by "Stick" - Himself.

TIMEKILLERS.
First she opens up the handbag that is dangling from her mitt.
And she was a half a dozen precious minutes searching it.
Powder puffs and gloves and thimbles, sample packages of pills.
Handkerchiefs and lace and dainties, recipes, and silk- and cotton trills.
Greet her eye till she discovers in a deep, secluded nook.
Hidden underneath a pile of junk a little pocketbook.
Then she opens up the pocketbook and precious time is spent.
Searching and the postage stamps and other things to find a cent.
Then she hands it to the newsboy who is waiting for his lot.
Close up her little steamer trunk and journey on her way.

Some "helpful hints" (a term coined recently by a prominent newspaper woman) suggests the following idea which might not be bad if practical. "If a bone pressing on the brain will cause the owner of the bone and brain to forget, it is suggested by contemporary that it would be valuable to trust magnets and political candidates. For that purpose it would be wholly superfluous. The bone pressure treatment can be commended to the people who are disposed to rely on promises from those sources."

The question now starting the people in the face is "What are we going to do with the big editions of our newspapers if they continue to increase in size?" The Galveston Tribune has arrived at this desk and contains 68 pages. This looked pretty big, but when the Los Angeles Times arrived with its 143 pages we immediately sent for a drayman to remove the debris after looking through it.

It is said that in Los Angeles an epidemic of Japanese fetes is making the rounds of women's clubs. A lady always shows to advantage in a kimono and a Japanese outfit makes the kimono good form. The Japanese are bright women and have made that garment their national costume, but what would be the chance of the head of a white man who could become infatuated with one? Bah!

There is a farmer in California who claims to have the smallest cow on earth, and she never exceeds one-half pint of the fatal fluid at a time. That's nothing—here in North Dakota we have "pinks" which dispense half pints, and very small ones at that.

When it was at the university carnival the other night that this question was put to a "treasure" by a senior. "What's the use of a university education in business, when the Chicago school traders who made fortunes on the recent rise don't know what a real dry indifference underlies corporate?"

The Los Angeles Times says there is no foundation for the report that "Yim" Hill is to retire from business, and adds that when he does, the announcement will be in the form of a lengthy ordinary notice, good guess.

"Oh, looky, looky," said a youngster yesterday as he gazed into a certain display window where peanuts are the dominating feature. "I don't know there were so many peanuts in the world."

A downy water committed suicide, leaving a note written to his friends written on a five dollar bill. We don't see how any man could be disappointed with so much money.

Strawberry rash is the latest contagion. Have you had it?

A Chilly Proposition.—It was one of those chilly, raw, damp, foggy days in old New York. The reporter had been compelled to run to catch his steam train; he didn't feel very fast that morning and the conductor of the train had given him the rush push because he had consumed to exceed five-eighths of a second in his attempt to climb over the other passengers in exit. He was all out of sorts and his mood blacked beautifully with the weather. He wrapped himself up to the umpteenth floor of the World building, sought his desk and proceeded to roast the weather by penning a few lines on the subject, "May." "Even when just about half of its bright, sunny days are gone, it is not too late to thank this auspicious and genial selection from the Almanac. May, the promise, a sweet promise, of May, kept, with such faithfulness and flame, May the queen of the months, the charm of the calendar, the flower of times, didn't the schoolmaster used to tell us that this glory of the seasons was named after some Roman woman goddess—Maia Maestas was it?—wife of Vulcan? At any rate, we love to think of 'Maia' as we find him every hour; his force if it could be found, must be the one, cheerful place in this shivering universe." Then he lighted a cigarette, took a few pulls; it didn't taste good; fired it in the wastebasket and proceeded. "Maia was mixed up with Magna, Magna, great, wasn't she? A great month, especially for coal if any you have left; a great month for influenza, berkinis, chills, cold of the feet, quinine. With the firmness and open fires roaring, with two hoarse water bottles, hot whiskey and water prescribed at frequent regular intervals, it may be possible to keep in something feebly resembling warmth, comfort, life, on a lovely characteristic May day like today, a rather favorable specimen of its class." At this point he was seized with a chill; someone had left the door open and one of those thrilling zephyrs from the south had floated in and drafted down his spine. After he had completed a few deep gulps of whiskey, he realized he must get busy hence closed with these remarks: "May, lily-tinted, warm, radiant May, bid to her, the loveliest, the brightest, the dearest, the Woodrow Wilson of the year." "In Old New York" is fine in song, but the real article with one of those chilly day accompaniments certainly spoils the cantata.

No wonder some people don't get their mail. Think of these names being delivered by mail; they are in the advertised list at a p. o. in this state. They are: Matt Zabolotny, Ness Zivotofsky, Gotsenko, Sam Zolotenko and Jim Zakolint. Isn't that a pretty good assortment of sameness?

The Poet's Boost.—William Watson says of the poet: "He sits above the clang and dust of time." This might indicate that he takes to the roof when his wife begins her spring housecleaning.—Cleveland Flounder.

Yes, or he might be a motorman on a street car.

The more we think it over, the more we are convinced that the cartoonist who pictured Teddy and Bill playing poker, had a tip. The cartoon showed the former with five aces in his hand and with five more "hold out." Quite apropos of the times and events at least.

An electrically heated tray for keeping food warm while it is being served is one of the newest ideas in the line of electric heaters. They might be all right in the absence of red-headed waitresses.

Senator Crane, of Massachusetts, has declared that he will not seek re-election. Let us see, what great man is that quotation from? Maybe the senator means "not three in a row."

Did you ever see a woman who didn't like "East Lynne" or ice cream?

STUDENTS COMPOSE SONGS FOR THE CONTEST

Annual Carney Competition Will be Held at University Saturday Night.

The annual Carney song contest will be held Saturday evening in the university gymnasium. The contest will commence at 8:15 o'clock and the four classes of the university will compete. A prize of $50 is given annually by C. E. Carney, class of 1904, to the class in the university that shows the best ability in the writing and singing of college songs.

The contests are held each spring and are supervised by the musical director of the freshman class. The classes have been practicing hard for the last few months and the contest should be a good one. Several students have written the songs. Each class has two songs and two alma mater songs. Besides this each class must sing the N. D. alma mater.

Freshmen Numbers.
Miss Genevieve Meacham is the choragus for the freshman class. The other members of the committee are Elsie Van Camp, Kathryn King, Vera Markell, Alma Johnson, Nellie McMillen, Ernest Hansen, Edw. Taylor, Theo. Holmes and John Moore. The first freshman class song is written to the tune of "Bright Eyes" and was written by Kathryn King and Elsie Van Camp.

"There's a Varsity in the West," was written by Hortense Moore to the tune of "There's a Tavern in the Town." "Freshmen of the N. D. State" is written to the tune of "The Big College," is another freshman song.

The class medley is written to the tune of "The Orange and Blue" by the sophomore class. The song "The Orange and Blue" was written by Joseph Knud and the alma mater of the U. of Arizona.

Sophomore Class.
Jessie McClood is the choragus for the sophomore class, and the rest of the committee is composed of Pauline Serungard and Harry South. Margaret Lamper wrote a fine class song called "Our Class" to the tune of "Jolly Student."

Relle Wilson has also contributed a song written to the tune of "The Orange and Blue" and the alma mater of the U. of Arizona.

Junior Work.
The junior committee is Laurence Anderson, choragus, Fannie Frendberg, Edna Johnson, J. Burton Cray, Edna Johnson and Edw. Taylor. The North Dakota was written and composed by Fannie R. Frendberg. "Jolly Juniors" was written by Burton Cray and the music was composed by Fannie Frendberg. "Fair Thirteen" to the tune of "The Foaming Stein," was written by Laurence Anderson, with music by North Dakota, and the music was written by Earl Cray.

The Seniors.
Terrence Quirke, Donna Forkner and Edna Johnson are looking after the senior songs. This class was organized last year and are anxious to do so again. "Our Jolly Life" and "North Dakota" were written by Terrence Quirke. "Blonde" was written by Rena Panek to "The Good Old U. N. D." Ella Murphy and Bertha McClellan wrote a fine song called "The College Year" to the tune of "The College Year." The judges for the contest Saturday evening have not yet been named.

EVENING CONCERT TONIGHT

Winning Games Over Ball Teams—Maybe Will be Finely Celebrated by Music.

The days festivities will close this evening with a concert by the Grand Forks Military band, from the balcony of the Frederick hotel at 8:30 o'clock. This afternoon at 3:30 o'clock the Grand Forks and Fargo college teams battled on the diamond. This evening at 6:30 o'clock at Dacotah park, the Grand Forks and Superior teams of the Central International league will play, and the celebration of victory in both games will—maybe be fittingly done by music.

Director Harry L. Masten has arranged a very excellent program for this evening, and it is expected that the first down town evening band concert of the season will be drawing a large attendance.

The program is as follows: March—"Our Glorious Nation"; H. C. Miller Selection—"Time, Place, and the Girl"; Joe E. Howard Trombone—"A Slippery Place"; Paul M. Haker March—"Lohengrin"; Military March—"Universal Peace"; J. Bodwell Lampe Meadley Overture—"Ted Sniders"; Wm. Schultz March—"Counter Point"; Fred Jewell.

SPELLING CONTEST HERE

Will Probably Be Held Here at the Same Time as Meeting of the Educational Association.

The North Dakota spelling contest in which one entry from each county is eligible, will probably be held here at the time of the meeting of the North Dakota Educational society, October, is the announcement made. The plans for the contest are being worked out by a committee of the County superintendent's association and from the present outlook, it is expected that every county in the state will have one representative.

Plans for the general association session are being pushed ahead rapidly and it is expected that the largest meeting in the history of the organization will be held in this city. The slogan of "1,500 at the meeting" has been adopted by the committee and members.

READY FOR CONCERT.

Frederick Hotel Dresses up for the Band Entertainment.

The Frederick hotel is already for the concert and band concert for the season tonight. The concert will be given from the Frederick balcony, starting at 8:30 o'clock.

Chance says that Schulte is one of the most deceiving men that ever broke into the big league.

"This fellow doesn't look fast, but he is fast," says Chance. "He moves over the ground with little effort. He lifts his feet only a short distance above the ground. For that reason he doesn't look as if he were running with any speed. He simply glides over the ground. He does his work with a little effort as any ball player I know."

Schulte's wit is famous in the National league. A sample of it is instanced in the reply he made to Jack Bliss, catcher for the St. Louis Cardinals, when Bliss asked him who was going to pitch for Chicago one day.

"Well," said Schulte, "I think that the tall, rangy guy from down south will pitch for us this afternoon. He is some pitcher, believe me. He wins a dozen games for us every morning before another dozen for us in the evening when we are sitting around the hotel corridor. However, he isn't quite so good when he gets in the box for us in the afternoon."

"The fact that the pitcher in question was not as good in the box as he was in the hotel corridor is testified by the fact that he is now back among the minors."

MISS ADURLINE
THEURSTON IN DULUTH

Duluth is again playing hostess to its popular little star, Miss Adelaide Thurston, who will spend a few weeks there with her sister, Mrs. F. E. Parker, and mother, Mrs. H. S. Sawyer, before leaving for New York, from which port she will sail for a summer in Switzerland.

Miss Thurston with a party will sail on the America of the Hamburg-American line on June 12 and will spend the summer in Lausanne on Lac Leman, which will be a center for music lovers this summer.

"I am going to study music and dancing there this season," said Miss Thurston in an interview. "It will be in general preparation for my work next year."
