FARGO FOOTBALL ELEVEN AT WORK

Coach MacLean Has Fifteen Men Report—Prospects Are Bright.

FARGO, N. D., Sept. 4.—With fifteen men reporting for the first workout of the season Coach MacLean of the high school is looking forward to a fine season, even though the crop of stars is lighter than usual.

Hines, Melchor and Gorman are the only veterans of last year's team who are certain to be back this year. It is said that McEnroe, Eddy and Rice will report later in the season, which will materially strengthen the squad.

Most of the men who reported yesterday are last year's second string men, and a number of first year men are among the crop of candidates for the team.

The coach got the men through the usual preliminary work. Assistant Coach Berner took part of the squad sending them through starting workouts while MacLean put the rest of the men through the same workouts.

After the practice the men were given a long run. At the close of practice Coach MacLean said: "We are lacking in experienced men this year, but I think we have a squad of candidates from which a dependable and well balanced team can be made."

No definite arrangements have been made for the schedule. After the alumni game, the Caswell team will likely be played. The first big game of the season will be with Grand Forks at Grand Forks, which will probably be followed by games with Fargo, Bemidji and Valley City, before the second game with the Grand Forks team is played which will be played here.

The season will close with a game with the championship team of Minneapolis or St. Paul. Barring accidents and scholastic difficulties the prospects for a good and well balanced local high school is decidedly bright.

Winona, Minn., Sept. 4.—Ralph Bell southpaw who aided Winona in winning the Northern league's pennant in the recent race, fell after establishing a new world's record. "Gabby" Cravath.

Philadelphia, Sept. 3.—Sport critics seem to be pretty generally in agreement that "Gabby" Cravath, the slugging outfielder of the Phillies, would be awarded the automobile this fall for having proved of the greatest value to his team in the National league during the 1913 season. Cravath is one of the most notable "comebacks" in baseball, and to him is largely due the credit for the Phillies' fine showing this year. Says Sid Mercer, a New York baseball writer:

"When the votes are counted it is practically certain that 'Gabby' Cravath, the great slugger of the Phillies, and Joe Jackson, the demon clubhouse of the Naps, will be unanimously elected to make the nodes of acceptance and to attend the world's series as guests of Hugh Chalmers, donor of the cars."

"Cravath, as much as anybody, is responsible for the Phillies hanging close to the Giants nearly all season. His record is remarkable because he has steadily 'killed' the ball since one day in May, when he acted as a pinch hitter and beat the Giants by making a home run off Mathewson in the ninth inning."

"Up to that time Cravath was only a pinch hitter. He is not a great outfielder, but still he can 'go get 'em.' He became regular the day he smote Matty, and has been hitting extra-base hits ever since. But now that the Quaker pitchers are being combed for vast quantities of runs, Cravath's long hits are not doing the team much good."

"If it had not been for the individual efforts of Jackson and Cravath, neither the Naps nor Phillies would have been contenders after mid-season, interest in the league races would have abated sooner, and the magnates who have under the hammer the automobile prize of the series of the multitudes as they hop in and ride away."

Moran Wins Over Palzer in Fight At New York City

New York, Sept. 3.—Al Palzer was knocked out by Owen Moran in the seventh round of their battle tonight.

When the men stepped into the ring, Moran looked trained to the bone, while Palzer did not look to be in the best of condition. Moran started to force the fighting from the beginning, playing with left hooks for the head, while Palzer tried for the body. Both missed several blows, but Moran did the most damage. In this, as well as in all succeeding rounds, Moran had the better of the fighting.

Moran rushed matters in the seventh round and after fighting with his left, drove his right to the point of the jaw, and Palzer fell on the floor. The fight was counted out. The time of the last round was exactly twenty seconds.

Palzer had to be helped to his feet by his seconds, and Moran assisted him to his corner.

Fatty Sanders Buys Some Wollypools

Money is a root of evil. I heard Pa say that in his sermons and looks straight at Deacon Spriggs. But it never come home to me till yesterday. Fat Sanders found a nickel.

Fat's friends was thicker than flies on a molasses jug right off. Durned if he didn't think it was him they liked. He stuck out his chest till somebody said:

"Git buttercrotch, Fat."

Then he kind of squashed together like a sick balloon. Thinkin' you're some pumpkins is a good deal like being blown up, anyway.

"Aw, shucks, I ain't going to spend it now."

For a few minutes I figured hard-ern Pa does when he's tryin' to make his salary string out for the last quarter of the year.

Fat is like a yearlin' calf. If there's somethin' he don't know about he wants to stick his nose in it, whether it's good for him or not.

"What's them?" says Fat. "Betcha can't get 'em in Whalionsburg."

"Betcha can't," says I. "Lemme take your nickel and see."

"Will you give it back if you don't, honest Jimjun."

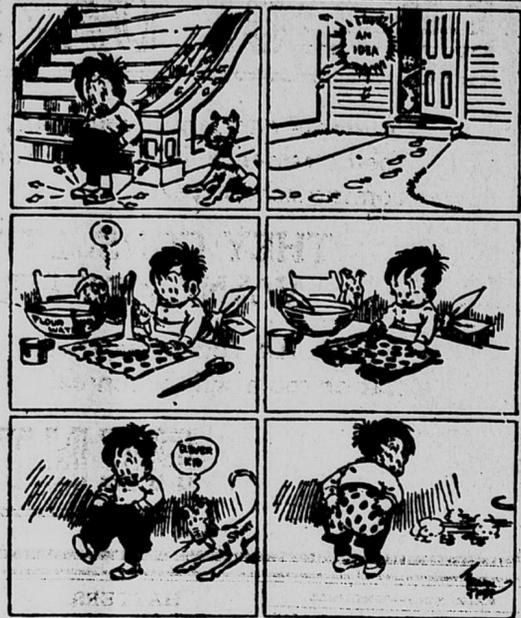

Lige Sherman's store. I pointed to the red and yaller motto candies.

"Gimme a nickel's worth of them wollypools drops," says I, grinning.

Mr. Sherman, he grinned, too, and weighed 'em out.

"Pickle Brown, them ain't nothin' but everyday motto candies!" yells Fat.

"You heard what I ast for, didn't you?" says I. We divided up. Gee, them wollypools was good! Fat is still trying to figure out why I called motto candies by that name. He gets left over scraps and you get ideas. Ideas is better than money. Any boob can have money just by luck, and then somebody with ideas takes it away from him.

MACK LOOKS FOR HARDEST SERIES

Says Coming Championship Games Will be the Best Country Has Seen.

Philadelphia, Pa., Sept. 4.—This will be the hardest fought world series that the country has ever seen," observed the long-legged, silent Cornellius McGillicuddy.

"I have some young pitchers who will give the Yankees a hard time," he said. "I'll give the silent Trishman, and they are Brown, Shawkey, Houck and Bush. Now, mind you, I am going to have in this world series two old timers, Plank and the Indian, Bender. These veterans took part in the first battle that I had with McGraw, also the second, and they are going to be features in this series, providing McGraw and I win out in our respective leagues."

"I realize that McGraw's club is stronger than it was in 1911," continuing the glowing forecast, "and I can see that my men have a battle ahead of them."

"No, I won't say that the Athletics will oust New York. I suppose a good deal of the credit for the breaks of luck. Now, I want to tell you about the first time my club bumped up against New York. You can draw your own conclusions. No manager is going to knock an opposing club in a world series, nor is he going to alibi. But here were the facts in 1905:

"Of course, I figured on pitching Waddell in the game, and that erratic southpaw threw me down. 'Rube,' who could outbox anybody on the club, broke half a dozen bats, and then a certain member of the club soaked Waddell with a uniform gag. It injured the southpaw's arm. That was the last of it, as far as Waddell's failure to appear in the 1905 series is concerned."

"Mathewson shut us out three games that series, and McGinnity did it once. Benazur also shined on Glantz, and I don't mind predicting that he is just as good now as he was then. Plank's games were 1-0 and 2-0. I had great pitching in that 1905 series, but Waddell's absence handicapped me."

"Neither Danny Murphy nor Harry Davis will get into this coming series, but they will be there with some timely advice."

"McGraw's club looks so much better than it did in 1911 that if I were a betting man I would say that it is an even wager between these two clubs, always supposing that each club the pennant."

West Point, N. Y., Sept. 4.—Great satisfaction was expressed here when the news was received that the army and navy athletic representatives had come to terms in the matter of their annual football contest and the game would be played in New York. Hope that an amicable settlement would be reached had not been abandoned even though the cadets had scheduled a game to be played here with the Carlisle Indians for November 25.

Just how the army will get out of the Carlisle muddle remains to be seen.

The news of a game with the navy put spirit into the 143 candidates who turned out today under the leadership of Lieutenant Suttan, football representative, and Captain Hoop of this year's army eleven. The army squad this year is the largest ever for a West Point team.

The army and navy teams are expected to arrive in New York two days before the game for practice. This will be followed on Friday by the corps of midites and cadets from the Annapolis and West Point academies and arrangements are already under way to entertain the visiting corps providing the academies' rules will permit such a break in discipline.

DIRECTUM 1 IS RACE SENSATION

Gives Fine Spectacle at the Grand Circuit Meet Yesterday Afternoon.

Hartford, Conn., Sept. 4.—Directum 1, the sensational pacing stationer of the season, gave spectators at the Grand Circuit races yesterday a fine spectacle of his speed when he took the 2:07 pace in straight heat.

The casual city 2:08 trot was won by Cheery after losing the first heat in the 2:09 trot brought over from yesterday. Pan Patch, who just lost a chance to capture the race, placed heat when James W. nosed her out at the wire, came back strongly and beat Cox's horse in a close finish.

Directum Surprises Crowd.

Directum 1 surprised the crowd by his wonderful speed. An excellent idea of the possibilities of this stationer when he is pushed to it, was to be found in the second heat, Directum 1, breaking at the quarter pole and dropping four lengths behind the field. He went after the heat, despite the difference in distance and caught the bunch at the turn into the stretch, coming home in second place. He made the last half mile in 1:00 1-2.

In the first heat of the Capital City trot, Cascade, Rhythm and Cheery were shut out. Marigold winning, but driver Fleming appealing to the judge and so did Okedale's pilot, with the result that Okedale, who drove Okedale, was called to the stand and a chance to capture the race, placed fifth because of unavoidable interference. That left Fleming's mare have another chance, and she made the most of it, coming home first in the next three heats in which she passed Marigold half way down the stretch in the first two and held the lead in the last all the way from the three-quarter pole.

Hollywood Kate had the first heat for three year olds almost won when the roan filly slipped and almost fell. George Rex, writing second, finished half too much for Murphy's colt in the second heat and won handily, when in the third another unexpected ending favored George Rex, as Tuna Z, with the race all but won, broke and George Rex came in a winner of the heat and the race.

M'Carey THROUGH WITH BIG "UNS"

Los Angeles, Cal., Sept. 4.—Tom M'Carey broke his silence maintained since the death of "Bull" Young and said he would re-open his Vernon fight arena after the court had disposed of his and the cases of Willard, et al. M'Carey figures on staging his first combat about September 13 or 16, but there will be no more Heavyweights. He will stick strictly to the little boys, but could give no idea of his first card.
