PICKETTS WIN AGAIN FROM ARVILLA-- M'ILRAITH EVEN SURPRISED HIMSELF

GOT A HIT IN NICK OF TIME

Changed the Story After Fadden's Blacks Had Game Well Tucked Away

It was like Washington crossing the Delaware to see Tim McIlraith hit the ball, getting a three bag clout at a time when it was most needed to save the Picketts from defeat...

It is necessary to give it to Arvilla for being there, for the boys from the west were determined and backed Munson to perfection all the way through...

That Rag Chewing In order to make things fair and square, two umpires were on the battlefield, Knudson and Sandile...

Returning to the Game, let it be said that there was some baseball playing when the Arvilla boys went around and around in the second inning negotiating three runs, thanks to a hit by Barrett which meant a hat, as it was over the fence...

How It Was Done Returning to the game, let it be said that there was some baseball playing when the Arvilla boys went around and around in the second inning negotiating three runs...

From then on there was nothing doing until the sixth when the Picketts got a pass for Conny, who looped the loop for the works on Chandler's bingle, scoring one, while the balance of the Pickett bunch went out.

In the seventh, with one out, Bach and Kelleher got on and went the rounds after Arvilla distributed a few benders that were not regulation and

FORECAST OF SPORT SHOWS MUCH DOING

Many and varied contests in all classes of outdoor games were held on Memorial day in practically every city throughout the United States. There was baseball morning and afternoon, horse racing, rowing and track events of every description...

An event of interest in the college world was the rowing race between Harvard and Cornell eights on Cayuga lake at Ithaca on Monday.

Horse racing in the east which is attracting increased attention as the season advances, shifted from Belmont park this week to the old and popular course of the Brooklyn Jockey club at Gravesend.

On Saturday the yachting world will turn its attention to motor boats and sailing yachts with the start of the New York to Bermuda ocean contest. A cup for the winner of the motor boat race has been donated by James Gordon Bennett, and five motor boats have entered for the 650 mile sea race.

Ten automobiles are expected to start Tuesday afternoon on the long trans-continental run from New York to Seattle for the prize offered by Robert Guggenheim.

Other high class performers who will probably start are King James, Jack Atkin, Fitz Herbert, Joe Madden, High Private and Wise Mason.

CORNELL GOT RACE Ithaca, N. Y., June 1.—The Cornell oarsmen easily defeated Harvard in both the varsity and freshmen event for eight oared crews on Cayuga lake Monday, winning the big race by a length and a half, in 10 minutes, 41 seconds and the freshmen event by four lengths in 11 minutes flat.

NORTHWOOD WON EXCELLENT GAME

Northwood, N. D., June 1.—A large crowd witnessed the defeat of Mayville in a fast game at the home grounds Monday afternoon. The Mayvillites came up with a strong aggression and a reputation, evidently with the idea of adding another victory to their score...

MAYVILLE WILL BE HERE NEXT SUNDAY

Mayville will be here by special train next Sunday to play the Picketts. The team is very strong and promises to give the locals a hard tussle. Mayville has defeated everything in that section, only losing to Northwood in a hard struggle yesterday afternoon.

THE PROBLEMS OF THE FUTURE OF THE NATION

(Continued from Page 1) is the witness of that constantly broadening tie which is both the price we pay for civilization and the boon that it confers upon us. Never again can the Pacific coast withdraw into itself, never again can it know any sickening of the tide of life that sweeps through all the nation's veins when it crosses the great divide.

Mr. Hill referred to Alaska's remarkable progress, recalling that thirty years ago intercourse with it was limited practically to the needs of the sealing industry. The exposition exhibits he said, gave a mere hint of the contribution, still unrevealed to our eyes, which she is to make to the national life and activity in the half century to come.

The speaker reviewed the development of the Pacific coast and said: "When capital can be enticed back into railroad investments by assurances of proper protection and a reasonable return, the progress of construction will do more for the Pacific northwest than for any other part of the country."

Mr. Hill said the unexhausted resources of this section are the greatest and most diversified in the United States. "It is unique in possessing abundantly all of the four great sources of wealth which human life depends," said he. "In our time, when a human want and the means of satisfying it cannot long co-exist, no matter what distances and obstacles lie between, without presently coming together, such resources are cause not merely for local pride but for world congratulation. Those who employ them wisely will play no small part upon the big stage of life."

Mr. Hill said the Pacific Coast has participated in foreign commerce more extensively than its population or its wealth would suggest; and gave statistics concerning the same. Continuing, he said: "Measured by its linear extent, its continental relations, its situation with respect to the carrying trade, and its position upon the ocean, where the world's future will probably witness stupendous changes, its resources, its production and its commerce are substantial elements in national greatness and national promise. No less weighty should be its contribution to the formation of national ideals, the shaping of national policies, the direction of national policies."

"The first and most imperative word I need hardly say, which the country has come to hear with much respect and not a little fear as to its future, is 'conservatism'. From California northward to the extreme of Alaska there are today probably more unimpaired natural resources, than in all the rest of the country. You still possess the principal supply of timber in the United States."

Mr. Hill emphasized the necessity of forest conservation, care of the soil, preservation of the fisheries, conservation of natural resources, and said: "The exhibition of your intelligence and public spirit that we admire and celebrate today will have been made to little purpose if it find and leave you indifferent to the greatest issue presented to people in our time, and one that must occupy them increasingly hereafter."
