Plans for Thanksgiving are taking up the time of the society ladies of the city, consequently there have been few social events this week, the card party at Mrs. Nicholson's being the only large affair. There have been several small affairs, however, the grandmother's party at Mrs. Beers being a little out of the ordinary. If it is true that we are just as young as we feel, may these "young ladies never grow old." The music lovers have had an enjoyable week, for, besides the concert given by the famous Skovsland, university convocation exercises were in the form of a musical. The W. H. M. Society of M. E. church had a musical program which was also the form of entertainment at Mrs. Geo. Thomas on Thursday afternoon.

Stout, in her piano solos delighted the audience. Miss Leonard has a very sweet voice and will be an acquisition to the musical circles of the city. This was the first appearance of the Glee club and the general opinion expressed was that they had acquitted themselves very creditably.

Mrs. F. W. Tibbals is entertaining Mrs. Owen E. Ashbrook of Larimore.

Mrs. N. R. Lincoln, Belmont avenue, entertains this evening, at a six o'clock dinner, some of the teachers of the city. Covers were laid for ten.

Mrs. Halfyard, wife of Dr. Halfyard of Wesley college left for Rochester this morning to enter the hospital there. She is to be operated on for appendicitis. The best of wishes accompany her for a speedy recovery.

Mrs. W. B. Wood entertained a small company of friends at cards on Thursday afternoon. Prizes were given to Mrs. Charles E. Esby, Miss McHugh and Mrs. W. E. Fegan.

The Irish-Americans held a very successful ball last night. A large number were in attendance.

In spite of the bad condition of the sidewalks, quite a number attended the reception last evening to Rev. Mr. Moore and wife and the faculty of Wesley college. The time passed pleasantly in social intercourse and music, after which refreshments were served.

The U. C. Travelers are making preparations for a swell ball to be given on Thanksgiving night in the Commercial club rooms. This organization has a reputation for entertaining and it will fully sustain it on this occasion. A first class orchestra has been engaged and nothing will be left undone toward making of the affair a grand and unqualified success.

Frequently a cloth waist will be either too dark or too worn, so that the separate white lace or white silk bodice still lives. Lingerie waists may be worn well into the winter and some women never put their wash waists away, but this is an expensive habit, for under a cloth coat the fine lawn will not wear very long and frequent washing is also ruinous to the sheer texture and only the finest materials are at all smart.

Side plaited crepe de chine makes an attractive separate bodice. There should be a little transparent lace yoke and collar and if long sleeves are preferred the cuffs should be lined only with chiffon. The soft, satin finished silks are always good for a simple waist, while chiffon, chiffon cloth and the new marquisette are all soft and becoming.

If a cloth waist is thought too hot for winter, then a white lace strapped in some way with cloth or with velvet the shade of the cloth is sure to be effective. There are many new models in the cloth strapped lace waists that are extremely pretty, the straps as a rule run about the waists instead of over the shoulders, so as to be quite unlike the gullepe dresses that have perhaps been too popular for the last two years. If it is desired to wear the bodice with more than one gown, then, of course, any color must be avoided and chiffon or white satin or velvet ribbon used to relieve the lace.

This is, indeed, a season of button trimming, and many are the curious sorts for sale. Moreover, one of the latest hobbies of the ultra fashionable girl is to possess a set of beautiful, buttons quite individual and wholly different from those of the rest of the world. In order to achieve this, one very ingenious girl not long ago purchased several hat pins with very elaborate and striking tips; these heads she deftly removed and had a button shank put beneath each one, when, lo! she became a proud owner of a set of buttons not only unusually handsome, but altogether unique as well.

Wings and plumes are a very important factor in the making of the new hat models, and a remarkable development is shown in the tendency to combine several kinds of feathers on one hat-shape. Ostrich and marabout are frequently piled in conjunction, and in some instances are even supplemented with curling coq's plumes in gray, black and white.

Purple and leaf-green represent a very effective alliance, which are seen in many of the smart hats, while parrot-green and moleskin are among the other leading color combinations of the season. As a matter of fact, moleskin is almost invariably allied either to orange, pale blue or more vivid tints of green, the supplementary color being introduced sparingly and with great discretion.

dog, and serve notice on the neighbor that all dogs found running at large will be shot on sight. But there are

Other Means of Infection. Among these are running streams accessible to the hogs. Theoretically running water for hogs to drink from and wallow in sounds all right, but in reality it is about the most dangerous place on the farm. Pigeons and other birds with a tramp disposition will carry disease. The local hog buyer is perhaps the most fruitful source of trouble, as he is usually called to farms and yards where there is disease, and on one such visit will pick up enough germs to stock the country unless he takes proper precaution.

The sympathetic neighbor who has been over to see the "other fellow who has trouble," and wants to "see how your hogs look," is a wholesale vendor of cholera germs, and should be politely but firmly asked to hold to the public road till trouble is well over, and the community cleaned up.

Wagon wheels, or anything else that touches the ground, will carry disease.

Science Frosted-Liar Escapes. The cold weather of yesterday morning found its way into Alonzo Murphy's kitchen at Mount Freedom, N. J., and killed a specimen of the vegetable kingdom that for months had been the pride of Mr. Murphy's heart, and with which he expected to revolutionize dairying and strawberry culture.

It has been a cherished idea of Mr. Murphy's that by a judicious crossing of the milkweed and strawberry it would be possible to produce strawberries and cream from the same plant. Last fall he grafted several strawberry plants on plants of the milkweed. One grew sturdily, being kept close by Mr. Murphy's kitchen range, and was in full fruitage when it succumbed to the cold that entered the room when the fire in the range by accident went out.

That the experiment was entirely successful is shown by the fact that each strawberry when examined was found to contain a quantity of ice cream, varying from a few drops to a teaspoonful, depending on the size of the berry.

Mr. Murphy is not discouraged by his ill-luck, and promises to repeat the experiment next summer.—New York Tribune.

Fearfully and Wonderfully Made. A clergyman happened to tell his son on Saturday afternoon what lesson he would read in church the next morning. The boy got hold of his father's Bible, found the lesson's place, and glued together the connecting pages.

In consequence the clergyman read to his flock the following day that "when Noah was 120 years old he took unto himself a wife who was"—here he turned the page—"140 cubits long, 40 cubits wide, built of gopher wood and covered with pitch in and out."

After reading the passage the clergyman read it again to verify it. Then, pushing back his spectacles, he looked gravely at the congregation and said: "My friends, this is the first time I ever read that in the Bible, but I accept it as evidence of the assertion that we are fearfully and wonderfully made."—Philadelphia Record.

Could Stop Tillman's Talking. Senator Tillman was recently talking in his usual vehement manner. The conversation threatened to be stormy. A friend expostulated with the senator, saying it was "hardly a place for such a discussion."

Please don't talk so much, said the warning voice. It irritated Tillman. Talk! he shouted. I'll talk as much whenever and wherever I please. I would like to see the man who can keep me from talking. I can't come a voice from the crowd.

Tillman turned and glared about him. Then his eye caught the speaker. He pretended to quail. The laugh went round and the critical situation was saved.

The man who had hurled the defiant "I can't" was Dr. T. T. Moore, Tillman's lifetime dentist.—Judge.

A Quick Degree. Ian MacLaren tells an amusing story with regard to bogus degrees. A prospect resided in the suburbs of Edinburgh for debt. The presiding judge called the witness to give evidence, and the first question he asked him was: "What is your name?"

"Jamie Gregory, LL. D., sir." "What! Doctor of Laws? And where on earth did you get that distinction?"

"'Twas a fellow frae an American university, an' I swept his chimney three times. 'I canna pay ye cash, Jamie Gregory,' he says, 'but I'll make ye an LL. D., an' we'll ca' it quits.' And he did it!"—Tit-Bits.

Too Good. "Say, Bill, I think you are trying to boom our new ice plant a little too much!" called the head of the concern.

"What's the matter?" asked Bill. "Why, there was a lady in here just now making a complaint," continued the head of the concern. "She said you had guaranteed that this ice wouldn't melt."—Detroit Free Press.
