stock industries are made.

CHOLERA IN MANILA.

The greater population, the difficulty of communication and the primitive condition of large sections of the country have made the task of the American sanitary officers in the Philippines vastly more complicated than the problem overcome in Cuba during the Wood administration.

It is not surprising, therefore, to find another serious outbreak of cholera reported. Cholera is usually epidemic among the natives to some degree every year. The present outbreak differs from the ordinary in virulence and the fact that it has invaded Manila and Americans have been stricken.

It is improbable, however, notwithstanding the unusual number of cases and the high mortality, that the epidemic will be of long duration. Experience in fighting the disease has equipped the American sanitary officers to meet the emergency with the most practicable means.

The campaign of education conducted among the natives during and since the suppression of the epidemic of four years ago will aid greatly. The comparative absence of cholera epidemics on a serious scale during that time shows what has been accomplished in that direction.

It may be impossible to free the islands entirely from the disease in the present stage of Philippine civilization but it need no longer be dreaded as a scourge. Modern sanitary methods should keep it within bounds. Its presence in Manila in such proportions may possibly be due to slackening vigilance based upon fancied security, but if that be so it should have the salutary effect of preventing future lapses.

Pulse of the Press

Keeping It Quiet.

In its effort to divert attention from the 36 per cent state printing graft, to which it was a party, the Grand Forks Herald has instituted a systematic crusade of criticism against the leading straight republicans. Before the primary election the Herald promised to explain, "when the time came," all about that printing deal. The public is entitled to an "explanation" and should have it.

Never Said a Word.

The monthly change of management in the erstwhile excellent Grand Forks Evening Press has taken place and "the only Democratic daily" now displays the name of Geo. E. Duis as publisher. Mr. Duis is mayor of Grand Forks and a mighty nice chap. He prints no salutory or explanation of how he acquired the gold brick.

Slowly But Surely.

The insurgent newspapers are busy revising their election figures, and the busiest one in the bunch is the Grand Forks Herald, which is slowly but surely getting at the truth.

An Excellent Trio.

Hurrah for Saries, Stockwell and Cooper—good men with creditable official records, who are fairly and logically entitled to succeed themselves in office.

Little Preparation Necessary.

The Walhalla Mountaineer wonders if the Grand Forks Herald is getting ready to turn democratic.

The Northampton (England) Guardians of the Poor have received a letter from a farm laborer, who writes: "I hear that you have one or two widows on the books. If so, I am in want of one for a wife. One that is on our door relief would just suit me."

Pliny's natural history may be regarded as the first encyclopaedia, since it contained 30,000 facts compiled from 2,000 books by 100 authors.

Stories of the Hour

The Main Point.

Mayor Guthrie of Pittsburg, said of certain voting lists: "I am glad to see so many new faces here with us today—so many bright, eager faces, full of promise, full of enthusiasm, rejoicing to be here. I am sure you have all enjoyed the beautiful lesson, and now, before we close our eyes, and while the secretary is preparing his report, I will wait a moment to see if there are any little points that have been overlooked. Has any one a question to ask?"

"There was a pause, and a new boy of 12 or 13 years, anxiously" said the superintendent. "I'd like to know," said the boy, "if there's going to be a school picnic this Fourth?"

Bate on Debates.

The late Senator William B. Bate of Tennessee, was a major-general in the Confederate army and never quite reconciled himself to the defeat of the south, although he was an able and efficient senator. Soon after he came to the senate he formulated a set of rules which he called "Rules for My Proper Legislative Guidance. Whenever a proposition came up about which he was undecided, he would take the printed slip containing these rules from his pocket and study it carefully.

"Bate," said a colleague one day, "what is that slip of paper to which you refer so frequently?" "That," replied Senator Bate, "is a little reminder of my beliefs on constitutional questions."

Pals of the President.

Colonel Harry Hall, the orator and writer, was in London, riding on top of a bus. He asked the driver several questions and then the driver said: "You have not one of us, sir?" "No," Hall replied, "I am an American."

Just a Bite of a Cherry.

An Englishman, smoking a pipe, sat in a club-car on a Western train. There were several discussing themselves and telling how good they were. One of them said: "I have about as long a trip as any one in the business. I go from Boston to San Francisco twice a year."

Ignorance No Excuse.

The story is told in Boston of a discussion among the judges as to the choice of a stenographer. Most of them preferred a woman, but one objected. "Now, why don't you want one?" asked Judge S. "You know they are generally more to be depended on than men."

Padonable Curiosity.

Fred's father and mother had the habit of spelling out some of the words of a sentence, when they did not want the little fellow to catch on. He was just learning to spell words of three letters himself, and he was impressed that spelling was a family accomplishment and a family secret.

Not Yet, But Soon.

William James Conners, the Buffalo newspaper proprietor and freight contractor, has a beautiful home out on the edge of the city. His house is surrounded by many acres of lawn.

A Sharp Distinction.

Billions, the trust magnate, had come back to his native village, the little, lonely burg among the hills. The old squire was among the first to shake the returned wanderer by the hand.

A Doggy Doggerel.

The fisherman took his rod, and the hunter considered his gun; And a sad-eyed dog with liver spots, Went with them to see the fun.

Lacked Sincerity.

Mrs. J. G. Phelps Steaks said of the idle rich in an address: "They grieve, these people, for the sorrows of the poor, but they don't

Amusements

Vaudeville.

The Orpheum Co. are promising a big musical program for this coming engagement on Tuesday July 10. The big number is the Bell trio of clever vocalists who give some beautiful light operatic selections and also are all three splendid comedians.

"Gaities of Divorce" "August, the Educated Monkey," and others amounting to nearly 3,000 feet. Get the Habit.

Henrietta Crossman.

That vast element of the theatregoing public which has seen Henrietta Crossman in "Miss Nell," "As You Like It," "Nance Oldfield," "Madeline," "Sweet Kitty Bellairs," and others of her successes, have been struck not alone by the exquisite work of the star herself, but by the excellence of the supporting company and the magnificence of the productions.

CAUGHT ON THE WING.

It is now discovered that Dowle is crazy and has been for some time. The difficult thing is to discover just what period in his life he was sane.

He Enjoyed It.

One day Mr. and Mrs. Mayfair went shopping. "Supposing you wait here in this comfortable seat by the elevator while I match these two samples of ribbon," said Mrs. Mayfair sweetly to her husband, who had been entrapped into going shopping with her.

Safe Anyhow.

The story is told in Boston of a discussion among the judges as to the choice of a stenographer. Most of them preferred a woman, but one objected. "Now, why don't you want one?" asked Judge S. "You know they are generally more to be depended on than men."

Amusements

Vaudeville.

The Orpheum Co. are promising a big musical program for this coming engagement on Tuesday July 10. The big number is the Bell trio of clever vocalists who give some beautiful light operatic selections and also are all three splendid comedians.

"Gaities of Divorce" "August, the Educated Monkey," and others amounting to nearly 3,000 feet. Get the Habit.

Henrietta Crossman.

That vast element of the theatregoing public which has seen Henrietta Crossman in "Miss Nell," "As You Like It," "Nance Oldfield," "Madeline," "Sweet Kitty Bellairs," and others of her successes, have been struck not alone by the exquisite work of the star herself, but by the excellence of the supporting company and the magnificence of the productions.

CAUGHT ON THE WING.

It is now discovered that Dowle is crazy and has been for some time. The difficult thing is to discover just what period in his life he was sane.

He Enjoyed It.

One day Mr. and Mrs. Mayfair went shopping. "Supposing you wait here in this comfortable seat by the elevator while I match these two samples of ribbon," said Mrs. Mayfair sweetly to her husband, who had been entrapped into going shopping with her.

Safe Anyhow.

The story is told in Boston of a discussion among the judges as to the choice of a stenographer. Most of them preferred a woman, but one objected. "Now, why don't you want one?" asked Judge S. "You know they are generally more to be depended on than men."

METROPOLITAN THEATRE
TUESDAY, JULY 10
The ORPHEUM Vaudeville Co.

MOVING PICTURES
The Trial of an Automobileist
THE MEDALLION TRIO
In the Musical Farce "That Girl"
CORINNE
Only a Message From Home, Sweet Home
THE BELL TRIO
Beautiful Part songs and Glee
THE KINETOSCOPES
The Educated Monkey August
Gaities of Divorce and Others
Bargain Prices 10 and 25c
GET THE HABIT.

BARTLES' Hydro-Carbon Oil
Have You Tried It?
Being manufactured from the best Pennsylvania crude, which contains no sulphur, it is entirely free from all disagreeable features which are always in evidence when burning the common oil. Another fact which accounts for its growing popularity.
Bartles-Dakota Oil Co., Grand Forks, N. D.

and swimming in the wagon tracks of the road.

Editor and Mrs. Rishoff of the Milton Globe, are spending a few weeks in Minnesota, where the editor is recuperating from the effects of his strenuous work in behalf of the disreputable and the rank decision of the umpire in the Olga baseball game.

Some Foster county farmers are trying to interest enough wheat growers to build a terminal elevator.

Hunter barbers have increased the cost of shaving ten cents for July Fourth.

Engineer Ellison of the Cooperstown electric light plant came near dying as the result of being overcome by gas.

Ben Stavsky, Stener Strande and Benjamin Tuffe of Cooperstown have formed a partnership for the purpose of conducting a clothing business at Devils Lake.

A. F. Chenoweth who was adjudged insane at Bismarck, will probably be taken to Massachusetts by the sheriff of Burleigh county.

The rainfall in Burleigh county last week was 1.11 inches. The Palladium says, if no more rain falls, there will be sufficient moisture to insure a bumper crop.

There is some talk of the democrats nominating Willis A. Joy of this city for governor.

At Bathgate, night parties are hunting for wolves, which have been destroying lambs.

A moose has been wandering at large through the northern part of Pembina county.

The Pink Paper wants Bathgate to have modern lights.

The Larimore cremery is in a flourishing condition, being better than the promoters expected. The ministers of Cavalier are protesting against the holding of funerals on Sunday as it disarranges the work of the pastors.

July Fourth at Chautauqua will be the big celebration in the state.

The Pioneer says the police of Larimore are the real thing.

McCumber is getting ready for a substantial boom.

The Milton Globe was in charge of the devil last week, and gave ample proof of the fact.

A small son of Nick Roles of Glenburn attempted to do the magician's act of putting a bean in his ear and blowing it out of his nose. The bean stuck in the ear and a physician was necessary to stop the agricultural development.

The Grand Forks Herald was called down on its report of a Towner game of baseball by the Granville Herald. The former Herald is getting into disrepute on everything.

Two gasoline tank cars caught fire at Balfour and for a time it looked as though things would be hotter than the disruptionist campaign.

The farmers of Granville are preparing to erect a co-operative elevator.

The Granville cremery has introduced the custom of returning the buttermilk to its patrons to be fed to the stock, and the results are said to be decidedly satisfactory.

There are fifty criminal cases on the district court docket for Ward county.

A miscreant entered Bob Walton's pasture near Atlers and cut off the mane and tail of one of his fine brood mares. The American thinks that the culprit should be stripped naked and staked in the middle of a mosquito swamp with his hands tied.

The LaMoure pioneers and Sunday school pleaded together.

The LaMoure County Chronicle says it is still in doubt about the result of the late primary. Hasn't heard the outside reports yet.

Truth Strangers Than Fiction. The novella's small but valuable son had just been brought to judgment by telling a fib. His sobs having died away, he sat for a time in silent thought.

"Pa," said he, "how long will it be before I stop gettin' licked for tellin' lies, an' begin to get paid for 'em, like you do?"