COBURN CASE
 Horse Stealing Action Implicating "Little Utah" District People Settled.

The Coburn jury disagreed. After four trials there have been no results in the Coburn horse stealing case. The alleged theft occurred in LaMoure county and after three trials a change of venue was granted and the case taken to Jamestown. Judge Pollock of Fargo presided. The case was started there before the state republican convention and reached the jury Wednesday. That body remained out forty-eight hours, finally reporting a disagreement and being discharged.

The parties to the case hail from that locality known as "Little Utah" and it is said that the Mormon faith is emphasized and practiced by many of the people living there.

The testimony introduced is said to have been somewhat sensational, as the domestic relations of several people were in the limelight of criticism. The case is said to have originated out of a feud dating back to the election of Mr. Coburn's father to a county office and was actuated by the jealousy of the defeated candidate.

$500 VERDICT
 Jury in Scherer Damage Suit Reaches Agreement After Long Vigil.

It once returned and reported to Judge Fisk that it was unable to agree, the vote being 10 to 2. Judge Fisk sent its members into retirement again and at a few minutes to 6 an agreement was reached.

Skulason & Skulason were counsel for plaintiff and Bangs, Cooley & Hamilton for defendants. It is not known whether an appeal will be taken or not.

THE LIMB WAS GOLD AND GLAMMY--UGH!

Tale of a Wooden Leg or How a Dead Man Suddenly Returned to Life.

More or less has been printed the last day or two in reference to the attempt of William McArthur, a prisoner in the county jail, to commit suicide. In this connection the report has gained publicity that Sheriff Turner and Deputies Mahon and Overby are the perpetrators of a ghastly deed. McArthur contends that they have actually stolen his leg. The act is possible for the reason that the missing limb is a wooden one, and therefore detachable. The other side of the story is that McArthur has a receptacle in this wooden "perambulator" of his where he carried various and sundry appliances, among them the broken piece of ink bottle with which he attempted to make his last great shuffle.

A day or two before his latest incarceration McArthur is said to have been lying asleep in a back room in Lynch & Gallagher's saloon on the east side. Joe Cosgrove, a porter in the place, seeing the fellow sleeping, determined to wake him up and order him out. The pants leg over the wooden limb happened to be pulled up, so Cosgrove grabbed him by the foot intending to shake it. When he felt the cold and clammy exterior, he jumped back, and running into the front part of the saloon, informed those present in a ghastly whisper that there was a dead man "out there." Several men present fled into the rear room, awe-stricken. One, bolder than the others, approached and placed his hand over McArthur's heart and found it was beating its regular tattoo. He then placed the wooden leg, and discovered the fact of its being wooden. About this time McArthur suddenly awakened and sat up to find a bunch of disgusted looking thrusters staring him in the countenance. Since then Cosgrove has been the butt of much good-natured joshing on the part of patrons of the place.

GLASS ALONE COST LARGE SUM OF MONEY

13,000 Square Feet, Costing Approximately $6,000 in Griffith Building.

Contractor Geo. Buckingham informed a representative of The Evening Times today that the superstructure, with the exception of the glass, is now complete and the interior workers, plasterers, plumbers and electricians were now holding the fort. The new store will be ready for occupancy by September 15 at the latest. Complete it will cost close to $100,000, and will be filled with a $200,000 stock of goods.

No other building, and probably no other two buildings in Grand Forks, have as large a quantity of glass in the construction. By exact measurement, 12,919 square feet of crystal, or nearly 13,000 square feet, will be used. The Plaburg Plate Glass company, which has the contract to furnish and set the glass, has a crew of a dozen men now at work. There will be nine large windows 20x16 ft., nine 20x20's and numerous windows of lesser sizes. All glass will be either double strength or plate, and the contract, it is reported, runs near the $6,000 mark for this one item alone.

Barnes & Nuss have completed their contract on roof and cornices and Contractor Geo. Babler has a crew of men at work on the plastering. Spriggs Bros. are rapidly completing their contract on plumbing, which runs about $5,000, including those employed by Geo. W. Cunningham, the general contractor, crews numbering seventy-five men, are engaged on the big structure.

The building is of brown pressed brick, and because of its many large windows, and height, it presents an imposing appearance. Truly, Grand Forks owes much to the Griffins, as do they also to the citizens of this city.

FESTIVE HOBO
 Time for "Box Car Tourists" to Arrive, But Police Keep Them Traveling.

The season for the festive hobo and his "pot gang" is on in full blast throughout the northwest of the state and Grand Forks will have her share of the non-sweating fraternity, who "toll not, neither do the spin," but who manage to "get there," pretty regularly three times a day and enjoy a refreshing summer "night."

It has been the habit of the "hobos" to congregate in numbers on the point and along the river. The tin-can gentry used to do their cooking and eating at these places, and at times some questionable characters rendezvoused there.

Chief of Police Lowe and the members of the force are prepared to use strenuous persuasion to induce the "tourists" to move on, with the result that the tin-can hobo is not infrequently to be seen in the streets of the city.

The men who used to hang out there were in the habit of stealing anything and everything in the shape of growing vegetables from gardens in the vicinity of tin-can houses for nuisance. It is a case of "keep moving, Willie," with the box-car fraternity who hit Grand Forks at this season of the year.

RETURNS EAST
 Colonel Lounsberry Here Last Evening Enroute to Washington.

Colonel C. A. Lounsberry, one of North Dakota's veteran newspaper men, now in the land department at Washington, D. C., was a visitor in Grand Forks last evening, together with his niece, Miss Cleland of Fargo, enroute home to that city from the western part of the state. The colonel and his charming niece have been visiting friends at Buford and Minot and also "looked in" at Miss Cleland's claim near the former place. They report fine crops in the neighborhood visited.

Colonel Lounsberry was for years associated in the newspaper work in this state, with headquarters at Fargo, and until very recently edited and published "The Record," a magazine devoted to the advertisement of North Dakota and its industries.

The colonel, so he informs The Evening Times, leaves in a few days for Washington to resume his duties. He has been enjoying a vacation of about a month. During the course of the conversation he took occasion to compliment this paper upon its excellent news service which, he said, is remarkable, considering the fact that it is as yet but a few months old.

WAS BUNCOED
 Bismarcker After a Pair of Grafters Who Worked the Ancient Check Deal.

After being made a victim of an old check game and shipped to his home in Bismarck, a man, who declined to give his name, but who admits that his home is in Bismarck, has returned to Fargo and is seeking revenge. He reported the affair to the authorities at the fair grounds yesterday morning and is now looking for the two men who duped him.

The victim arrived Monday morning to attend the fair. He went to the fair grounds in the afternoon and was standing at the front entrance watching the crowd, when he was approached by a well-dressed stranger. "Going in?" asked the stranger. "Yes," the Bismarcker replied. "Well, come in with me. I'll pay."

The Bismarcker man eagerly accepted the invitation and others to go into the side shows. While on the rounds of the attractions, a second stranger was encountered and soon the three became very amny.

From that time on the Bismarcker man appears to have been hypnotized. When one of the strangers produced a check for $925 and offered to give it as security for $25, the Bismarcker man bit.

"I'll get the check cashed down town," one of the strangers told the Bismarcker man.

In some manner the Bismarcker was persuaded to get on a train and go home. When he found himself back in the capital city, minus his $25, he was angry and jumped on the first train bound for Fargo.

FROM DENVER
 Delegate Frank Schlaberg Returns From B. P. O. E. Gathering.

Frank Schlaberg returned this morning from Denver, Col., where he went as delegate from the local Elks' lodge to the national grand lodge convention at that place held on the 17th, 18th and 19th of this month. His visit has extended over a period of two weeks and he reports an enjoyable time.

About 500 delegates were in attendance and the city was filled to overflowing with friends of the order who took advantage of the rates to see the beautiful city and surrounding country. Some of the ablest orators in the country were present, among the most prominent being Past Exalted Ruler Robert Brown of Kentucky and Hon. Henry A. Melvin of California.

The convention selected Philadelphia as the next place of meeting and adopted a new ritual and by-laws.

Excursions were made to Pike's Peak and other mountain resorts and the beautiful scenery was much enjoyed by the visitors. The events incident to the convention falling to the entertainment of the delegates and visitors took up an entire week and Mr. Schlaberg states that every effort was put forth to make the convention a success in a social way.

The high altitude of the mountainous districts was a change from the atmosphere of North Dakota and the Grand Forks delegate was inclined to be "light headed" at times though he strongly avers it was the rarity of the this and nothing else. He had some trouble with his eyes as did other delegates and many found it difficult to read the daily papers in the resorts up the picturesque slopes of the towering mountains.

The trip to Pike's Peak was particularly interesting and enjoyed by the delegates.

One fare for the round trip to Grand Forks via Great Northern railway on July 31 and August 1, on account of the Red River Valley exposition, and one and one-third fare for the round trip to Grand Forks on August 2 and 3, all tickets good until August 4, 1906, returning.

You Can't Save MUCH: MONEY

As long as you continue paying out twenty-five per cent. of your income for rent. The thing to do is to get a home of your own and thus save your rent money. The sooner you realize this fact, the sooner you will be able to put aside a few dollars for a rainy day. Besides there is the satisfaction of owning your home which cannot be measured in dollars. Look the following propositions over carefully.

7000-B-322—Here is a good new house in the north end on a 50x140 ft. lot. Five rooms, downstairs—the upstairs is not quite finished. Best-class bargain. Very reasonable terms can be arranged for.

8275-B-777—Two beautiful lots on International avenue in a splendid locality. The lots are located on the corner. Liberal terms can be arranged for.

8500-B-550 cash, balance $25 per month for one of the nicest 50x140 ft. corner lots left on International avenue—close to a small house on it. The house is not of much account, but the lot is a beautiful one—good enough for a $2,500 house. Look it up.

8125-B-787—We have two lots in the north end on one of the good streets, located about eight blocks from the Post-office that we can sell for $125 each, on terms to suit. Here is something that will not remain on the market long.

8900 on very reasonable terms buys a half block in Skidmore's addition, well located. Six 60x110 ft. lots, equal to 12 25-ft. lots. Here is a bargain that you can make a little money on if you act in before the other fellows.

8125 on reasonable terms buys a nice 50-ft. corner lot on North Fourth street just north of the N. P. R. track. This is a first-class proposition. B-767.

DAILY MARKETS
 Associated Press to The Evening Times.
 Chicago, July 28.—The probability of greatly increased receipts of wheat here offset yesterday the effect of the bullish foreign advices and caused a steady close in the local wheat market, final quotations on the September delivery being precisely the same as the day before.

The wheat market was firm during the first half of the session, sentiment in the pit being influenced by foreign crop news generally favorable to the bulls. The price of wheat at the principal European grain centers showed a considerable advance owing to additional reports claiming a greater shortage of wheat in southern Russia as a result of excessive rains. Another bullish factor was a decrease in shipments of wheat from Argentine during the week compared with the corresponding week a year ago. The buying early in the day came from influential quarters, several prominent commission houses being on that side of the market. There was also a good demand by local shorts. Toward the noon hour the market weakened on selling by cash houses, increased acceptances from the country being given as a reason for the more liberal offerings. Little recuperative power was manifested late in the day, the market closing steady. September opened 1/4 to 1/4-c higher at 76 1/2-c to 76-c sold up to 77 1/2-c and then declined to 76 1/2-c. The close was at 76 1/2-c. Clearances of wheat and flour were equal to 106,700 bushels. Exports for the week as shown by Bradstreet were equal to 1,790,000 bu. Primary receipts were 1,219,000 bu., compared with 1,239,000 the corresponding time a year ago. Minneapolis, Duluth and Chicago reported receipts of 665 cars against 703 cars last week and 426 cars a year ago.

FROM DENVER
 Delegate Frank Schlaberg Returns From B. P. O. E. Gathering.

Frank Schlaberg returned this morning from Denver, Col., where he went as delegate from the local Elks' lodge to the national grand lodge convention at that place held on the 17th, 18th and 19th of this month. His visit has extended over a period of two weeks and he reports an enjoyable time.

About 500 delegates were in attendance and the city was filled to overflowing with friends of the order who took advantage of the rates to see the beautiful city and surrounding country. Some of the ablest orators in the country were present, among the most prominent being Past Exalted Ruler Robert Brown of Kentucky and Hon. Henry A. Melvin of California.

The convention selected Philadelphia as the next place of meeting and adopted a new ritual and by-laws.

Excursions were made to Pike's Peak and other mountain resorts and the beautiful scenery was much enjoyed by the visitors. The events incident to the convention falling to the entertainment of the delegates and visitors took up an entire week and Mr. Schlaberg states that every effort was put forth to make the convention a success in a social way.

The high altitude of the mountainous districts was a change from the atmosphere of North Dakota and the Grand Forks delegate was inclined to be "light headed" at times though he strongly avers it was the rarity of the this and nothing else. He had some trouble with his eyes as did other delegates and many found it difficult to read the daily papers in the resorts up the picturesque slopes of the towering mountains.

The trip to Pike's Peak was particularly interesting and enjoyed by the delegates.

One fare for the round trip to Grand Forks via Great Northern railway on July 31 and August 1, on account of the Red River Valley exposition, and one and one-third fare for the round trip to Grand Forks on August 2 and 3, all tickets good until August 4, 1906, returning.

COBURN CASE
 Horse Stealing Action Implicating "Little Utah" District People Settled.

The Coburn jury disagreed. After four trials there have been no results in the Coburn horse stealing case. The alleged theft occurred in LaMoure county and after three trials a change of venue was granted and the case taken to Jamestown. Judge Pollock of Fargo presided. The case was started there before the state republican convention and reached the jury Wednesday. That body remained out forty-eight hours, finally reporting a disagreement and being discharged.

The parties to the case hail from that locality known as "Little Utah" and it is said that the Mormon faith is emphasized and practiced by many of the people living there.

The testimony introduced is said to have been somewhat sensational, as the domestic relations of several people were in the limelight of criticism. The case is said to have originated out of a feud dating back to the election of Mr. Coburn's father to a county office and was actuated by the jealousy of the defeated candidate.
